Draft Order Decided

Sept. 14 Goes First

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men from 19 to 26 years old born on Sept. 14 who have last names starting with the letter J will be the first ones drafted next month under the nation's first generation.

In less than an hour and a half Monday night, all 365 days of the year plus Leap Year's Feb. 29 were drawn at random from a big glass laboratory jar at Selective Service headquarters here.

The order in which they emerged, rolled up in blue plastic capsules, determines the order in which men with matching birthdays will be called for the draft next year—or, for those now deferred or exempt—in any fugure year when they become "1-A."

Draft oCmmittee Man

Rep. Alexander Pirnie of New York, ranking Republican on a House subcommittee on the draft, drew the first date from the jar shortly after 8 p.m.

Then a succession of young men and women—representatives of state youth committees created earlier this year as unofficial advisers to the Selective Service System—took turns drawing the rest of the dates.

The second one drawn was April 24; then came Dec. 30; then Feb. 14, Oct. 18, Sept. 6, Oct. 26, Sept. 7, Nov. 22, Dec. 6 . . .

Three youth advisers had refused to help in the drawing and a fourth balked when his turn came; four others helped in the drawing but only after making unscheduled statements—one reading a mild protest signed by 14 participants, and three others more or less supporting the proceedings.

Finished Quickly

Otherwise the drawing moved smoothly—so smoothly it was finished half an hour sooner than draft officials had anticipated.

Following the drawing of the dates, another drawing was held in which letters of the alphabet were scrambled and pulled out. This will be used by local boards to decide the order in which to draft the eligible men.

First out in the second drawing was the letter J.

The new lottery system was signed into law by the President last week and provides the first major reform in the draft since the Selective Service established a complicated form of induction during World War II.

Period of Uncertainty

The previous system, which included a long list of deferments, was criticized because it left young men uncertain about their fate for as long as seven years.

The new lottery system is designed to reduce this period of uncertainty to one year.

The last time the draft was based on a lottery was in 1942.

Every man who reaches at least 19 years of age but not 26 by the end of this year now has his place in line for the draft in whatever year he becomes 1-A

Brothers Place

1, 2 in Lottery

MADISON Wis. (AP) — Richard Stolman's birthday places him in the No. 1 group on the new draft lottery list. His older brother is a No. 2 draw.

"There was not much anyone could say," Stolman related Monday night after a telephone call to his parents in Nashville, Tenn. "Nobody could really grasp it."

Stolman, 19, is a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin. He was born Sept. 14. He said his brother, Douglas, 21, a senior at the University Kansas, was born April 24.

The younger Stolman said he was dazed but, "You've got to laugh about it."

Blaze in Canada

55 Missing in Fire At Home for Aged

NOTRE-DAME-DU-LAC, Que. (AP) — A home for the aged burned down to the ground in this tiny lakeside community today and police said as many as 55 of its inhabitants were unaccounted for.

Quebec Provincial Police reported that about a score of the 75-80 persons in the building were known to have escaped the blaze that swept through the wooden, three-story building on Lake Temiscouata about 120 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Known to be in the home were 69 elderly patients, 17 of whom were listed as crippled and unable to move about without aid. The home had about 10 staff members.

Nurse Fled

A male and a female nurse told police they had time only to leap from the windows after seeing flames racing through the building.

The fire started about 6 a.m.

Thirty local volunteer firemen and reinforcements from neighboring communities fought in vain against the blaze.

About 15 of those who escaped were taken to a hospital. The others took refuge in private homes nearby.

The weather: 6th graf A065 etc.

Weather in this tiny community of 1,500 was clear and cold when the fire started.

Police also reported that a small jewelry shop in the area was partially destroyed by flames.

Lake Temiscouata

The sleepy little town in on the main highway between Riviere du Loup and Edmundston, N.B. It is nestled on the shores of Lake Temiscouata in an area where lumbering is one of the main occupations.

Notre-Dame-du-Lac is six miles from Cabano, a Quebec town that was practically wiped out by fire along with its lumbering industry in the early 1950s.

That fire destroyed 120 buildings and left 1,000 people homeless. Damages were estimated at $16 million.

Fires in homes for the aged, orphanages and schools in Quebec Province have taken tragic tolls in the last 51 years.

Sixty-four children died in a fire at the Grey Nuns Orphanage in Montreal Feb. 14, 1918.

Early in 1927, 77 children died in a fire that started while a movie was showing at the Laurier Palace Theatre.

Forty-six pupils and teachers died Jan. 18, 1938, when fire roared through the Sacred Heart College at St. Hyacinthe, 38 miles east of Montreal.

Thirty-five aged persons and nuns died June 15, 1951, when fire destroyed Montreal's Hospice Ste. Cunegonde.

Surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital have successfully performed open-heart surgery on Ann Mary Flanders, who at five pounds, two ounces is the smallest patient ever to undergo a cardiac operation using the heart-lung machine. Nixon Calls for War on Hunger

Conference on Health Opens at White House

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon called today for a massive national commitment to end hunger and malnutrition and said, "The plain fact is that a great many Americans are not eating well enough to sustain health."

In an address prepared for a White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, Nixon urged support for three measures pending in Congress which, he said, "should virtually eliminate the problem of poverty as a cause of malnutrition."

One measure would put a floor under the income of every American family, supplementing or providing incomes for 25 million persons.

A Milestone

Nixon said the meeting of experts in the field marks an historic milestone and added: "It sets the seal of urgency on our national commitment to put an end to hunger and malnutrition due to poverty in America."

The President, who got a view of the angry mood of many of the persons invited to the conference even before his scheduled keynote address, said the central question until now has been whether the nation would accept the problems of malnourishment as a national responsibility.

Claim Responsibility

"That moment has passed," Nixon said. ". . . Speaking for this administration, I not only accept the responsibility—I claim the responsibility."

He said while action is required by our national conscience, practical terms compel action.

An ill-fed child, he explained, is dulled in curiosity, has lower stamina and is distracted from learning. An ill-fed worker produces less and is absent more.

The mounting cost of medical care resulting from illnesses relating to diet puts an economic burden on all society," Nixon said.

The President conceded there is room for argument about the extent and severity of hunger but not the existence of hunger itself.

Many Affected

"The plain fact is, he said, "that a great many Americans are not eating well enough to sustain health."

Money is one factor in eradicating malnourishment, Nixon noted, saying the $5 billion plus he has proposed for new or bigger programs for food and family assistance next year would go far toward controlling the problem.

It was in this connection that he plugged for a floor under incomes along with legislation to reform and expand the food stamp program and a bill to establish a Commission on Population Growth and the American Future.

Nixon promised full consideration of any recommendations the conference produces and said he expected "a lively difference of opinions."

Re-examine Findings

A follow-up conference a year from now will re-examine findings and what has been done about carrying them out, he said.

And Nixon pledged there will be no more conference reports gathering dust on government shelves or conference efforts withering in futility.

"I commit to your concern," Nixon said, "the lives of millions of Americans, too young, too old, or too hurt by life to do without your help. And I commit to your concern the not less serious task of helping to bring the rest of America to understand what we seek and to join us in adding this new dimension to the concept of American democracy."

GOP Leaders Seek Compromise Tax Reform Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders sought today to shape a compromise income tax cut proposal which can win both White House approval and Democratic support.

It is expected to include a limited increase in the personal exemption and some other changes for inclusion in the tax reform bill.

A cut to 23 per cent in the oil depletion allowance was written into the bill Monday.

The Republican compromise proposal, to be sponsored by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., would be proposed as a substitute for the amendment of Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to raise the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $1,000 for each dependent in four yearly steps.

The Gore measure is backed by Democratic leaders, but faces stiff administration opposition on grounds it would cost the Treasury too much revenue.

Debate Resumed

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the GOP leader, said Republicans hope the Percy plan—still being drafted as the Senate resumed its tax debate—will win administration endorsement.

He said it would involve an increase to $700 or $750 in the personal exemption, with adjustment in income tax rates as well.

Scott said estimates of the revenue cost are being prepared now.

He said the White House has taken no position on the GOP plan, but it is obvious the administration would prefer it to the Gore measure.

$1,000 Exemption

"We hope to persuade them that it is better to do this than to take an up and down chance on a $1,000 exemption," Scott said.

The Republican leader had said earlier he was inclined to support the Gore proposal. He said that drew a quick reaction from the administration—personal visits from officials of the Treasury and the White House.

"They looked pained," Scott said.

The administration spent a busy day Monday working to scuttle the amendments. Edwin S. Cohen, assistant secretary of the Treasury, issued a warning that Gore's amendment would cause a big additional net revenue loss to the government which "could not be counteranced."

Sen. Russell B. Long said he interpreted this to mean President Nixon would veto a bill with a $1,000 exemption in it. The Louisiana Democrat, who is Finance Committee chairman and floor manager of the bill, backs the administration in the fight.

Finance Suggestion

In accepting the 23 per cent oil and depletion allowance Monday, the Senate went along with its own Finance Committee.

A House version of the bill cuts the depletion allowance from the present 27½ per cent to 20 per cent.

The final reduction now will have to be worked out in the Senate-House conference.

This was the first time the Senate had voted to reduce the long-disputed allowance since the 27½ per cent figure became law in 1926.

Bitter Dispute

The allowance and personal exemption were the most bitterly disputed items in the bill.

Gore's tax reduction package with a $1,000 exemption would reduce taxes $14.8 billion in the long run compared with $9 billion of relief in the measure as approved by Finance.

The bill also would gain $6.7 billion in revenue through various reform provisions.

Long, in a letter to colleagues, said he was advised by the Treasury the $1,000 exemption would result in an additional revenue loss of $6 billion in the next three years.

Gore was backed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Democratic whip Edward M. Kennedy.

Pair of Hippies Arrested In Slaying of Sharon Tate

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two members of a wandering band of hippies were under arrest today and a third was being sought in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six others here last August.

Police said they would seek murder indictments against "four or five" other persons.

The honey blonde actress and four others were murdered at Miss Tate's Bel Air mansion Aug 9. The following day, several miles away, a wealthy merchant and his wife were killed in a so-called "copycat" slaying.

Under Arrest

Under arrest were Charles D. Watson, 24, of Copeville, Tex., and Patricia Krenwinkel, 21, of Los Angeles. Being sought was Linda Louise Kasabian, 19, also of Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles Times said members of a hate-oriented, occult band of hippies were suspected of the seven slayings, as well as at least four other "grotesque" murders in the Los Angeles area.

The only other killing listed by the paper was that of a 34-year-old music teacher, Gary Hinman, who was found stabbed Aug. 31 in his Topanga Canyon home some eight miles from the Tate estate.

The Times said police believe the victims were killed both to "punish" them for their affluent life style and to "liberate" them from it.

The paper said members of what it termed the mystical death-cult consider themselves the slaves of the leader of the group of 20th century nomads.

The newspaper said the police break in the case came two weeks ago when a young woman member of the hippie band told a police informer of the mass murders, recounting details which police said could be known only by the killers.

The arrests, the search for Miss Kasabian and the indictments to be sought culminate an intensive investigation by 19 detectives, Police Chief Edward M. Davis told a news conference Monday.

Detectives have concluded, Davis said, that the nomadic hippies "who committed the Tate murders" also stabbed the owners of a chain of markets, Leno and Rosemary LeBianca, to death.

Indictments Asked

The Los Angeles County grand jury is being asked for indictments against "all of the suspects, those we have named in warrants and four or five others, in all seven of the killings," said Police Inspector Peter Hagan.

State troopers hunted through hippie colonies in the Taos area of north-central New Mexico for Miss Kasabian. She is accused in Los Angeles murder warrants of killing Miss Tate, three of her jet-set companions and a friend of the teen-age caretaker on Miss Tate's estate.

Miss Krenwinkel, who pulled a hat over her head as police approached, was arrested Monday in Mobile, Ala., on a warrant almost identical to Miss Kasabian's.

Arrested by Cousin

Watson, accused in a warrant of killing only the caretaker's friend, Steven Parent, was arrested Sunday in McKinney, Tex., by his sheriff cousin, who summoned him to jail from Copeville by telephone.

The bodies of Parent, 18, and Miss Tate's jet-set companions —Hollywood hair stylist Jay Sebring, coffee heiress Abigail Folger and Polish playboy Voityck Frokowsky—were found scattered in and around the actress' home.

In both the Tate and LaBianca cases, police said, some of the victims were hooded and the word "Pig" was scrawled in blood. Police termed the killings "bizarre" and "ritualistic."

"The suspects," Davis said Monday, "appeared to live together in what might be described as a commune . . . It could have had some religious connotations connected with it."

Silent on Drugs

"I can comment and say religion, but I'm afraid if I commented on whether or not drugs were used this might prejudice the case of the defendants," Davis said.

At the time of the slayings, the group lived at the Spawn Movie Ranch west of suburban Chatsworth, Davis said. They then moved, the chief said, to "near the Death Valley National Monument in Inyo County."

Hagan said the group joined several other groups in what he described as a very large commune of hippies in the Death Valley area.

Sheriff's deputies said they arrested 26 "self-confessed hippies" in a military-style commune in the Death Valley area last October. Ten were held on a variety of charges including car theft.

The three named in the Tate warrants were not among them, but Davis said: "We suspect that someone in custody (in Inyo County) may be involved in the murders. It could be more than one person . . . We're going to bring the matter before the grand jury."

Motives in the Tate and LaBianca slayings "are difficult to perceive," Davis said, adding that robbery might have been a minor motive in the LaBianca case.

The killers had been at the Tate home "on a previous occasion when different people lived at the address," Davis said. He didn't elaborate.

"The indication at this time is that none of the suspects . . . have personally known any of the victims," he said.

Davis also said some weapons used in the slayings have been found, but "there are some weapons outstanding." He wouldn't describe them or say where they were discovered.

My Lai Won't Cut Support of Policy; Laird

Attorneys in Calley Case Ask Ban on Further Statements

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says he doesn't think the My Lai incident, in which an Army lieutenant has been charged with murdering 109 South Vietnamese civilians, will cost President Nixon any public support.

"I don't think it will hurt the President's program," Laird said Monday at the Pentagon. "But I don't want to say that this helps."

Laird said he thought Americans stood behind Nixon's plan "to remove the American involvement in ground combat as rapidly as possible."

Meanwhile, the prosecution and defense in the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., on charges of premeditated murder of 109 Vietnamese men, women and children, asked the U.S. Court of Military Appeals to ban further accounts in newspapers or magazines or on radio or television about the My Lai incident of March 16, 1968.

Injunction Considered

The court took the petition for an injunction under advisement.

During the court session, Calley's military defense counsel, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, said the court-martial would not be ready to begin until March.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., introduced a bill in the Senate to permit U.S. District Courts to try discharged servicemen for crimes they may have committed while in the service.

Many of the veterans of the My Lai action who have told their stories in public have left the service. Military courts have no jurisdiction once the men are discharged and civil courts have no jurisdiction for crimes committed in service overseas.

This rule was fixed by the Supreme Court in the 1955 case of Robert W. Toth, who was charged with murder and conspiracy to murder in Korea five months after his discharge.

Justice Hugo L. Black, with five justices concurring, wrote: "It is within the Congess' constitutional powers to provide for federal district court trials of discharged soldiers accused of offenses" while in the armed forces.

"There can be no valid argument therefore that an ex-serviceman can be tried by court-martial or not at all. If that is so, it is only because Congress has not seen fit to subject them to trial in federal District Court."

Second Soldier

The only other soldier charged in connection with the My Lai incident, S. Sgt. David Mitchell, remains on duty at Ft. Hood, Tex., pending results of a preliminary investigation.

Mitchell has been charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Col. William J. McNalley, information office at Ft. Hood, said, "He's on duty and is under no restraint." He said the investigation might be finished next week.

30 Enemy Artillery Attacks Launched In 24-Hour Period

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy shelling killed more Americans during the past 24 hours in Vietnam than in any other 24-hour period for nearly four months, the U.S. Command reported today.

U.S. headquarters also announced that American artillery bombarded North Vietnamese troops in the northern half of the demilitarized zone for the first time in two months after the enemy soldiers fired on and damaged a small U.S. observation plane.

A U.S. spokesman said 30 enemy artillery, rocket and mortar attacks were reported between 8 a.m. Monday and 8 a.m. today and that seven Americans were killed and 19 wounded.

Highest Total

The spokesman said this was the highest American death toll from such attacks since Aug. 11-12, when 11 U.S. troops were killed and 122 wounded in 149 shelling attacks.

Despite the comparatively heavy American toll in the past 24 hours, a U.S. communique said only two of the 30 attacks were against U.S. units or installations. A spokesman explained that some of the American casualties were at South Vietnamese bases where American advisers, artillerymen and other support troops are stationed.

One attack was a 15-round mortar barrage against the headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division 35 northeast of Saigon. A few Americans were killed or wounded there, and some helicopters were sprayed with shrapnel, causing light damage, the U.S. Command said.

Bu Prang

Some Americans also were killed or wounded at the Bu Prang Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border 110 miles northeast of Saigon. The camp has been under daily artillery bombardment for the past five weeks.

The U.S. Command spokesman said he could attach no particular significance to the American death toll. He added there had been times in the past four months when as many as six Americans had been killed in shelling attacks during a 24-hour period.

A U.S. spokesman reported ground fighting across South Vietnam continued light and scattered, but allied officers said intelligence indicates increased Viet Cong attacks may come during the week preceding Christmas. Allied communiques reported 100 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers killed, with most of the fighting in the Mekong Delta and the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

Casualties

One American and eight South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed, and eight Americans and 25 government troops wounded.

Col. Nguyen Van Chuyen, commander of the South Vietnamese 49th Infantry Regiment, said his troops on the western and southwestern flanks of Saigon had captured Viet Cong documents indicating another high point of activity from Dec. 19 to 23.

Chuyen said the documents indicate rocket and mortar shelling and sapper attacks by small groups of commandos are planned.

Increased Attacks

Other officials said they, too, had intelligence indicating increased enemy attacks across the country between Dec. 20 and 25.

Captured enemy documents often have been misleading in the past, however. They indicated an enemy high point in mid-November which never materialized.

Last year the Viet Cong announced a unilateral three-day cease-fire for Christmas but made a series of heavy attacks across the country in the 48 hours before the start of the cease-fire.

Among the few actions reported today, South Vietnamese troops and American Rangers killed 41 Viet Cong in two clashes 28 and 62 miles southwest of Saigon, headquarters said. Three South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and one wounded, and there were no American casualties.

Nixon Declares War on Hunger businessmen and professionals—was crystalized during the taping Monday of a panel on National Educational Television entitled "Hunger A National Disgrace."

In the audience participation program, one Negro woman told the panelists "We've been hungry a long, long time."

Another woman from Cleveland shouted at the panel, "We eat to survive. Give people food and they will work. Hungry people can't work."

And the Rev. Jesse Jackson, director of Operation Breadbasket of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a member of panel, declared "welfare guarantees starvation at 23 cents a day."

3 Day Conference

On the panel with Jackson were Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.; Dr. Jean Mayer, consultant to the President and director of the three-day conference; Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex.; John Kramer, executive director of the National Council on Hunger and Malnutrition; A. J. Yohalem, director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce; and Richard Lyng, assistant secretary of Agriculture.

One thing appeared almost certain: The conference will recommend a gradual phasing out of food stamp and commodity welfare programs in favor of a guaranteed income for all Americans.

McGovern said "We're moving toward this concept" and predicted "we can put an end" to hunger in a year if the administration and Congress establishes a goal that nobody goes hungry and provides adequate funding.

Indian Reservation

Yohalem, after watching a film showing the hunger and poverty on an Indian reservation in Arizona, said "hunger must be wiped out and it will be necessary to apportion the national wealth in a way that is equitable."

However, Congressman Price told the panel "I don't think we could get a guaranteed income through Congress at this time."

In advance of the conference 26 panels—made up largely of scientists, teachers and representatives of the food industry—made a series of recommendations dealing with food distribution, feeding the poor, educating the public on health matters and marketing.

Lottery Determines Dates for Call-Up

—"Available for military service"—or 1-A-O—"conscientious objector available for noncombatant military service only."

Some 500,000 men will begin 1970 in one of these classifications, fully exposed to the draft that year.

Another 350,000 now deferred or exempt will lose that status—many by graduating from college, for example—and become 1-A or 1-A-O during the year. That makes 1970 their "priority" exposure year too.

Of this 850,000 total, about 290,000 will probably enlist voluntarily in the armed forces, officials anticipate.

But another 260,000 must be drafted.

They will be, roughly, those whose birthdays appeared in about the first half of the list drawn Monday night.

Just how high up the list the draft will reach may vary considerably from one local draft board to another. But men whose birthdays lie in the first one-third of the dates as drawn are almost certain to be drafted.

Those drawn in the middle one-third may be uncertain for up to a year—until they receive a draft notice, or until the year ends without one.

Those in the last one-third are now virtually certain they will not be called in 1970. And the chances are even smaller they would be called in a future year.

The men almost certain to stay a civilian were born on June 8 and have last names starting with the letter V.

In 1971, the "priority exposure" will focus on a new group of men who have turned 19—and had their birthdays scrambled in a new lottery—in 1970.

Men who are deferred or exempt face "priority exposure" in any year when they become 1-A or 1-A-O, and they step into that year's line-up at exactly the place they were given originally—that is, either Monday night, or in a lottery the year then turn 19.

Public Statement

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who helped create the modern draft system and has headed it since 1941, opened the lottery ceremony, but did not take part in the drawing.

Interviewed afterward, Hershey—departing as director next Feb. 16—said he had known one of the student advisers would make a public statement during the drawing.

But Hershey said he was not disturbed by it and he felt those who made statements were entitled to express their views.

Some 25 youths stood outside Selective Service Headquarters during the drawing as a protest against the lottery. They distributed a statement calling it "a masterful practical joke on the American people."

The group dispersed without incident soon after the drawing ended.

AP Launches Contest for State Students

WAUSAU (AP) — Plans for the annual state high school journalism contest sponsored by member newspapers were announced today by Frank Plano, president of the Wisconsin Associated Press Association.

Plano, managing editor of the Wausau Record-Herald, said the contest once again would have two sections—one for student writers and one for student photographers.

Harry Hill, assistant managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal, will serve as contest chairman, as he has since the AP group started the competition in 1966, Plano said.

The AP association sponsors the contests in cooperation with the Wisconsin Journalism Teachers-Adviser Council and the Wisconsin Press Photographers Association.

Entry information, including copies of contest rules, has been mailed to more than 500 public and private high schools. All high school students in the state are eligible to enter. The entry deadline is April 1, 1970.

This will be the fifth year for the newswriting competition, which is conducted in four classes—news, feature and sports stories and editorials. The photo contests also are in four categories: news, sports feature and pictorial. This is the fourth year of this competition.

Plano urged that journalism teachers or advisors help their students plan suitable entries. Managing editors of AP daily newspapers throughout Wisconsin will answer questions or give any help they can to schools in their area.

Powell's Son Listed In Social Register

NEW YORK (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell III, son of the Harlem congressman, has made the New York Social Register for 1970, but under his wife's maiden name.

Powell was listed as the husband of Beryl G. Slocum, 1960 debutante and Newport socialite, whom he married earlier this year. There was no listing in the Mr. and Mrs. section and no reference under "Married Maidens."

Stroke Incapacitates South Dakota's Mundt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt, 69-year-old Republican from South Dakota, has been partially incapacitated by a stroke, his office says.

But the announcement Monday said Mundt's life is not in danger and he has no plans to step down from the Senate.

Mundt lost partial use of his right arm and has difficulty walking and speaking, an aide said. Doctors said he will be in Bethesda Naval Hospital for six to eight weeks.

Live Grenade Taken From Guerrilla

SAIGON (AP) — Using a pocket knife for a scalpel, a U.S. Army surgeon removed a live grenade from the face of a Viet Cong prisoner while a demolitions expert steadied the patient's head, the U.S. Air Force reported today.

The operation was performed several weeks ago, and the prisoner is now "in good condition up and walking around," the Air Force said.

The operating room was a sandbagged enclosure hastily thrown up on the helicopter pad of an Army hospital at Qui Nhon. It was considered too risky to carry the wounded man inside.

"And as if we didn't have enough trouble already, it began to rain," said the surgeon, Lt. Col. Thomas H. Witschi of Wading River, N.Y.

David Eisenhower No. 30 on List

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Eisenhower, son-in-law of President Nixon, is in the upper one-twelfth of draftable males in the United States.

Eisenhower's birthdate, March 31, was selected No. 30 among the 366 days of the year drawn Monday night in the national draft lottery.

Greek Blast at U.S. Stalls Appointment

Ambassador's Chair in Athens Could Remain Vacant Until '70

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Contemptuous remarks about the U.S. by a high Greek official are producing two wholly unexpected side effects: keeping the American Ambassador's chair in Athens vacant a bit longer and worsening relations between the State Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Moreover, the indiscretion of Panayiotis Pipinellis, foreign minister of the Greek military dictatorship, might just tip the balance against full resumption of U.S. military aid to Greece.

At issue is a top-secret briefing by Pipinellis for Greek ambassadors in Western Europe delivered at Bad Schniznach, Switzerland, on Aug. 26. Two weeks ago, we reported from a verbatim account of that briefing in which Pipinellis referred to the U.S. as a "so-called democracy" not to be trusted.

Evans

At that point, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was ready to recommend confirmation of Foreign Service officer Henry J. Tasca, nominated on Sept. 9 by President Nixon for the long vacant Athens post. But when Sen. J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas heard of the Pipinellis document, he informed the State Department that his Foreign Relations Committee would not act on Tasca until it had a chance to study the document.

Diplomatic Stall

The State Department went into a classic diplomatic stall. In response to three separate telephone calls from Fulbright aides, it curiously pleaded inability to locate a copy of the briefing — curious because a copy was actually in the State Department's hands before we obtained ours. Vexed with the State Department, Fulbright finally obtained a copy through private channels.

That means Tasca may not get confirmed before the New Year. More important, the effort of Sen. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island to put a rider on the foreign aid bill barring military assistance to Greece is strengthened.

In addition to Pipinellis' assault on U.S.-style democracy, he belittled Nixon's Vietnam and defense policies.

"We all thought that, after the Republican victory, there would be greater stress on rearmament and on strengthening the world's defenses," said Pipinellis. "But the real situation has proved quite different. Mr. Nixon went on to the far East without, as it seems, having decided on any concrete program other than a declaration to all Asians that America is returning to a policy of falling back to home."

News of U.S. troop pullouts "has been heard with disbelief," said Ppinellis, sarcastically referring to a $5 billion U.S. defense cutback as "good news."

New Campaign Chief

The easy victory of conservative Republican Philip Crane in last Tuesday's special Congressional election from Chicago's north suburbs will give 1. Lee Potter a graceful exit as staff director of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee — a move privately insisted upon by the White House.

Potter, Republican National Committeeman from Virginia, has been under criticism ever since the disappointing Republican showing in the 1968 Congressional elections. That criticism swelled this year when the Republicans lost three seats and gained none in special Congressional elections.

Party pros grumbled that Potter spent too much time on business interests in northern Virginia and not enough on candidate selection. Over the past two years, the committee's once impressive staff has disintegrated.

These complaints, strongly disputed by Rep. Bob Wilson of California, the campaign committee chairman, found fertile soil in the White House (which hasn't forgotten Potter's pre-convention coolness toward candidate Nixon in 1968). Accordingly, White House political aide Harry Dent has relayed the President's desire that a change be made.

The fact that the Republicans finally won the Illinois special election in a district where a Republican could not lose lets Potter quit gracefully. He is expected to resign before Jan. 1.

James Allison, the sharp young Texas political pro now deputy chairman at the Republican National Committee, could have the job but won't take it. In the running are Gus Owens, a field man for the campaign committee; Tom Lias, who left the committee to work under Dent at the White House; and Robert Bradford, executive director of the Illinois Republican party.

Anti-Agnew Youth

The electrifying high point in the recent meeting of Northeastern Republican state chairmen at Albany, N.Y., came from a most unlikely source: 17-year-old David Lloyd, chairman of Pennsylvania's highly-successful teenage Republican club.

Lloyd rocked a closed-door panel of 80 party leaders, including National Party Chairman Rogers Morton, by warning that Vice President Spiro Agnew's attacks on the younger generation were boomeranging.

Youthful Pennsylvania Republicans, said the Butler, Pa., high school senior, were being forced into "defensive unity for their own generation" against Agnew's attacks on "impudent snobs." Further, Lloyd predicted that "when my generation gets to be the majority they may be neither silent nor Republican" if Agnew continues his attacks.

A moderate on the Vietnam war, Lloyd has proved to be the most successful Republican organizer of youth in Pennsylvania's Republican party history. His main message to party elders was that Agnew's tactics, far from broadening the base of the Republican party, were reducing it. Eleven top party officials — national committeemen, women, and state chairmen — personally congratulated Lloyd.

Weiford's Loss a Serious One

The loss of the services of Douglas Weiford from state government is a most serious one for Wisconsin. Weiford headed the new Department of Local Affairs and Development created by the 1967 Legislature as part of the Kellett reorganization plan.

He was one of the brightest young planners and administrators to come into state service in recent years. He went to Madison from Eau Claire, where he had been the youngest city manager in the nation. He brought this background of experience to the newly created position in Governor Knowles' cabinet, and his presence promised much for the future effectiveness of the agency, which was supposed to mobilize state efforts to assist the urban areas of Wisconsin in the solution of their myriad problems.

Soon after his appointment in mid-1967, Weiford and his staff went to work preparing such a program, and he went before the 1969 Legislature with a package of proposals which were both practical and imaginative. But they ran head-on into a policy adopted by the joint finance committee that no new programs in state government would be funded for this biennium. It left Weiford with a position but not a job, heading a department without a program.

Weiford put it thusly in his resignation: "It became fully evident that a majority of the legislators were as yet unconvinced that state government has a vital and dynamic role in seeking new solutions to urban as well as rural problems, or indeed, that worsening urban problems even exist."

Weiford and his new department entered the state administrative picture at just the wrong time. The 1969 Legislature will go down on the records as the one which saved town government from destruction, but ignored the threat of cancer eating away at the population centers of the state.

The loss of the talents of a man like Doug Weiford is serious enough. No government and no other entity can afford to lose a man like him.

But if his warnings that terrible things are about to happen in the urban areas of Wisconsin are not heeded in the immediate future, the loss will become even more critical. Hopefully, Mr. Weiford's resignation will cause at least some legislators who are not complete captives of the town government lobby to reconsider and take a longer-range look at the problems of the areas where most of the people of Wisconsin live.

Did Agnew Get Idea from Greeks?

About a month ago the Government of Greece announced that it was lifting most of its restrictions upon the press, imposed when the colonels seized control of the regime some 2½ years before.

But press freedom is an illusory quantity in Greece today. A new press code, just announced in Athens, makes a mockery of claims of no censorship.

The code is designed to "cleanse and discipline" the Greek press and maybe this is where Vice President Spiro Agnew picked up his own ideas about the media in the United States. The code also says that the press has "been responsible for the decadence of Greek democracy" and that "severity is the mother of justice and freedom." In addition to the two page list of banned topics which had previously been given to editors, the new code requires courts to suspend publication of a newspaper if it twice commits certain offenses within five years. Any articles deemed to insult the king (who is in exile), the state religion, or which discloses military secrets, incites sedition, commits libel or propagates the views of any outlawed parties or groups will get publishers, editors and reporters all in trouble. Incitement to sedition can mean a prison term from five years to life. Publication of an article which might shake the public trust in the economy can bring six months in jail and a fine. Anything that is considered to have "rekindled political passions" is also taboo and no sentences for press offenses can be suspended. Misleading headlines "that do not reflect accurately the relevant text" are banned along with critical cartoons.

In many countries there has been a considerable amount of irresponsible journalism and the colonels now in control in Greece claim that this code is aimed in that direction. But this obviously has nothing to do with democratic ideals. The press in the Philippines is quite irresponsible too but its freedom is almost absolute and the government is making progress because of it rather than in spite of it.

There have been hints in Athens that Article 14 of the Constitution will be reactivated in an effort to prove that democracy is on the way back in Greece. But Article 14 is supposed to safeguard freedom of the press and this is clearly impossible as long as the current code remains in effect.

Later Tavern Hours Deserve Veto

Governor Knowles should veto the irresponsible act of the Legislature in extending the tavern closing hours to 2 a.m. weekdays and 3:30 a.m. Sunday mornings. This state has many critical needs which the 1969 Legislature has ignored, but more early morning drinking time is not among them.

The bill makes a mockery of the governor's long campaign to get drinking drivers olf our highways. Any person who can't consume enough booze or beer by 1 o'clock in the morning doesn't need another hour to increase his intoxication level. And if it's the tourist business the Legislature is concerned about, we already have a 2 a.m. closing hour during daylight saving time in the summer.

Since municipalities would retain the right of local option under the bill, it would increase the discrepancy between localities which retain earlier closing hours and those which are wide open, thus encouraging more early morning touring on the state's highways in search of last minute drinks. Hasn't the Legislature read the newspapers and noted that almost half of our fatalities occur from drinking drivers simply running off the road in early morning hours?

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson is to be commended for withholding approval of the bill during Gov. Knowles' absence from the state. Now that the governor is back he can make one of his first official acts the vetoing of this legislation.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 11, 1869.

Now that the term opens at College, shall we continue to be bothered as heretofore with such a variety of time?

Can not the Janitor, or the bell-ringer, take the trouble to go to the telegraph office occasionally, say twice a week, and get the time that the telegraph operator receives daily, at noon, from Chicago, and so help toward a uniform time?

Hitherto we have had car or correct time, water-power or early time, and College or late time.

For the sake of general comfort in removing the causes of irregular attendance at the opening exercises at all our meetings, whether at Churches, at Schools, or at other gatherings as well as in almost every department of business, we protest against these whimsical notions of convenience of a few at the expense of the multitude.

Tuesday, Nov. 28, 1944.

Appleton High School students demonstrating how to study by way of a one-act sketch included Jean Smith, Bill Bethke, Tom Sheehy, Greta Schroeder, Joseph Schiff, Lou Ann Shackleton, Kenneth Smith, Gretchen Schubert, Beverly Steffen and Marcel Simon.

Dr. William Read, assistant professor of geology at Lawrence College, was to discuss The Private Life of a Planet at the student convocation that week in Memorial Chapel.

Edward A. Reineck discussed development of plastics at a meeting of the combined Hi-Y clubs at the Appleton YMCA. Reineck was a member of the Institute of Paper Chemistry staff.

Tuesday, Dec. 1, 1959.

Actor Hal March became an honorary deputy sheriff of both Outagamie and Winnebago Counties when he was in town performing in the Neenah Rotary series play "Two for the Seesaw." One of his hobbies was the collecting of the badges, so Sheriff Robert Heinritz and Winnebago County Undersheriff Arvin Schrader obliged by presenting him with the badges.

Ronald R. Kidd, Appleton, was one of the 13 winners of McCormick Fellowships to Yale University. An instructor in music at Lawrence since 1955, Kidd was to study history of music at Yale. He received his bachelor degree at the University of Illinois, and his master's degree from the University of Texas, where he was a teaching assistant for two years.

Members of the Knights of Columbus and their wives spent a "Knight on the Farm" at the Columbus Club as a pre-holiday party. Co-chairmen of the event were Patrick Hart and Roman Griesbach.

U.S. Protection Of Japan Has Fueled Nation's Economic Boom

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

The quarter century since 1945 has been distinctive in a number of ways. For one thing, mankind has for the first time possessed instruments of destruction which could conceivably destroy life on this planet. Equally remarkable, though on a different level of reality, has been the elimination of the traditional balance of power in Europe and Asia. The two superpowers have totally dominated the field. France and Britain, for example, have more in common with Belgium than with the United States, and the U.S.S.R. similarly towers over its allies.

But in both Europe and Asia there have been holes in the map. In classic power terms, Germany and Japan have simply been out of circulation — on an extended vacation from world politics. Now suddenly, as Chancellor Willy Brandt sends out feelers to Moscow, Warsaw and even Pankow (the East German capital) and Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato negotiates with President Nixon, one gets the sense that these two great magnetic fields are regaining their potency.

Revival of Japanese

The rebirth of the "Eastern" or Rapallo strategy in Bonn will be explored in a subsequent column. Our concern today is with the implications of a revival of Japanese power. First of all, one must get a sense of the amazing capabilities of the Japanese. Less than a hour's flight from the Asian mainland with its appalling poverty, you enter a different universe, an incredibly organized technological society which currently supports a Gross National Product exceeded only by the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. My friends who follow these things closely indicate that the Japanese could not only have nuclear weapons inside of a year or two, but already have the rocket technology necessary for delivery systems.

Roche

With a population of over 100 million, an annual growth rate hanging around 10 per cent, a literate and disciplined people, the Japanese have been sitting peacefully under the Asian volcano defended by 250,000 volunteers and a military budget that takes less than one per cent of their G.N.P. In terms of Asian politics, Japan might as well have been located off Africa these past 20 years — we have the paradox of the giant without a shadow.

Ironically, Japanese "pacifism" was a product of the "military-industrial complex" — it was General Douglas MacArthur who imposed a pacifist constitution upon the Japanese. Indeed, those who accuse "American imperialism" of sinister plots against the post-war world have quite a problem ex-Japanese power. Any C plus Machiavellian would certainly have kept the Japanese queen on the Asian chessboard. But MacArthur utterly dismantled Japanese power — in institutional terms, he probably had a greater pacifist impact than Gandhi.

Best of Both Worlds

The Japanese have had the best of both worlds — pacifism is an easy way of life when there is someone out protecting the playground. This we have done, leaving the Japanese in the happy position of concentrating their amazing energies on making money. However, responsible leaders in Tokyo have never been under the illusion that the party would go on forever and have been deeply distressed by the gap that exists between their appreciation of power realities and the view held by the population at large, which understandably likes the cocoon.

Premier Sato's task is to stage Japan's re-entry into Asian politics by educating his people on the responsibilities their nation must accept in stabilizing the Asian future. He has already done a remarkable job on the economic level — Japan is, for example, a major supporter of the Asian Development Bank. But now the American messages are getting harder. Former Vice President Humphrey recently told a Tokyo audience that "the American people would welcome a chance not to be here," and the general American mood of withdrawal must give Sato reason to worry about Japan's being sent out into the cold. In short, the giant must start throwing a shadow — the golden era is over.

Strictly Personal

American Prisons Are Social Disgrace

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I cannot believe that the public is truly concerned about crime, its causes and consequences, as long as most people remain so ignorant, so vindictive, so hypocritical, and so stupidly cruel in their attitudes toward prisoners and prisons.

A century ago, most people felt the same way about mental illness. The mentally ill were called "lunatics," were confined, flogged, starved, scorned, and generally regarded as incurable. We have come a long way in the effective treatment of mental illness in a century.

But our so-called "correctional" system has scarcely moved an inch since the American Correction Association was formed 100 years ago. Our prisons are, for the most part, a disgrace — ignored by the public, run by political lackies, riddled with corruption, and turning out far more criminals than they take in.

Every honest professional worker associated with prisons knows this to be true. Doctors know it, chaplains know it, psychologists know it, probation and parole officers know it — the jail neither reforms men nor makes them penitent, but rather corrodes them, embitters them, cuts off their incentives, and sends them back into the free world in worse shape than when they entered.

The social cancer of crime in our midst costs our country billions of dollars, quite apart from the human suffering. In the last few decades, crime has risen four times as fast as the population, and it is obvious that punishment and prisons do not deter: Those states with the severest penalties do not have a lower crime rate than others.

Harsher laws and stiffer sentences are meaningless in themselves, if our prisons are not converted from chambers of vengeance to halls of learning; if first offenders are not separated from habitual criminals; if the chance to learn a trade, earn some money, and have normal associations is denied or just given lip-service; and if the whole prison system continues to be administered by ill-trained, underpaid, "career" patronage workers who have a vested interest in perpetuating the injustices of the system

If the moral argument does not move you — that men cannot be treated like animals and then expected to respond like disciples — then consider, in practical terms, how wasteful, expensive, and ineffective the whole absurd business is. For a fraction of the cost of incarceration and security, we could obtain a hundredfold better results by putting the money into treatment of most offenders in their own community, as some enlightened countries already do.

Tomorrow I will discuss the sexual scandal of our prisons.

Wisconsin Report

Legislature Improves Its Image With Strong Law and Order Stance

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A State Legislature is often on the defensive because it is inherently clumsy, cumbersome and gives the appearance of ineptitude, like the fat girl at a dance. With 133 members, it is difficult to manage with an appearance of precision and efficiency. Most of those members want to make speeches, most of which tend to be dull. The minority party does its best to impede and delay to make a record for itself by indirection, which includes making life as difficult as possible for the majority party members.

Whatever the objective judgment of the populace on the performance of the 1969 legislature thus far — and there is obviously much criticism and reserve on many legitimate issues — that indigenous appearance of clumsiness is an additional danger factor for the Republicans as they contemplate the renewal of combat with the optimistic Democrats next year.

Start Seeing Sun

But some of the GOP majority are beginning to see some sun through the clouds, and especially in the progress being made on some of the most important proposals for strengthening and modernizing law enforcement in many years.

The problem of crime and the criminal, of violence and disrespect for the standards of earlier generations, is one of the deep public worries of the times, as the public opinion polls have attested. One startling report the other day recited that this country has a higher crime rate, by far, than any of the other countries with stable governments in the world.

Given the public concern about such matters, on the one hand, and the defensive position of the Republicans in control of the state on the other, it requires no great insight to perceive a "law and order" theme emerging as one of the potentially usefull tools of the party as it prepares for the polling in 1970.

Principal authors of a series of far-reaching new bills intended to reduce crime by strengthening criminal laws and law enforcement machinery are Atty. Gen. Robert Warren and Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Most To Become Law

It can be predicted with reasonable certainty that most of their major propositions will be enacted into law, some of them with the help of Democrats who are aware of the direction in which the winds of public opinion are blowing.

Already enacted, for example, is a bill to establish the first criminal identification center in Wisconsin. It says something about the tardiness of the state is recognizing the problems of sophisticated modern crime and criminals that Wisconsin is the last state in the union, except Nevada, to take such a step. The Assembly has approved and the Senate is likely to approve a bill to make private wire tapping illegal and to grant to law enforcement officials under strictly limited conditions — including the explicit authorization of a magistrate — the right to use the tools of electronic surveillance in their work.

Because he and others are convinced that there is organized crime in Wisconsin, Warren had little difficulty in persuading the legislators to give him an omnibus crime fighting bill that will make the office more effective, in courageous and diligent hands, than it has ever been before.

Other Gains Cited

Wisconsin has a new narcotics law. A proposal for a law enforcement standards board that would qualify policemen and prospects for training academy that would improve the qualifications of enforcement officers in a time of increasing problems in crime detection and criminal apprehension are good to excellent. There is also a reasonable chance that the long and somewhat absurb fragmentation of authority for enforcement in the field of consumer law enforcement will be resolved, with the responsibility put in the hands of the State Department of Justice where it probably belongs.

Simultaneously, on other fronts there are developments that are almost certain to have widespread sympathy and support — except perhaps from a tiny fraction of youthful rebels — as in the increasing firmness of the regents of the state's institutions of higher learning with respect to rules of behavior on campus, including student respect for rules and regulations, and such matters involving student conduct as the more stringent regulations on visiting privileges of students of the opposite sex in private living quarters.

Unless all the readings of the public opinion analysts are going awry, these will be welcomed by the electorate and may yet provide a legislative image that will overcome some of the failures and defaults of the year.

Safety, Education Top Rules for Toy Buying

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you're the average young American buyer of toys, a discouragingly huge proportion of the toys you give will be broken within a few hours of the time they are opened. Or they will be utterly ignored by the children you expected would be ecstatic with your choices. (One well-to-do family I know went through an annual humiliation of watching their child cart his expensive new toys down the road on Christmas afternoon to trade them for those received by neighbors.)

Or, you may discover the day before Christmas that the neatly packaged toy you selected in a department store comes in a dozen or more pieces which you must assemble yourself. Even if you can do it, a piece or two may be missing — and there certainly isn't time to replace the toy.

Porter

To guide you this Christmas in getting the most for the dollars you spend on toys here is a list of do's and don'ts I've compiled with the help of a half-dozen sources in the toy industry.

Don't buy a toy solely because your child has just seen it irresistibly advertised on TV. Instead, take each child to one or more toy stores — to explore his interests and instincts. Creative Playthings, which pioneered today's educational toys, recently opened a toy store in New York City, complete with baby-sitters, in which children are encouraged to play with a variety of toys while their parents shop. Ask each child to thumb through the toy catalogs you have received from the better toy manufacturers.

Individual Interests

Select toys according to the individual needs and interests of each child. Make sure each toy you buy also is appropriate for his age and his capabilities. If your child thinks he wants to become a doctor, or is merely fascinated by how his own body works, there are real stethoscopes available. If he is mechanically minded, there are miniature V-8 engines mounted in transparent blocks which can be taken apart and, hopefully, reassembled. For the athletically oriented, there are sturdy geodesic "Playdomes" which can be used as jungle gyms, or covered to make a tent or playhouse. For the mathematically inclined, there are problem puzzles, logic games, even computers.

Don't forget safety aspects. Although we now have federal laws covering dangerous children's toys, many highly dangerous ones remain on the market. Beware of teddy bears with button eyes attached by sharp pins, of small detachable parts which can be swallowed by small children, of toys made of brittle plastic or glass. Look for Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. (UL) tags on electrical toys and if a toy is painted, see if the label specifies non-toxic paint. Your key question is: Is this toy safe for this child's age?

Try to find toys which will educate rather than merely entertain. An enormous amount of learning goes on at the very earliest ages, including early infancy — if the child is stimulated to learn. And remember that, especially with very little children, learning is more fun than anything else.

Use Imagination

Don't present your child with "instant" playthings such as complete, prearranged doll houses, puppet show outfits with all the scripts included, ready made barnyards with immovable animals. Instead, give toys which will encourage him to use his own imagination.

Remember that a child is not necessarily impressed by a bewildering number of toys. A few really fascinating ones which you have chosen carefully may mean a lot more to him.

And don't forget, finally, that most young children are not aware of the expense of toys. An intriguing $1 gadget can be just as entrancing as a $50 "do-everything" doll.

You may not really believe it but toys are for children.

Knowles Won't Oppose Sanguine Now

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Facts, not emotions, must decide the fate of the controversial Project Sanguine in northern Wisconsin and Gov. Warren P. Knowles says that he needs more facts before he will try to stop the project.

At a rare news conference here, Knowles said he would not appeal to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to stop the proposed underground radio antenna planned for burial in 26 Wisconsin counties unless serious scientific studies indicated real hazards to the environment.

Charles Hill

Emotional arguments being used at present do not indicate hazards from low voltage electricity spilling over into the soil of the area, he said.

The proper group to make such studies is starting work in that direction, he said, pointing to the state Natural Resources Board.

Response to Question

Knowles made his statement in response to a question regarding State Natural Resources Secretary Lester P. Voigt's warning to the Defense Department that Sanguine could turn the northern part of the state into a "wasteland" if dangers cited by opponents of the system develop.

Knowles said that foes of the Navy project had not shown "definite proof of an adverse effect" stemming from the project undergoing testing in the Chequamegon National Forest.

The gigantic grid is proposed for one-way communication with submerged missile carrying submarines under all conditions, including an attack on the United States.

It has been proposed for Northern Wisconsin because of the unusual subsurface rock structure there which makes the system practical.

Any decision regarding the future of the project, he said, "I hope will be based on facts, not emotions."

He denied that the issue was becoming political, with Democrats opposing the project and Republicans supporting it, as some have charged.

The Pentagon has indicated that it will not push further funding for testing of the project, but buried in an appropriations bill in Congress is the money needed to finish the testing of the controversial project.

Knowles also announced that he has appointed Charles Hill of Madison to be temporary secretary of the Department of Local Affairs and Development.

Hill has been deputy to Douglas Weiford, who last week resigned the post to take a planning firm post in Chicago.

Knowles said he could understand the "frustration" felt by Weiford over the refusal of the Legislature to accept his proposals and funding programs.

Weiford's budget was deeply cut by the Legislature during the budget debate last summer — at least in part because of the department's activities in black self-help programs in Milwaukee's inner core and because of opposition to a regional state service reorganization promoted by Knowles and Weiford and opposed by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Knowles added that he has not been told by Joseph C. Fagan, in a similarly unhappy status with lawmakers, of any intentions by Fagan to resign to take a Nixon administration post.

Knowles backed away from an outright refutation of suggestions that state GOP Chairman Ody J. Fish's recent resignation stemmed at least in part to the split between the moderate Republican Knowles administration and conservative GOP legislative leadership.

He said that Fish is an honest man, and that his statement that he resigned because of the pressures of the GOP leadership post on his family life was probably accurate.

But Knowles rejected suggestions from Knowles' associates who said after the resignation that Fish had wanted to quit last June, and only a personal plea from Knowles convinced him to stay on for a rare third term he has now quit.

In other comments, Knowles said:

—That South America is a wide-open market for Wisconsin products, and that the just completed state trade tour there resulted in $1.2 million in contracts and potential sales in the next 10 years ranging up to $250 million.

—That he has no present plans to resign and that he has had no discussions of a federal post with Nixon.

"I wish I could convince you to put that speculation to rest," he said to the gathered reporters. "I know that news is scarce at this time of the year — but I want to put my views on record. . . I have had no offer made and I am not seeking any."

—That there is still time for the 1969 Legislature to write a productive record durign its brief, two-week session planned for January.

To do that, said Knowles, the outdoor resources and antipolution bonding package should be passed, along with traffic safety laws such as implied consent and special aids cut by the lawmakers from the state budget for needy families.

"I am always optimistic and say that where there is life, there is hope," said Knowles of prospects of legislative passage of such proposals.

Political Pressure Charged For Change Over Sanguine

MADISON (AP)—The head of a committee resisting the Navy's proposed Project Sanguine said Monday that "political pressure" may have been brought to bear on the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) regarding the communications system.

K. D. Shifferd, chairman of the "State Committee to Stop Sanguine," noted that a DNR spokesman had announced last week the electrical side effects from the project might not be as hazardous as feared earlier.

"We can only speculate," Shifferd said in a statement "That political pressure has been brought to bear behind the scenes and once more interfered with the public interest."

Lester Voigt, secretary of the DNR, denied the allegation.

Opposition to the Sanguine project has centered on concern over what the high voltage from buried cables might do to plant and animal life.

The global communications system would require an underground transmitter grid under parts of 26 northern Wisconsin counties.

Voigt said one of his department's top engineers, L. F. Motl, was advised by the Navy last week that figures upon which he based his earlier predictions were "no longer current."

The early tests had indicated to DNR engineers that Sanguine could render larger areas of northern Wisconsin almost uninhabitable to wildlife and endanger human lives.

After discussing the matter with the Navy last week ,Motl said the "potential electrical hazards from Sanguine have been overplayed."

Voigt said the final design of Sanguine apparently has not been completed and that his engineers would study the final plans when they become available.

Army Captain From State Dies in Vietnam

Cyprian Ekwensi, chief of broadcasting in Biafra, discusses the continuing war in his country. He talked Monday on the Lawrence University campus. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Biafran Talks at Lawrence

U.S. Urged to Help End Nigerian War

Cyprian Ekwensi, a Biafran author and head of all broadcasting in that country, calls on the United States to impose an embargo on war materials into Biafra and neighboring Nigeria to end a war that has in three years cost the lives of two million people.

Ekwensi spoke at Lawrence University Monday night at the invitation of the school's anthropology department.

He claimed that the United States had surrendered its independence "by playing a game of pawns with secondary world powers" in not taking action to end the war.

The war, he said, "is simply a war of survival for Biafrans who face annihilation at the hands of the Nigerians." He indicated that the war had been escalated by foreign infusion of weapons and technical personnel and cited instances of Russian-built MIGs, flown by East Germans and Egyptions, straffing and bombing Biafran women and children.

Biafra is a country rich in petroleum, Ekwensi said, a fact which accounts for the interference of outside, oil-hungry powers.

About 3,000 Biafrans die each day of hunger in some 10,000 refugee camps in Biafra," he said. The International Red Cross, he added, has not given aid to Biafra because it is run by a host of countries, some of which are obviously opposed to the BIAFRAN POSITION. A number of national Red Crosses do provide some assistance.

Although many African nations have gained their independence, Ekwensi said, they have not achieved economic independence, a fact that makes them subject to the diplomatic wishes of the country which has the controlling economic interest. For this reason, most African nations are not permitted to be true to their consciences concerning the Biafran situation, he said.

This economic dependence on European factions by African nations come about by design, he said, citing the huge loans readily given to the small new nations as purposely generous and at times unnecessary.

ACLU Claims Oshkosh Ordinance Is Illegal

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union has filed suit in U.S. District Court, challenging the constitutionality of an Oshkosh ordinance that makes it illegal to ride in a vehicle with a drunken driver.

The suit was filed Monday, and the court took no immediate action.

The ordinance, which carries a maximum penalty of $200 or 90 says in jail, "violates citizens' freedom of association and assumes the plaintiff to a role of judge and jury, without experise, training and generally knowledgability as to legal and technical conclusions concerning intoxication," the suit said.

Named as defendants in the suit were Oshkosh City Atty. John Pence and Police Chief Harry Guenther.

The suit was filed on behalf of Robert L. Luhn, 21, of Greendale, a student at Oshkosh State University, who was arrested and jailed Nov. 1 after a car in which he was riding was involved in an accident.

The driver of the auto was charged with drunken driving. Luhn was released after posting $50 bail, and the charge against him was later dropped.

The ACLU suit asked the court to declare the ordinance unconstitutional. It also asked that the city be enjoined from further prosecution of Luhn; that his arrest record be expunged and that the city be enjoined from enforcing the ordinance against the general public.

State's Budget Balance Predicted at $175,000

MADISON (AP)— The state's budget in January will show a razor-thin balance of $175,000, a member of Gov. Warren P. Knowles' operating cabinet predicted Monday.

Wayne McGown, secretary of the Department of Administration, told the governor's cabinet meeting the balance would amount to about one one-hundredth of one per cent of the state's nearly $1.6 billion budget.

"We're down to rock bottom," McGown said. "Any legislation passed from here on which calls for more spending won't be funded unless it carries an appropriation."

He said his figures for January were based on the assumption that the legislature will give final passage to a pending unclaimed property bill which is expected to yield about $5 million.

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, who recently signed into law an $8 million fringe benefit bill for state employes, said at that time he believed the legislature would approve the unclaimed property bill.

Douglas Weiford, who has resigned as secretary of the Department of Local Affairs and Development, effective Jan. 1 told Knowles he was leaving state government with "mixed feelings."

Weiford, former city manager of Eau Claire, said his service as head of the state agency presented a "tremendous challenge" and his hopes for the department were not always realized because of frequent opposition from the legislature.

"There was a consistent rejection of the concept of the department by some legislators," Weiford said, "but I'm quite convinced Wisconsin will get involved" and accept the department in the future.

Views on State Reform Are Mixed

MILWAUKEE (AP) — State Revenue Secretary James Morgan and retired Neenah industrialist William R Kellett offered views of pessimism and optimism regarding state government Monday as they spoke at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper League

Morgan said the Legislature has been unresponsive to long-range tax needs of the state He said he saw little chance for legislative enactment of a substitute tax reform bill scheduled for consideration next month

The secretary, who served as vice chairman of an advisory committee that studied taxation and local government reorganization, said rejection of the Tax Task Force tax bill represented a serious blow to tax reform efforts

Brighter Outlook

Kellett who headed the blue ribbon group that planned reorganization and streamlining of Wisconsin state government, provided a slightly brighter outlook as he reported on plans for educational reform

Kellett is chairman of a group established by the governor last March to formulate educational streamlining

Among preliminary recommendations, Kellett said was one that would suggest an overall commission to supervise all education in the state and be directly responsible to the governor and the Legislature

"I don't think this will be denied," Kellett said

He also said his commission has recommended that the office of superintendent of public instruction should be appointive rather than elective

"We've got a chance in Wisconsin to make a new image," Kellett added, between the two-year university campuses and the vocational schools to provide a simplified educational system in which students might move from one to another without loss of credits as career goals change

He noted that about 70 per cent of Wisconsin young people do not complete four years of college He said the "mission of education" must be to give young people to choose between vocational or collegiate education.

Daniel C Beisel, publisher of the Green Bay Press-Gazette, was elected president of the league, succeeding Louis Lange Sr , publisher of the Fond du Lac Commonwealth Reporter

Marshall Johnston, general manager of the Janesville Gazette, was named vice president, succeeding Beisel in that office

Mail Order House Denies Link With Danie Brewster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen Daniel B Brewster, a millionaire Maryland Democrat, has been charged by a federal grand jury with accepting $24,500 in bribes in exchange for votes on postal rate legislation

The indictment, returned here Monday after a long investigation, said Brewster accepted the money in five payments over a three-year period from Spiegel Inc., a huge Chicago mail order house

Spiegel and its Washington lobbyist, Cyrus T Anderson, were also indicted, but no corporate officers of Spiegel were named

In Ireland

Brewster, 46, unseated last year by Republican Charles McC Mathias, was reported at his wife's estate in Ireland where he has spent much of his time since leaving the Senate in January

In Chicago, Spiegel issued a statement emphatically denying "any wrongdoing or impropriety " It expressed confidence it will be absolved "after all facts are disclosed in a court of law "

The 10-count indictment said Brewster received the money from Spiegal and Anderson to influence his "action, vote and decision on postage rate legislation" while a member of the Senate Post Office Committee

Space Shots Provide Easy Out for Parents

By ALLEN NACHEMAN
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND Ore (AP) Are you one of those cynics who sit in front of the television set with a pencil and paper during the moon shots and figure what it's costing you in taxes"

The Apollo program is running around $25 billion and the population is about 200 million so each of us is kicking in an average of $125, right"

And you'd like yours back in cash

I used to feel that way, but the coming of Christmas has brought me to my senses It hasn't made me more patriotic, just more mercenary I see now that it would cost me less in the long run to get the government run the space program than to conduct it in my living room, which is the alternative

Spending Season

This is the season when strange people come into your home through the television set and explain to your children how they can spend twice your salary And my 3-year-old is beginning to understand that they re talking about

He sits in front of the set and watches Major Matt Mason driving his space buggy around Venus and he looks at me wide-eyed and asks, "Hat dat?"

But then the network news cuts in with pictures of the real astronauts walking on the moon and I can say to the kid, "We can't buy Major Matt See? He's working for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration

Easy Out

This is easier for him to understand than if I tell him, ' Listen, kid Your old man isn't making enough to support four people, a dog and a space program "

Has all this been getting by you? Have you been raiding the refrigerator during every commercial?

Major Matt, a 6-inch plastic doll, sells for $2 99 and his buddy, astronaut Jeff, is $2 44 Their talking space station, which furnishes authentic astronaut jargon at the pull of a string, goes for $7 99

A powerful lunar tractor and protectively tinted space bubble to carry Matt and Jeff around your living room cost $8 99 and a mobile satellite launcher with its own 40 x 24 inch moonscape is $11 99 Are you taking this down?

Billy Blastoff

Billy Blastoff, America's first boy in space, outfitted with space car, sled, tractor and crawler, is $5 99

The deluxe Billy Blastoff set, including Robbie the Robot, radar scope, walkie-talkie and radio active material," $10 99

A moon copter with whirling blades, and an eight-wheel space mobile are $4 99 apiece

Callisto, the astronaut from Jupiter, with transparent skull and esoteric extras, goes for $2 44

Lost in space robot $6 88

Blast off to the moon kit, $7 99

Demands for a black studies department were among issues listed in February by Negro students who sponsored a classroom boycott campaign

Spokesmen for the plan said the department would offer more than 40 courses, dealing in Afro-American literature, society and history

To Your Good Health

Don't Worry if a Tot Awakens During Night

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 2 and doesn't yet sleep all night long. I don't think he has slept the night through without waking up for two months out of his two years.

Most of the time he wants something to drink. Other times he just wakes up crying, but I don't know of a thing that could be bothering him.

Should I take him to some kind of specialist, or to our family doctor? — Mrs. R. H.

When kids wake in the night, they usually have to do something — cry, fuss, demand a drink of water.

But why does your son wake? That's the question. He may be getting more sleep than he needs. First suggestion would be cutting, or even eliminating, his afternoon nap.

One possibility is that he is hungry. A small snack before bedtime might help; milk or a bit of cereal or such.

If these don't help, mention the problem to your pediatrician or family physician, but I wouldn't be unduly alarmed about this sort of thing until you've tried the simple remedies.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband weighs 302 pounds and has tried everything from shots to pills, but just can't lose any weight. Could an underactive thyroid be his trouble. I have heard this causes a great deal of trouble. — Mrs. T. L. R.

A lazy thyroid can lead to overweight, but I mean that it must truly be an underactive thyroid. It rarely leads to 302 lbs. Appropriate tests by his doctor will disclose whether he really has this trouble or is merely using it as an excuse instead of going on a suitable diet.

If his thyroid is underactive, it is fairly simple to pep it up by suitable medication — that phase of weight reduction is one of many aspects discussed in my booklet, "The Real Secrets of Reducing." Have your husband send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and he will find a number of ideas in the booklet that will help him lose his excess weight, which is dangerously high. The shot-pill routine does not work. What about his eating and drink and exercise habits? These are the cruicial factors.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 74 and for some time have worn a truss for a hernia in the groin. I do not do any lifting, pushing, etc., but it is hard to keep the truss in place — have to keep adjusting the straps.

My general health is very good. Should I consider surgery? It is difficult, I am sure, to answer my questions without knowing more facts than I have given, but I would like your general opinion. — O. S. G.

You're right, I can't give a positive answer, but in general I would say yes, consider surgery.

Avoiding lifting or straining is wise on your part, but that does not necessarily prevent the hernia from becoming strangulated, nor keep it from enlarging. Hernias get gradually worse, not better.

Thirty years ago I probably would have said, "At your age, be careful and see if you can't bet along with the truss."

Today, with improved surgical techniques and much better methods of post-operative care, if the patient's health is otherwise good, I usually advise: "Consider surgery. It won't be hard on you, and it will avert the risk of strangulated hernia, which is very dangerous indeed."

Besides, if the hernia gradually becomes worse, as is expectable, a few years from now you might need the surgery but no longer be in shape to accept it comfortably.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

New Image for Tobacco Road

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tobacco Road, made famous in Erskine Caldwell's novel about poor whites in the depression, may have its name changed.

The notoriety of the road, on the outskirts of Augusta, is a deterrent to real estate values, according to Howard W. Pollard, executive director of the Augusta-Richmond County Planning Commission.

"Interest in this has been expressed by several different sources," said Pollard. "I'm not trying to destroy the historical significance of Tobacco Road, but it's image is not understood outside of the Augusta area."

The name of the road dates back to the days before cotton replaced tobacco as the predominant crop in the area.

AHS-East to Feature Modern Compositions

An original composition and a piano concerto will highlight the Appleton High School East orchestra concert, at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The composition, "End of the Quest," is by Curt Schwebs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Schwebs, 1501 E. Glendale St. He began playing the violin in the fifth grade and the guitar in seventh grade. For three years he was a member of a rock group which performed many of his compositions.

The youth made his debut as a singer-guitarist this fall in a recital. He studied music theory and has been an active member of the orchestra throughout high school.

Greig's piano concerto will be performed by Thomas Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stevens, route 1, Menasha. Stevens has had only sporadic lessons and no piano of his own until this year when he began studying with Greg Nagode of Lawrence University.

He has won a number of firsts at district music festivals, is a member of the Concert Chorale and is a member of the Madrigal Singers.

The Thursday concert will be conducted by Mrs. William F. Wilke.

Modern Concert

Outside of a medly of traditional Christmas carols, the program consists almost entirely of contemporary compositions.

One piece, entitled "Synthesis of Orchestra," by Milwaukee born Otto Luening, includes a tape of electronically sounds.

Two other members of East's orchestra to be featured will be Thomas Froehlich on the harpsichord and Kathy Conrad, cello, in the Christmas medly.

"The only way to age a brandy is to age it in oak."

Ask any expert. One sure way to make a brandy smooth is to age it in oak. That's why we age Almadén Brandy in oak barrels. Little oak barrels. We keep it in touch with the wood, because that's how a brandy gets mellow and creamy and smooth. Try Almadén Brandy. You'll see: A little barrel makes a big difference.

Murder Charged In Shotgun Death Of Deer Hunter

PORTAGE (AP) — A 36 - year - old Milwaukee laborer, Paul J. Marman, has been charged with first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of a Milwaukee deer hunter, Columbia County authorities said.

Marman, who pleaded innocent, was declared indigent and given a court-appointed attorney. No date was set for preliminary hearing and Marman was being held in Columbia County jail under $50,000 bond.

He was charged in the death of James Derrick, 48, of Milwaukee, whose body was found Saturday night in his house trailer near Pardeeville.

Kenneth Rehul, the Columbia County coroner, said Derrick had been dead for about a week and had been shot in the face with a shotgun at close range.

Derrick, whose car was found in a Milwaukee parking lot by police on Sunday, was found dead by a man who lived near the trailer, and had been asked to go there to deliver a message.

Former Slave Dies In Milwaukee at 111

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Grace Jones, born a slave more than a century ago, died Sunday. She remembered life on a 19th century Texas plantation but was unaware man had reached the moon.

Officials at a nursing home where she lived for several years said Mrs. Jones was born in Texas of slave parents Feb. 17, 1858, five years prior to President Lincoln's emancipation proclamation.

They said she could recall her parents having worked in fields, but that she couldn't grasp recent events—such as the Apollo moon voyages or President Nixon's election.

Residents of the nursing home said her favorite pastimes were strolling and chatting. She died after being admitted to Milwaukee County Hospital. There were no survivors.

Safety Head Says Law Not Stiff Enough

RIPON (AP) — Wisconsin traffic laws do not deal vigorously enough with motorists who drive after consuming alcoholic beverages, the head of the National Safety Council said Monday.

John D. Lawlor, addressing civic groups, said the state's legal minimum of .15 per cent alcohol in the bloodstream to establish statutory intoxication is far too mild.

"Wisconsin should lower its consumptive alcohol percentage from .15 per cent to .1 per cent," he said.

Law enforcement officials, Lawlor said, should be given the authority to test drivers for intoxication.

Comparing holiday traffic deaths tolls to reports of civilian massacres in Vietnam, the former Army general said the nation "is perhaps more responsible for the deaths on the highways than what happened in Vietnam."

Laird Tells Senate Committee Nixon's Vietnam Policy Is Working

WASHINGTON (AP) —Gen. William Westmoreland says the war in Vietnam "would be over by this time—or would be nearly over" had the United States continued bombing North Vietnam.

The Army chief of staff made the assessment before a House subcommittee.

Transcripts of his testimony and that of other top Pentagon officials including Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird before the subcommittee two weeks ago were made public Monday.

Laird told the committee President Nixon's Vietnam policy is working—and could lead to "a military victory" for the Saigon government.

But should the process of Vietnamization of the war falter, peace talks prove fruitless and North Vietnam step up military aggression, Laird said, the United States is prepared to escalate its war effort.

"I would not rule out that possibility completely," Laird said. He did, however, seem to rule out use of nuclear weapons by American forces.

"I would not anticipate the use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam," the defense chief replied to a question from Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex. "I am not, however, ruling out other actions that might be necessary in the event the Vietnamization program does not work, even though I am confident it will work."

Westmoreland said if the bombing halt had not been ordered by former President Lyndon B. Johnson more than a year ago "the enemy would have fully realized that he had nothing to gain by continuing the struggle."

But he acknowledged that view has the benefit of hindsight, saying: "The authorities that made the decision . . . had every expectation that this was going to work. I think most prudent individuals would have come to the same conclusion."

The four-star general, former U.S. commander in Vietnam, told the subcommittee he accepts Nixon's Vietnam policy and would not resume the bombing now.

"I think we have gone much too far down the road for that. It seems to me that we're pursuing, all factors considered, a sound strategy in South Vietnam: namely one of Vietnamization," Westmoreland said.

He emphasized that Vietnamization would be a gradual process with American troops staying in South Vietnam for several years. But he ruled out an enemy victory unless Red China steps in.

Army Secretary

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor agreed:

"If we can just buy some time in the United States by these periodic progressive withdrawals and the American people can just shore up their patience and determination, I think we can bring this thing to a successful conclusion."

In wide ranging testimony, Laird, the joint chiefs of staff and the three military secretaries also told the subcommittee:

—Laird has found $16.2 billion worth of cost overruns so far in the military's 34 major weapons systems. This included $4.46 billion for the F111 swing-wing jet bomber, $3.3 billion for an MK48 torpedo program and Navy shipbuilding overruns that could top $1 billion. And he expects the figure to grow higher.

First Military Draft Ordered by God

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System likes to say the first military draft was ordered by God.

No sooner had Moses led the Israelites out of bondage in Egypt, the Bible says, than Jehovah ordered him to:

"Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their polls, from 20 years old and upwards, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel, thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies."

Between God's draft and the U.S. induction system, which underwent major reform Monday night with the imposition of a lottery selection method, history is studded with examples of mandatory military service.

Greeks and Romans

The Athenians, Spartans and Romans all required citizens to serve in their armies under rules that would make most Americans cringe. One Roman law required every able bodied man from 17 to 47 to do 10 to 16 years of active duty. Those from 48 to 60 pulled garrison duty.

England maintained the practice from pre-conquest times on and Capt. John Smith brought the draft with him when the first permanent English colony was formed in Virginia in 1607 with each settler a soldier.

But as New World colonization spread, forms of required military service changed and the militia system replaced straight out draft.

Colonial militia fought the Indians, the French and the British themselves. State troops were the main units in George Washington's Revolutionary army, a situation that failed to please the future first president.

Washington's Request

Shortly after he became chief executive Washington asked Congress for a "uniform and effective system for the militia of the United States."

Congress responded with an act in 1792 requiring service in militias, which remained, however, under state control as to length of service and training.

But the act set a precedent by providing "that each and every free able-bodied white male citizen . . . who is or shall be of the age of 18 years shall . . . be enrolled in the militia."

Other efforts to maintain a large national army under federal control failed in the face of strong objections against any permanent, standing military force and compulsory training.

Fear of a European-style standing army under federal control defeated attempts to create a national military force or compulsory training in the early years of the country.

Voluntary Units

Most militia units were manned by volunteers and it was such forces that fought the War of 1812, the Mexican War and much of the early Civil War.

Bedeviled by short enlistments and badly trained militiamen, President Lincoln obtained a law in 1862 authorizing him to order states to meet their troop quotas by drafts.

When this didn't work, Lincoln had instituted in 1863 the first national draft act, which stated "All able-bodied male citizens . . . between the ages of 20 and 45 . . . constitute the national forces and shall be liable to perform military duty in the service of the United States when called out by the President."

The traditional objection to mandatory military service rose anew, fueled by the law's major loophole—a provision allowing a draftee to obtain his own substitute or buy his way out with a $300 payment to the government.

Critics charged the draft was designed to "make the poor man do the rich man's fighting."

Riots followed, the worst taking place in New York City where Irish immigrants and other poor people fought police and Army units for four days. Property damage ran into the millions and deaths have been estimated at 1,000.

Following the Civil War the nation reverted to a tiny army stationed mainly on the frontier to fight Indians. Although a draft was instituted during the Spanish-American War, the fighting ended before the induction system was really put into effect.

2.8 Million Inducted

The modern draft was born May 18, 1917, as the United States prepared to fight in World War I. More than 24 million men were registered, from whom 2,810,296 were inducted.

Each registrant was assigned a serial number, and these numbers determined the order of induction. The numbers were drawn in a national lottery with Secretary of War Newton D. Baker drawing the first number from a big fish bowl.

Induction was stopped but the draft mechanism was kept alive after the war by a Joint Army and Navy Selective Service Committee. When the Selective Training and Service Act was passed Sept. 16, 1940 on the brink of U.S. entry into World War II, the draft machinery was ready.

Dec. 13, 1941, six days after Pearl Harbor, Congress amended the act to remove a restriction that inductees could serve only in the Western Hemisphere or U.S. territories, and the period of military service was extended to the duration of the war plus 6 months.

The World War II draft was by far the most sophisticated ever tried.

Classification and induction were based on the numbers of men needed for the armed forces, age and physical condition of the registrant, his occupation and its importance to the nation and on his dependants.

Again a lottery was used, setting the order of induction on serial numbers drawn from a glass bowl. However, unlike the previous lottery when fewer men were needed, the World War II drawing determined only when a man would go, not if he would go.

The World War II draft legislation expired in 1947, but was revived the following year and has remained in effect since.

Koreans Will Free Downed Copter Crew

SEOUL (AP) —U.S. military headquarters announced today that three American helicopter crewmen downed in North Korea Aug. 17 will be released Wednesday at the Panmunjom truce village.

A military spokesman said U.S. and North Korean representatives would meet at 11 a.m.—9 p.m. Tuesday EST—for the release of the three fliers.

They are expected to be sent to the U.S. Army's 121st Evacuation Hospital 20 miles west of Seoul for a medical checkup before being flown back to the United States.

The three men are Capt. David H. Crawford of Pooler, Ga., Spec. 4 Herman E. Hofstatter of Lowpoint, Ill. and WO Malcolm V. Loepke of Richmond, Ind. The North Koreans reported that Crawford and Hofstatter were seriously injured and Lopeke was slightly injured, then later reported them in "normal condition" after treatment.

They were shot down in a small helicopter while on a training flight. The U.S. Command said they got off course, and the North Koreans said they were downed near Kumchon, 15 miles north of Panmunjom.

Informed sources reported that the United States would give the North Koreans a letter of apology in exchange for the men. The North Koreans had demanded that the United States admit the helicopter was on a hostile mission, a demand American representatives rejected, but it was not known just what the letter would say.

Single Political Position Urged For Common Market by Pompidou

THE HAGUE (AP) — French President Georges Pompidou proposed today that the foreign ministers of the six European Common Market countries meet regularly to try to work out joint positions on world political problems.

Although Pompidou did not mention Britain's candidacy to join the European Economic Community, he said such attention to political matters would give the community more weight, and still more if other countries joined. Britain is the leading applicant.

Pompidou submitted a six-point plan to the summit meeting of the Common Market countries. On Monday, at the opening of the meeting, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt also proposed sh political cooperation and said plans should be based on the assumption that other countries will join the EEC.

The six foreign ministers already meet nearly every month, but there discussions are confined to economic matters. There has been widespread criticism from European countries who contend they can't make their viewpoints felt on great issues discussed between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Pompidou also was reported to have proposed:

—Regular meetings of the six ministers of finance and economics in addition to those which already take place within the Common Market.

—Creation of a short term monetary reserve, to help member countries in temporary currency difficulties. Brandt said Monday that West Germany would contribute to such a fund. Pompidou said long term measures also could be considered.

Want a Portable Sundial?

BY ALICE K. HUCK
Post Crescent Women's Editor

Imagine yourself as a Christmas shopper in the 15th century. Let's say you have decided to present that special person in your life with the gift of a timepiece. Do you know what it would have been? A portable sundial.

Now you progress to the 16th century. A yuletide gift of time for your loved one might have been a clock, if you were very wealthy, but this is before the pendulum was introduced. You would have needed a sundial along with it to keep the clock reasonably on time.

The first watch was also invented in the 16th century, but it was not exactly a watch as you know it today. Referred to as a musk-ball, the watch of the 1500s was spherical in shape, awkwardly large and pierced to give off the scent of perfumed musk which was carried in the case.

Wore on Chains

Noblemen and dandies of that era, who could afford watches, wore them on chains around their necks and apparently liked the idea of perfume.

Watches of the 16th century, although still a great novelty, offered many more conveniences than their forerunners. To tell time in the dark, tiny raised knobs above each numeral enabled the owner to "feel the hour" without lighting a candle. Then came the addition of a minute hand in 1675.

By the 18th century you could have given a watch with a second hand as a Christmas present. This feature had been introduced to doctors an accurate means of measuring the pulse. Your present, of course, would have also included a key for winding.

The first wristwatch was developed for soldiers in the front lines during World War I because the routine of unbuttoning the watch pocket and taking out the watch to see the time was inconvenient.

Powered by Cell

Throughout the 20th century, technologists have worked toward perfecting the delicate mechanism of the watch for greater accuracy and convenience.

The ultime is the electric watch, which powered by a tiny replaceable energy cell, does not even need winding.

Some watchmakers today feel that like kooky clothes, the tricky watch has gone the way of all fads. But this does not mean modern tricks performed with transistors and parts that tell the day and month as well as the hour.

Other watch designers have turned to jewelry. This fall's watch and jewelry show in Geneva, Switzerland indicates that oval is the basic shape, replacing the round that has been popular for so long. Designers evidently feel that the oval is a shape that can be varied.

Other trends defined at the Swiss show are:

— Large chain link bracelets, used to some extent last year, but now firmly established.

Colors More Discreet

— More discreet colors for dials with a new shade, blue-gold, making its first appearance. Roman numerals, the Swiss say, are definitely on the way out.

There is color for in precious stones. New this year is the use of opal, agate, tourmaline and turquoise. Diamonds and sapphires are still most popular with fewer rubies and emeralds than before due to their scarcity.

Pearls are very much in evidence, particularly seed, black and fresh water pearls. Usually they are combined with diamonds or colored gem stones.

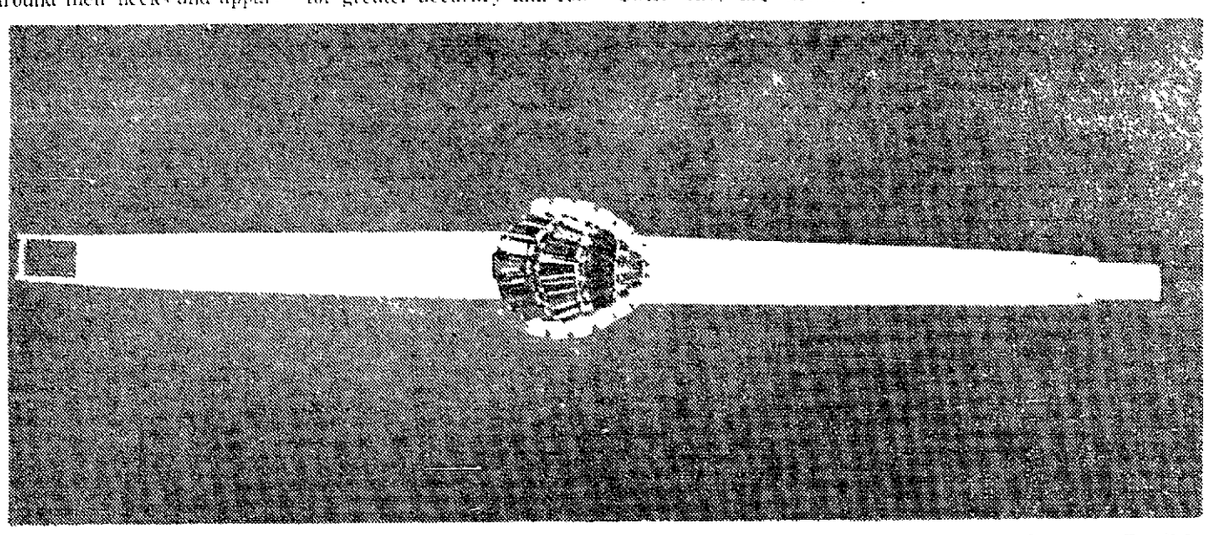
Men's watches make a clear distinction between evening and daytime wear. Ultra-slim classic dress watches are still in fashion but those for business wear are becoming more bulky, often with a wide grooved rim framing the dial. There is an even stronger accent on masculinity than last year.

But despite the glamour of the Swiss collections, shoppers in the Fox Valley in 1969 will be able also to find beautiful, simple, classic watches in all popular makes, designed for the good, old-fashioned purpose of "knowing what time it is."

For Keeping Teen-Time, above, is a gift watch with an array of colored bands and matching bezels. Jewelry Industry Council says it comes in black, white, gold and red for varied wardrobes.

At Upper Right, she's proudly chained in Sheffield's "jeweller watch" with goldentone rope-linked bracelet. The oval dial is set inside a square Florentined case.

Here Is an Extra-Slim Watch designed for Milady's handbag. The prospective gift at right, is from The Watchmakers of Switzerland by Audemars Piguet. The outer case is delicately engraved yellow gold. Cover opens by pressing on a sapphire cabochon and reveals a second, hinged case. For purse and pocket watches Roman numerals are still in.



As an Example of Things to Come, The Watchmakers of Switzerland present this jewelry-watch with a shield-like cover by Doxa. The very flexible bracelet is made of yellow gold.

Bewitched, Bothered, Bewildered

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Everytime I hear about the approaching age of computers and mechanization, I break out in a rash on my stomach.

The truth is, I can't cope with the present-day world of push buttons and hinges. Oh, I can perform simple things like flipping a light switch off and on, opening and closing a knife and fork drawer and snapping a billfold shut. But for the most part, mechanical devices are out to get me.

I have an ironing board that tried to kill me once. As I balanced the stand on my left foot, it actually chopped me on the neck and pinned both of my shoulders to the floor until I shouted, "Heloise!" At that moment, I made a promise to the Good Lord. I vowed if he would let me get this monster in an upright position I would never take it down again. To this day our ironing board is a part of the family. We set a place for it at dinner, decorate it at Christmas and often include it in our conversation.

Cars fight me at every turn. I was once held captive by a Plymouth that got me inside, then without warning blasted me with hot air, sprayed water on the windshield and defied me to find the handle that would open the door. Even the voting booth that used to be such an oasis in the world of mechanization turned on me. The last time I voted, I had eight party workers to assist me. (Seven actually. One woman just stepped inside the booth to pull her girdle down.)

Some of us are just not ready for a mechanical world. I can't figure out where to put the money in parking meters, pay johns, or food dispensers. I can't put together a simple torture track for my kids that they can make into a cloverleaf thoroughfare in three seconds. I have the only door key that swells in the lock, the only alarm clock that I have to awaken, the only washer that operates only during the months when oysters are in season, the only automatic umbrella that is lethal and registered with the police.

The only reason I am able to use the typewriter effectively is because I have told myself that I am superior to a small black machine with 55 keys and 383202 ew!q! !!3829-eueueu!

Aw come on', where's your sense of humor.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy Devotes Energy, Effort to the Living

NEW YORK — The widow of Joseph P. Kennedy and mother of three sons and a daughter who met violent deaths, today declared, "I will never allow myself to be vanquished or annihilated."

Mrs. Rose Kennedy called on women everywhere "not to think of what might have been, but to devote your time, efforts and energies to the living, and to the immediate challenges." Writing in the December issue of Ladies' Home Journal, she stated that in "this way we turn our heartaches into constructive efforts to lighten the sorrow of others. And if you can transmit the same attitude to your children, that, too, will be a precious gift all their lives, whatever may be their destiny."

Mrs. Kennedy said, "Tragedies have come to a lot of other people who haven't had my compensations . . I still consider myself very lucky." She wrote in her article, "I have been ideally happy with my children. My sons, I felt, were all destined for outstanding achievement, and they fulfilled their promises."

According to Mrs. Kennedy, "Some people collapse under strain, discouragement, problems. Others respond to challenges and difficulties and are excited by them. This has always been a Kennedy philosophy," she stated.

"God has bequeathed us pleasures as well as sorrows, laughter as well as tears," stated Mrs. Kennedy in her article. "May He give us the capacity to enjoy all these gifts and to share them."

Put Up Walls at a Whim!

Long division can be more than just an abstract mathematical problem. With more and more homes being built on an "open plan" design, the long division of space to define different areas becomes a practical problem for many a homemaker.

One big advantage of the non-existent wall, of course, is that the different areas do not always have to remain defined in one particular shape or size. Dividers allow you to be free as your fancy to restructure your rooms. For example, they let you carve a dining area from the living room, shield an entryway, create a work area or stake out territory in a children's room. And the means of doing it are almost overwhelming in their abundance, with something for every taste and situation.

Simplest of all is the free-standing screen and many stores today carry frames which you can paint, paper or cover with fabric to suit your color scheme. Another delightful way to screen without blocking out light and air is with those unbreakable strands of lightweight beads.

Most Effective

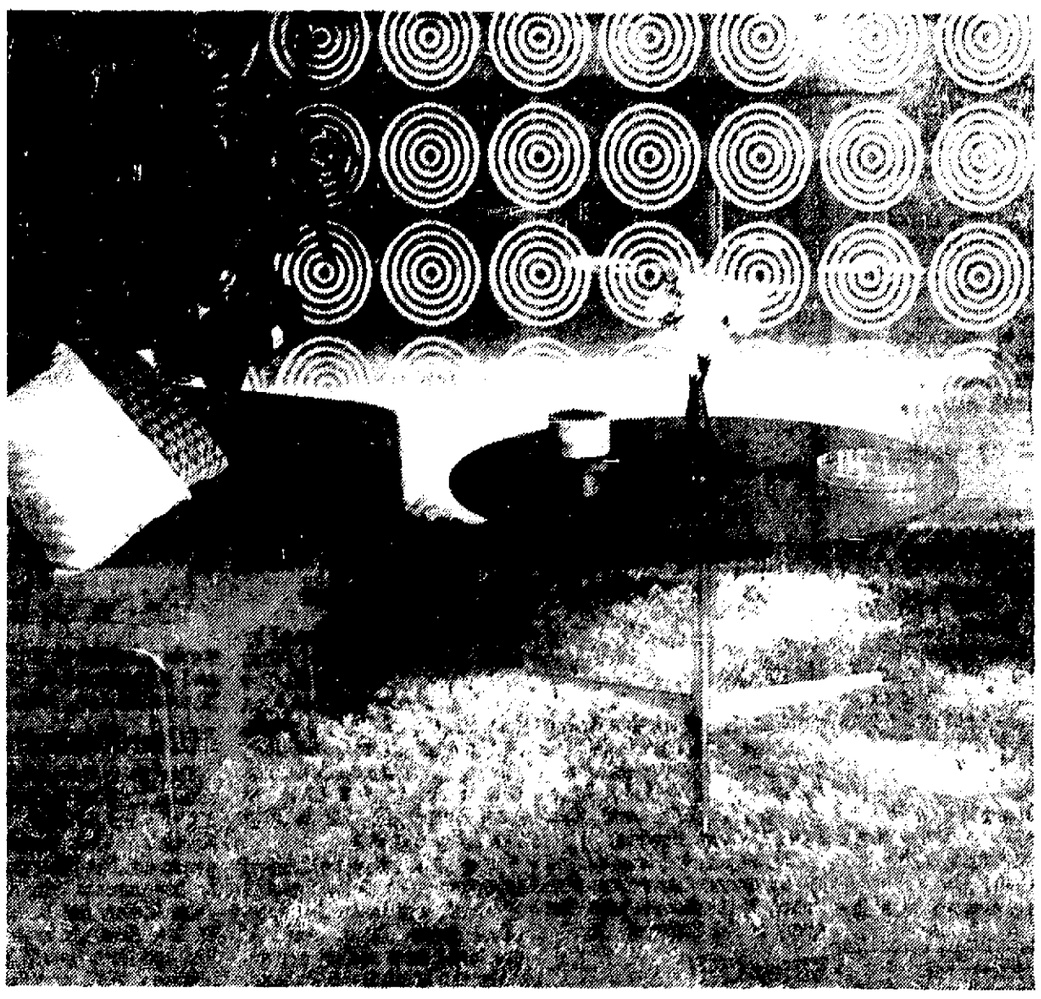
Fabric "wals" can be one of the most effective — and also inexpensive — ways of breaking up space if you hang the fabric unpleated to whatever width you need, either on a ceiling track or a rod suspended from the ceiling. Weight it at the bottom with a rod slipped through the hem. What a splash of floor-to-ceiling color you can achieve with the boldly patterned fabrics currently in the stores! The abstract patterns, often with very large repeats, that come from Scandinavia's Unika-Vaev mills for instance, are almost meant to be treated like a large painting since the design could get lost in folds and pleats. For an airy divider where you already have enough color in the room, a translucent casement can be hung as a background for a sofa or a dining table to make an effective divider, especially if it has some kind of subtle design in the weaving.

For Privacy

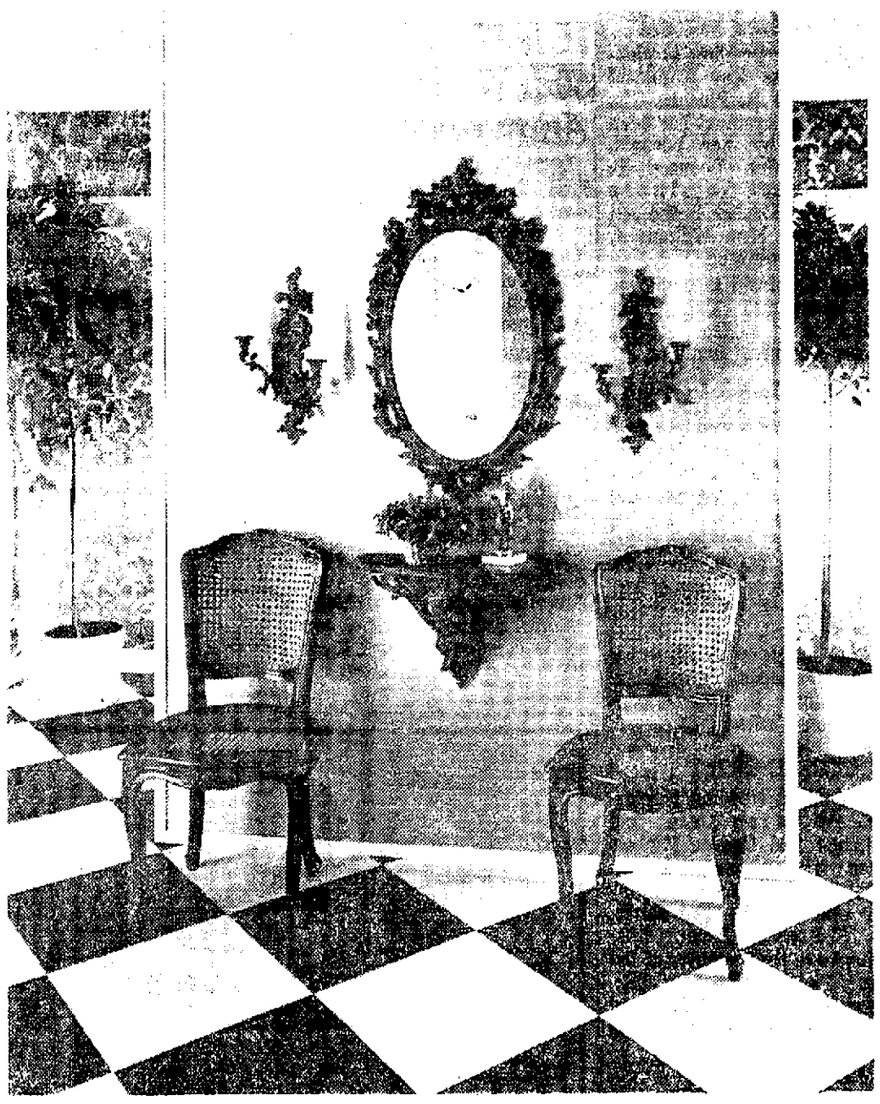
In addition to the "ethereal" ideas, there are also more solid ways of dividing space that turn out to be functional as well. A snack bar will shield a kitchen without shutting off the hostess or mother who wants to keep an eye on guests or children. One handyman-father built a half-way divider for the room his two daughters share, which offers them twist-of-the-wrist privacy — it has drawers in the base and louvered panels above which swivel vertically. Working dividers, however, do not always have to be built in. Free-standing types being made by some manufacturers have drawers, shelves and cabinets that provide storage and display on either side.

Besides these very definite dividers, you can always give a suggestion of separation simply by the arrangement of existing furniture, such as a sofa backed by a bookcase or a desk, or by a long table set at right angles to the wall. Then, don't forget how useful and decorative a row of plants can be set in a tray of white or colored stones.

Sometimes it can be more fun to be your own temporary architect, especially when it means you can put up walls at a whim!



Framed and Papered Panel of hardboard fastened to ceiling and floor makes a decorative and practical way to shield an entryway into a large open room. It can then be treated just like a wall, as this one which is accessorized with Syroco mirror, console and sconces and a pair of chairs for a look that is much more permanent than anyone would guess.



Casement Fabric from Unika-Vaev creates an airy divider between living and dining areas in a large room when it is hung from floor to ceiling. Pattern of circles woven into the 10-foot wide synthetic fabric from Denmark gives an intriguing visual background at the same time.

Guesswork Eliminated By Signal

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Thousands of bridge players were scheduled to attend the national tournament held at the Americana Hotel, Miami Beach, last week. They all had to do their share of guessing because there's no way of being sure of the right play in some bridge situations. The best players did less guessing than the run-of-the-mill players because in a good partnership there are ways for a player to tell his partner the right play instead of letting him toss a mental coin.

Opening lead — ♣ A

When today's hand was played in a national tournament in CHICAGO about 10 years ago, Harry Fishbein and Bill Root put on a defense that gave the kibitzers something to talk about. There was just one key play, but that one was a beauty.

Fishbein opened the ace of clubs and continued with the king. Conventionally, this shows the doubleton ace-king, since a player who holds other cards in the suit leads the king first and then the ace.

After taking the two clubs Fishbein had to lead a suit in which his partner could win the first trick. Then Root would return a club, allowing Fishbein to defeat the contract by ruffing.

Difficult Problem

In the average bridge game this would be a difficult problem. Does East have the ace of spades or the ace of diamonds? How does West guess which suit to lead at the third trick?

Fishbein didn't have to guess because his partner had already told him. Root saw the problem coming when Fishbein led the king of clubs at the second trick. Root knew that his partner had no more clubs and that only a shift to spades would defeat the contract.

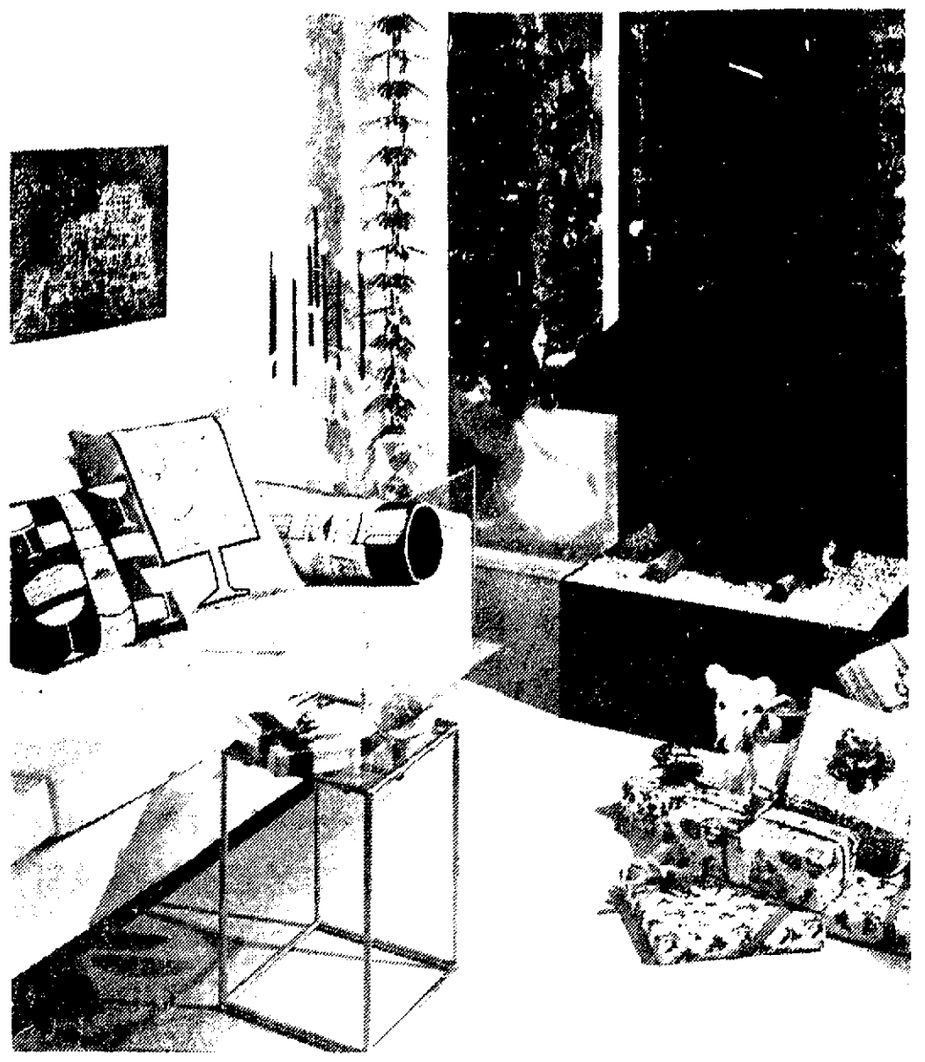
Root signaled for a spade lead by playing the queen of clubs at the second trick. This unnecessarily high card meant that Root had an entry in the higher suit, spades. Root would have played his lowest club if his entry had been in diamonds, the lower side suit.

Fishbein led a spade, of course, and got the ruff to defeat the contract.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S- K Q 7 3; H- J 10 7 4; D- 8; C- J 8 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. Show a suit of your own rather than raise your partner's minor suit. When you have two four-card suits to show, make the cheaper bid. That is, bid one heart rather than one spade.



Your Problems

Repeat Attack on Christmas Newsletter

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS. The best column you ever wrote was an assault on Christmas newsletters. Please do a re-run. Those who haven't seen it, should. Those who have seen it should see it again. Thanks. — K. C. Fan

Dear K.C.: Here it is, not only for you but for J.O. of Vallejo, Calif., R.R.L. of Alma, Mich., J.T. of Amarillo, Tex., I.D. of Bismarck, N.D., E.G. of Burlington, Vt., M and F of Superior, Wis., S.T. of Layfayette, Ind., and others.

DEAR ANN. Why do normally intelligent folks take leave of their senses at Christmas time?

Landers

I refer to people who compose interminable chronicles of the year's activities, and mail them to everyone who has sent them so much as a rummage sale announcement during the year. It is the height of ego-centricity to assume that anyone, save a few intimate friends, would wade through all that verbiage. I am galled by the attempts to portray glowing pictures of affluence and success. I have before me several Family Newsletters from which I shall lift bits of pieces, changing the names and places for obvious reasons. I've strung together ten mailings to illustrate the point. Here's the composite:

"Dear Friends: What a great year! Jim was named vice-president of the bank! We celebrated by buying a Mercedes and flying off to the Orient. In addition to his Boy Scout work, Jim was co-chairman of the United Fund Drive. He continues on the board of Grace Hospital and is treasurer of Kiwanis. His first love, however, is still conservation and he is heading up the committee to Fight Dutch Elm Disease.

After completing my term as Junior League president, I swore I'd take life easy but I am more involved than ever. I accepted the vice-presidency of the Garden Club and am still active in the D.A.R. I ran the bake sale for the Eastern Star again and we made $680. I also squeezed in flower arranging class offered by a Japanese exchange student. All this with my leg in a cast. Dumb me fell off a ladder while hanging curtains at the U.S.O. Center.

Jim, Jr. was elected class president and won his letters in football and basketball. He is on the All-State debate team and placed third in the national oratory contest. We were surprised to read in the paper that he had won a $100 prize in The American Legion Essay Contest. He never even knew he had entered! Jr. has been accepted by both Harvard and Yale and can't make up his mind. Linda was elected vice-president of her class, Homecoming queen, sweetheart of the Phi Delta and was a finalist in the Regional Swimming meet."

And so it goes, Ann, until you could vomit. Next year I'm sending a newsletter to all the bores who have been sending us theirs. Here it is:

Dear Friends: We've had a rotten year. Bill was passed over for promotion again so he quit his job. He hasn't anything lined up yet but he's listed with the employment agencys and looks in the Want-Ads every day. In the meantime, he is drinking like a fish. Having him around the house all day hasn't done much for my disposition.

Bill, Jr. was defeated for homeroom monitor. He flunked French and will have to go to summer school to graduate. College is out. He can't get in anyplace. Bob hasn't had a haircut since August and had to hock his guitar to pay for repairing his Honda. (Thank God he didn't lose his leg. We were plenty worried.) Mary is protesting something and shaved her head two weeks ago. Her father is not speaking to her which is just as well because I think she is deaf from all that loud music. My mother-in-law's May visit lasted til August and I am back in therapy. As I write this the whole family is down with the flu and I'm exhausted. We hope next year is better. It couldn't be much worse. Love — Mary.

Maxi Fans Take Dangers In Their Stride

NEW YORK (AP) — The maxicoat is a lady-tripping, street-sweeping, escaltor-clogging menace to the female population!

So says the Greater New York Safety council speaking out on fashion's current fad.

Disgruntled girl watchers have derided the maxi as an aesthetic hindrance, but the council declared it a safety hazard as well.

Mrs. Marjorie B. May, the council's director of home safety, warned fashionable maxi fans Thursday of these pitfalls:

—Maxis can easily trip the wearer on stairs and curbs.

—The floor - length hem catches in esclators and in bus, elevator and revolving doors.

—Maxis have a tendency to become street sweepers and subway dusters if the wearer forgets to lift her hems.

"Today's women have not yet learned how to walk gracefully in the maxi clothes," said Mrs. May. "They have little understanding of how to lift the long skirt or coat for graceful stepping and for safety.

"Having layers of heavy, wet and dirty fabric slopping against one's ankles on a rainy day or in snowy, slushy weather can be not only uncomfortable but definitely detracts from the well-groomed look the wearer may be striving to achieve."

Some New York department stores have already posted signs at escalators warning maxicoated shoppers to hoist their hems.

Despite the dangers, however, the maxi fad persists. It is perhaps explained by one young lady, who, noting that she likes to wear "a mini-mini inside my maxi-maxi," said, "It's worth a little risk to be fashionable."

Supervisors to Decide on Executive, Administrator

Latter Post Gets Committee Recommendation

Creation of the post of county administrator will be recommended to the Outagamie County Board by its executive committee while a resolution calling for an elected executive also will be submitted, but without a recommendaton.

At the same time, appointment of present Executive Secretary Alvin Woehler as county administrator will be recommended if that form of executive is adopted by the County Board.

The action was taken this morning on a 6-3 vote of the Executive Committee to recommend the appointed administrator. Agreement then was reached to present a resolution on the elected executive if the administrator resolution fails on the board floor.

Voting in favor of the administrator resolution were Supvs Marvin Babbitt, Sylvester Esler, Norman Helms, Joseph DeBruin, Patrick Heenan and Edward Spierings.

Opposing were Supvs. G. Allen Bubolz, Norman Austin and John Schreiter All three favored having an elected executive

Babbitt, chairman of the personnel committee which brought in the recommendation, said committee members were only doing what they had attempted to do when they originally set up the executive secretary's job At that time, he said, they tried to create a county administrator but the state constitution prohibited it.

The board vice chairman added that he did not feel the county would be gaining anything with an elected executive Administrative functions now performed by committees would be turned over to the administrator, he said

Bubolz said that an appointed administrator would still be operating at the pleasure of the board. As it is now, Bubolz said, "people can't point their finger at anyone specific in county government There is no place for the buck to stop We can provide that with an elected position — the same as the mayor or governor "

The relatively rapid action toward creating the job after it was authorized by the legislature is believed to be an effort to block any attempt toward creating an elected executive position, which would be independent of the board.

The county administrator is one of two forms of executive position authorized for counties under recent state legislation. The other is the elected executive.

The administrator would assume all of the powers now held by the county board chairman, plus the authority to name all appointive department heads and the responsibility for an executive budget. He would not have veto power over county board action and would serve at the pleasure of the board.

The elected executive plan gives the executive veto powers over board actions.

Served 4 Years

Woehler has been executive secretary since the position was created in 1965 The executive secretary post carries no specific statutory powers, while the formal powers of the county administrator position are outlined by state statute.

During the November County Board session, both Board Chairman Sylvester Esler and Supv Ervin Conradt, who also is a state representative, urged county pressure to have the executive-administrator bill vetoed because of the provision which permits public referendum. However, the bill was signed into law the following day.

County officials hinted Monday that they now have a written opinion from the attorney general's office indicating that after a county board has acted to create either the executive or administrator posts, a referendum would have no effect.

An earlier view expressed by Harold Froehlich, Assembly speaker, was that a public referendum would override any action of the county board.

Critics Hit Appleton's Financial Procedures

Appleton city financial procedures came under critics' guns at least as severely as the proposed 1970 budget itself during Monday night's public hearing.

One citizen group indirectly raised the possibility of replacing Finance Director David Champion with a Certified Public Accountant. Champion bristled at the term and the subject was dropped.

Other comments ranged from defenses of individual portions of the proposed budget to a lone taxpayer's plea asking officials to remember who has to pay the taxes once the budget is adopted. Two women's groups disagreed whether to drop the present executive budget system.

To what avail the various speakers labored remains unknown. The City Council adjourned without taking action after Mayor George Buckley headed off one attempted vote by declaring the session was only a hearing, never having been called as a formal council session.

Third Meeting

Aldermen agreed informally through a show of hands that, besides Wednesday night's regular council session, a third meeting will be held Thursday night to adopt the budget and tax rate.

At one point, Ald. Robert roemer (8th) objected to criticism of procedures, arguing the hearing was for comment on the budget itself.

Mrs. Jack Weiner, who was at the microphone speaking for the League of Women Voters, retorted that she had asked City Atty. David Geenen for an opinion. "He has ruled that we are in order," she said, and Geenen confirmed her statement.

Roemer told Geenen he disagreed, but when other speakers took a similar tack, nobody objected.

Mayor George Buckley, the target of some of the criticism, sat through it silently and left the room during part of it.

Want More Time

Spokesmen for the League and the local branch of the American Association of University Women both objected to having too little time for themselves and for officials to study budget proposals properly.

Mrs. Harold Danford, representing the university women, offered an eight-point statement including four recommendations on improving financial and budgetary practices.

The group proposed:

— Hiring a "consulting firm" to set up "reasonable accounts" for the finance director to follow and keep up to date, with the consultants called in as needed. "However, if the council feels a Certified Public Accountant to be necessary in the finance department, we recommend that the CPA be hired as the finance director," the group suggested.

State Audit

— Ordering an audit of city financial records by state auditors, a measure the group said would help the finance director, "restore the confidence of the people" in city financial operations, and spot irregularities in time to correct them the same year.

— Including clear definitions of budget items either within the budget document or through verbal explanations by the finance director.

— Establishing "proper timing" in budget procedures.

She suggested that the council "seriously consider the mayor's request to be relieved of the duties of the executive budget." Buckley was absent during most of her talk.

Unexpected Aids Reduce Cut

School Budget Gets Boost

Thanks to a revenue windfall and a merciful Fiscal Control Board, the Appleton School District budget for 1970 emerged from Monday night's public hearing $45,212 better-heeled than seemed likely when the hearing began

The Appleton aldermen and four neighboring town chairmen who make up the fiscal board that holds school purse strings began the hearing facing a study committee's proposal to lop $334,315 from the levy of $8,864,891 in local taxes requested by the School Board.

Mrs Harold Danford, representing the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women, recalled that during budget hearings a year ago, Finance Director David Champion had unveiled a $500,000 surprise addition to state revenues.

She forced his hand by asking whether Champion knew of any revenues this year that weren shown in figures available before the hearing.

Utility Taxes

Champion admitted state officials had informed him earlier in the day that utility taxes that apply to local school purposes can be expected to be $45,212 higher than previous estimates.

The fiscal board first toyed with a motion by Ald. Edward Maloney (9th) to cut expenditures that much deeper. "I'd like to see the taxpayer get part of this break," he said of other predicted boosts in state aids next year

But Ald Robert Roemer (8th) said the utility tax windfall should be added to the revenue side of the budget rather than being subtracted from expenditures. The effect, Roemer said, would be to lower the cut to about $280,000. (The actual amount is $289,103.)

Motion Withdrawn

Champion supported Roemer on the basis of accounting procedure and Maloney said that was the proper way to do it he withdrew his motion

With seven aldermen opposed and 11 others and the three town officials present in favor, the board first voted to chop $334,315 from the net local tax levy, using the figure recommended by the School Advisory Committee After cutting local taxes that much, the board took a second vote and added the $45,212 in unexpected utility taxes to revenues, for a net cut in school funds of $289 103

The new tax levy totals $8,530,576 The board also adopted apportionment rates under which Appleton taxpayers will pay 83 per cent of the levy, the Town of Grand Chute 15.425 per cent; Town of Harrison, 1 238 per cent; Town of Buchanan .299 per cent, and Town of Menasha 035 per cent

The actions came after about 80 minutes of commentary from individuals, taxpayer groups and the school board

More State Aid

School Board President Kenneth Sager and School Supt. William Spears pointed out that due to a switch to a more generous state aid system, the school district is able to ask for a local tax levy considerably smaller than it would have been without the switch.

But they added that the newly adopted "flat aids" system based aid on spending, so that for every $82,000 in local taxes cut from the budget, the board also loses about $18,000 in aids.

They defended requests for additional equipment and other improvements to facilities which they said included items cut from the budget last year on Fiscal Board orders. This, they said, is the best possible year to catch up due to the increased state aids.

Harry Kositzke, vice president of the Appleton Taxpayers Association, denied that cutting the budget for 1970 would immediately reduce state aids, saying the 1970 spending level would determine the 1971 aids

Suggestions for Cuts

He also offered suggestions for cuts that he said would total about $400,000, including proposed additions to the professional staff which would cost about $127,000 for the last three months of 1970, but nearly four times that the following year

The association opposed "postponing essential maintenance and capital outlay expenditures," which the association said has been past School Board practice when the Fiscal Board makes cuts School officials "should seek to reduce other operating costs which tend to produce a level of spending which cannot be easily lowered once reached," the association advised

Postponing necessary items "merely accumulates a backlog of needs," the association observed

Mrs. William Boettge offered suggestions by the local American Association of University

Cut of COG Funds Opposed, Faces Decision by Council

Spokesmen for the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and Appleton Park and Recreation Commission defended their proposed 1970 budgets Monday night against proposed cuts by the City Council.

Eugene Franchett, executive director of COG, said a proposed $7,174 cut in the city's share of the regional planning agency's budget would jeopardize the city's eligibility for federal aid, and, by breaking the article of agreement among COG member governments, "It could bring into question the very integrity of the City of Appleton itself."

Ald. Alvin Tews (5th), chairman of the council's Finance Committee, agreed the cut proposed by Mayor George Buckley and Finance Director David Champion would be a "step in the wrong direction."

Motion Held Back

But Buckley advised Tews that the hearing wasn't a formal council meeting, so the alderman held back a motion he offered to restore the COG cut. The matter will come up when the council votes on the budget and tax rate Thursday night.

Ralph Gertsch, chairman of the park commission, fought some $200,000 in cuts which he said wiped out funds to develop Langedyke Park on the city's north side

He argued that only one-fourth the total would be supported by the local tax levy, with the rest coming from state and federal aids.

Under questioning, he conceded that the development fund could be put off until next year and the commission could get by with $6,000 this year to develop a park plan that is required before the applicatons for aid funds can be fled.

Investigate Proposals

Franchett agreed, meanwhile, to investigate a contention by Gertsch that proposals to move baseball diamonds onto the Langedyke site next summer, before a park plan has been adopted and approved by state and federal authorities, would endanger future hopes of aid.

The local branch of the American Association of University Women put in the only defense Monday of the city welfare department, from which the Finance Committee has proposed eliminating the deputy director and an office girl in response to Buckley efforts to do away with the department altogether or else drastically cut back the staff.

The women's group advocated that politics be removed from the Welfare Department," and added that until the county assumes city relief burdens "the city is obligated to continue services to the more unfortunate citizens."

Former Appleton Man Takes Own Life in Berlin Jail

Funeral services were held in Appleton today for a former Appleton man who strangled himself to death in a jail cell in Berlin, Wis., Saturday afternoon

Berlin Police Chief Germain Beck said a police captain found Roland Tracy, 51, dead in a cell about 2:45 p.m. Attempts to revive Tracy failed. Tracy had used his own stocking.

Beck said Tracy, formerly of 128 N. Oneida St., was arrested Saturday afternoon for shoplifting. Beck said Tracy stole items from several Berlin stores.

Budget Surplus? Could Be

The possibility of an Appleton city budget surplus in the range of $600,000 was raised by an Appleton Taxpayers Association spokesman and only partly refuted by Finance Director David Champion during Monday night's public budget hearings.

Harry Kositzke, vice president of the association, said by his calculations the city began the current year with a $213,962 surplus from 1968, and is likely to end the year with a $382,645 surplus over what was appropriated for 1969

Champion denied that there was a surplus at the end of last year, but admitted he doesn't know exactly what the city's balance is now

Admits Possibility

Rather than a surplus, "The audit shows I have a net deficit of $27,000," Champion told Kositzke concerning the 1968 year-end situation "Where are we today? I don't know," Champion said later

While he attempted to discount most the sum the taxpayers' spokesman said should be left over at the end of this year, he also said, "If you want to work strictly with 1969 figures you may have something there "

"In a city this size," said Champion, "it is not uncommon to carry a surplus of $400,000 to a half-million dollars." There is nothing wrong with a surplus, he continued. "You've got to have a safety valve somewhere "

Kositzke conceded Champion's point on the 1968 budget, saying, "I can't argue" with the auditors

He also asked Champion whether future budgets could include a statement of surpluses and Champion agreed it is an item he would like to include but hasn't been able to accomplish yet

Youth, 14, Caught With Marijuana Found Delinquent

One of three boys caught smoking marijuana under the S. Lawe Street bridge Oct. 11 was found delinquent Monday in Outagamie County Juvenile Court.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr placed the 14-year-old Appleton boy under the custody of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services. Indications are the boy will be placed in a foster home.

An Appleton policeman found three teen-age boys under the bridge when he was sent to investigate a report of suspicious activities in the area.

An 18-year-old Appleton youth last month was placed on two years probation for giving marijuana to the two younger boys who were wth him under the bridge. The 18-year-old was ordered to spend the first 45 days of his probationary period in jail.

Louis Micheln To Leave C of C

Assistant Manager Accepts Post With Oshkosh Chamber

Louis J Micheln, assistant manager of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed executive vice president of the Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce beginning Jan 1, according to an announcement today by Oshkosh chamber President Ben Borsuk.

Micheln fills the vacancy formerly held by M Edward Kelly, who left in March to become the chief executive of the Springfield, Miss., chamber.

Appleton chamber Manager Donald L. Stone, upon learning of the change, said, "Micheln has carried a very large share of the workload of the Appleton chamber and the responsibilties which he accepted were carried out with the greatest planning, displaying excellent organizational abilities.

"We wish him the best of luck, and look forward to working with him in developing programs of mutual interest in the Fox Valley."

Micheln has held his present position since 1964, and before coming to Appleton served in a similar position in Manitowoc for six years

He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin

During his five years in Appleton, he has been active in community affairs. He was secretary of the Appleton Public School Distributive Education Advisory Committee in 1967, and was on the board of directors of the American Retail Association Executives in 1968-69.

Micheln was instrumental in the creation and development of the downtown Christmas Lighting division of the chamber, worked with the Downtown Retail Association on the Santa House project and Appleton Night at the county fair, and developed the convention division of the chamber.

Secretary Likes Practical Job Dealing With Public

The Post - Crescent supports bonding for the Fox Valley Technical Institute, to be presented to voters in a Dec. 9 referendum. This article is one in a series designed to show how vocational and technical training benefit both student and community.

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Miss Mary Thoma has found her niche in the business world and in the Fox Valley.

The discovery, however, took her many years and came as a result of a course she took at the Fox Valley Technical Institute in Appleton.

Miss Thoma, daughter of Mr and Mrs Eugene Thoma, 620 N. Oneida St., is a secretary at the Harold Weiland Agency, Inc She's had that job for only two years and she had to go a long route to get there.

She first attened the St Joseph Grade School in Appleton, and then went to St Francis High School in Wheaton, Ill After graduation, took a liberal arts course at the College of St. Francis, in Joliet, Ill.

"After three years of liberal arts I knew this wasn't for me," she explained. "I wanted something more practical - something that would allow me to work with people," the young secretary adds.

Having made the decision not to continue liberal arts, but not knowing exactly what she wanted to do, she came home to "think things out," as she put it

It didn't take her long to find out about the secretarial course at the Appleton Technical Institute and enroll in the business course that fall

It probably would have taken her longer to learn about the advantages, except for her father, a foundry superintendent who was familiar with the school and worked with men who were products of it

"He suggested I investigate the possibility because he knew I wanted to go into something that dealt with the public

"I also was tired of just going to school without a goal As soon as I got into the business classes, I immediately could see that when I was finished, I could go out and get a practical job," Miss Thoma explained

Because of her thirst to keep on learning, the diploma she received from the technical school was not the end of her schooling

Practical Studies

"I have a job and funds now and I can take other courses," she says, and she is doing just that. She has taken conversational German at the Appleton Institute in the evening and this semester is enrolled in a psychology class at Oshkosh State University

"I guess what bothered me was that I didn't have something practical. Now that I have a profession, I can go back to school — any school - for more," she happily states

Asked what she would have done had not the technical institute been available to offer her a short practical course that led to a profession, she thinks for a moment, then says, "That's a really good question "

Then, after another moment of thought, adds, "I can't imagine what people in my position would do if they didn't have that type of a school "

Menasha Council Will Begin Study of Parking Authority

MENASHA -- An ordinance creating a five-member parking authority to be appointed by the mayor will be brought in for initial council action tonight

But statements made by City Attv Richard Steffens over the responsibilities of a parking authority in construction of $1 8 million worth of downtown area parking facilities planned in Menasha's project may have put the proposed authority in a different light Monday night.

In brief, he told aldermen at Monday's committee of the whole session that a "parking authority's powers are extremely limited," that it cannot issue revenue bonds itself for construction of parking facilities and that its chief purpose is to administer operation of the city's parking facilities only

MRA Assumption

This conflicts with the apparent assumption of the Menasha Redevelopment Authority (MRA) which has previously felt that a parking authority would have the power to issue revenue bonds on its own

"This is not the way the redevelopment authority had understood it to operate," said city Redevelopment Director Robert Osheim.

But he added that it wouldn't throw any roadblocks in the way of construction of the $1 8 million in parking facilities needed for the downtown renewal project, but only "put a different light on how we proceed on it"

Council Authority

It will also give the common council direct authority over the issuance of revenue bonds to finance constructon of parking facilities.

Steffens said the primary reason for parking authorities, when authorized by state statute, was to provide for separation of funds for construction and operation of parking facilities from general city funds

Kampo Questions Bridge Priorities

BY DOUG KOPLIEN
News-Record Staff Writer

MENASHA — Dropping the Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge from the state's top priority list will delay the construction of the span for at least three years, according to Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo

"There won't be any more bonding funds available until the next legislative session and that's two years away," Kampo said today.

The legislature cut the bridge bonding bill almost in half to $35 million for the next biennium and thus eliminated 13 bridges from the State Highway Commission's priority list Among those eliminated were the Little Lake bridge, the Memorial Drive Bridge in Appleton and a bridge over the Wolf River at Fremont

Kampo questioned the highway commission's reasoning in eliminating the Memorial Drive bridge "This was No 2 on their priority list before the eliminated the 13 bridges," he explained

Had the bridge been included on the state's list, the county, Town of Menasha and state would have shared equally in the estimated $3 million cost.

On Sept 23, the highway commission held a public hearing at Sabre Lanes to determine if there was a need for the bridge. "What's going to be the decision from the hearing?" Kampo asked.

Kampo also challenged the commission on where it had planned to find the money for the Main Street Bridge in Oshkosh. The Main Street Bridge is included in the new 11-bridge priority list

"They approved this bridge before the bonding bill was approved by the legislature Now the bridge is included on the list for bonding What are they going to do with the money they had planned to spend before the bonding bill went through?" he asked

Winnebago County had preliminary drawings finished on the Little Lake Span and were shooting for a 1970 design timetable with construction set to start in 1971

Kampo says the design stage will be delayed at least two years, making it three years before construction would begin

Owen Ayres and Associates, Eau Claire, the engineering firm which drafted the preliminary plans, had estimated the bridge cost of $3 million

Kampo said, "If the present inflationary trend continues, we can add another 20 per cent to the cost" This would set the bridge cost at about $3 6 million.

Kampo had led the fight on the county board floor to get supervisor's support for the Little Lake span He has said he will not seek a third term to the board.

He said he sees no reason for the county and town to undertake the project on their own "There's no provision in the bonding bill that would pay for a project already started so all I can see to do is wait until the state funds are available," he said

Menasha Asks 'Pressure' on Sewerage Commissioners

MENASHA — After questioning the operation of the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission and their control over it, Menasha aldermen Monday decided to meet with their representatives on the commission to discuss mutual problems

At the same time, Mayor John Klein was asked by the council to come up with potential candidates to fill the vacancy on the commission, and submit them to the council for endorsement before presenting them to the commission for action

The Neenah council and Mayor Donald Hassler could do the same thing, in conjunction with Menasha, so the two city councils could "put public pressure on the present four commissioners to select a fifth member" from that list, according to Third Ward Ald Sumner Parker

Parker was one of several aldermen who questioned the present commissioner stalemate resulting from the recent resignation of Lyal Williams, who was appointed by the other four members, who in turn, are appointed, two each, by both city councils

Public Confidence

Parker said, "We may find ourselves in deeper trouble than we have in the past unless we have the full confidence of the people" the two council's are appointing to the commission.

He suggested meeting with Menasha representatives, Safford McMyler, commission chairman, and Adam Haber, to discuss sewerage treatment plant operations and the relative responsibilities of the city and the commission in meeting problems of sewerage treatment in the Twin Cities

"We may be met with skyrocketing costs without meeting state requirements" that order the commission and the two cities to improve sewerage treatment and clear water separation by 1973, Parker said.

Neenah's Net Tax Rate Is $35.79

NEENAH — City taxpayers will pay $3 50 per $1 000 of assessed valuation more than last year to finance the 1970 city budget

The state tax credit, which determines the final city tax rate reduced the gross tax rate by $1 98 per $1,000 Director of Finance John Sahli received the word from the State Department of Taxation today

Based on the net tax rate of $35 79 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, a taxpayer with a home worth about $20,000 will pay about $57 40 more than he did a year ago for the same home

The total tax will be about $586 95 compared to about $529 55 a year ago

According to the state, Neenah will receive a total of $498,731 as its share of the state collected taxes A total of $290,846 is directly applied to the recently adopted gross tax rate of $37 77 to raise the $5 8 million in taxes needed to pay the city's share of the county and state budgets, school operations, and vocational schools, plus the city's operation and capital improvement expenses for 1970.

Menasha Pulls Out Of Alliance of Cities

MENASHA — The Menasha Common Council knocked about 15 cents off the proposed 1970 Menasha tax rate Monday night, and in the process, ended the city's membership in the Alliance of Cities

The action was taken after the mayor and the finance committee chairman, with the cooperation of other aldermen, agreed that Menasha was not getting its money's worth out of its membership in the state-wide organization designed to give a voice to the state's urban areas

"It is so oriented towards the large, metropolitan areas that I question its use for us," Third Ward Ald Sumner Parker said

Mayor John Klein responded to aldermen's question that most control over the organization is in the hands of officials from Madison Milwaukee, Green Bay and Waukesha, and that the city could accomplish more through its membership in the Wisconsin League of Municipalities

About $370 was included in Klein's meetings and mileage allowance alone for attendance at Alliance of Cities' meetings during 1970, and another $150 was included in the city clerk's budget

The council voted unanimously to drop out of the Alliance when Parker called for a vote.

Bishop Wycislo Discloses Budget

Catholic Diocese Needs $1.1 Million

GREEN BAY — In a historic first, the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay, Monday disclosed the budgetary needs of the see to the public.

A total of $1,145,800 will be required in 1970 to operate the diocese, Bishop Wycislo told the news media here.

In a statement issued at a press conference, the prelate said that $750,000 of this budget would have to be raised through the current appeal program, which will be climaxed by a Christmas gift plan.

"The balance of the $395,800 will be realized from diocesan investments, parish assessments and contributions," he added.

The reason for the disclosure, the bishop said, "is in answer to a growing awareness on the part of the laity of the financial pressures of the church.

"Really, I am asking everyone in the diocese to accept a corporate commitment as a personal responsibility," he said.

"It is no longer a question of my diocese or your parish, my needs or your problems, but our diocese, our parishes, our needs and our problems.

"Practical Silution"

The initiation of the annual diocesan service appeal was called "the most practical solution" to the financial problems plagueing the diocese.

"It gives everyone an opportunity to share in a more personal way in the works of the area," Bishop Wycislo said.

The 10-point program to be served through the drive includes the Newman Apostolate, the seminary, priestly education, Christian formation programs and Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, Catholic charities, home for senior citizens, diocesan missionary activities, and priests' health program.

In addition, it is also planned to establish a contingency fund to meet emergencies in diocesan services, the bishop explained. This fund totals $140,000.

Because of the service appeal, extra collections which will be eliminated in each parish are Catholic charities, Catholic University, seminary and Holy Land.

In addition, each parish will retain its Easter collection.

Goals Assigned

"Our 192 parishes and their 33 missions have been assigned fund raising goals to achieve. To keep each parish with its individual needs, the diocese will return to it 100 per cent of all cash received in excess of its goal," Bishop Wycislo said.

It was explained to the news media that the $750,000 goal would mean about $11 per family.

"With the elimination of the four extra collections, there should be no problem in raising that money," the bishop said, adding that progress to date has been encouraging.

"Acceptance of the appeal by our priests and laity has been heartening. From all areas of the dicese optimistic reports are being received," the prelate said.

5,000 Volunteers

"We now have more than 5,000 laymen and women serving in their parish organizations. The men are chairmen and the women volunteer secretaries," he further explained.

However, it was not revealed how much has been gathered to date.

In a breakdown of the diocesan budget, it will cost the diocese about $150,000 for seminary expenses. Catholic charities will run $160,000; priests' education, $30,000; department of education, $80,000; Newman Apostolate, $107,000; home for senior citizens', $59,000; priests' health program, $25,000; contingency fund for emergencies, $140,000; and dioceasan property improvement, $75,000, and diocesan office cost, $59,000.

The rest of the $1,145 million budget is split up among miscellaneous items and the operatoin of the various properties and institutions owned by the diocese.

William R. Castle, Oshkosh, president of Castle-Pierce Printing Co., has been appointed general chairman of the diocesan drive.

The printing executive Monday presented some of the laymen who have volunteered for a special committee for the appeal. Among the men he named were James Asmuth, John Spalding and Robert Skorenski, Menasha; Joseph F. Gensenbrenner, Neenah; Gustav Zuelke, Appleton, and Dr. Lewis Graber, Oshkosh.

District Attorney's Pay Raises Turned Down By County Committee

Additional personnel and pay raises in the district attorney's office over that recommended by the personnel committee failed to get endorsement by the Outagamie County Board's executive committee by one vote Monday.

The fight is expected to be renewed on the County Board floor Dec. 9.

The courts and justice committee had sought to have the district attorney's staff increased from two full-time and one part-time secretaries to four full-time and the pay grades raised from the present one grade 8 and two at grade 6 to one grade 10 and three at grade 8.

The personnel committee recommended three full-time girls at the present grade levels.

Wage Hikes

Courts and justice wage hike requests for the two assistant district attorneys were to raise the pay from $13,000 and $8,00 the pay from $13,000 and $8,000 to $15,000 and $11,000. This was trimmed back to $14,000 and $9,000.

Efforts by Supv. John Schreiter, courts and justice representative on the executive committee, to restore the cuts were defeated in each case on a 6-5 vote.

Supporting Schreiter were Supvs. Spierings, Hiler, Bubolz and Steger. Backing the personnel committee recommendations were Supvs. Babbitt, Esler, Heenan, Austin, Helms and DeBruin.

Babbitt agreed, however, that the personnel committee would again review the needs of the district attorney's office for additional personnel after three months.

Supervisor 'Stunned'

Schreiter said he was "stunned" at the personnel committee's recommendations on the assistant district attorney salaries. He noted that salaries of $14,500 and $14,108 were being recommended for the family court commissioner and corporation counsel, respectively.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler contended that those salaries were higher because both jobs called for a minimum of five years legal experience.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, chairman of the personnel committee, said the assistant district attorneys were raised on the same basis as other department heads.

Esler also said the personnel committee had received a letter from the courthouse employes association objecting to any job grade changes without first consulting the association.

Year Behind

Supv. Eugene Kloes, chairman of the courts and justice committee, contended that the four girls were needed. "What you are giving us is what we requested a year ago," Kloes said.

He said 100 more felony cases were processed through the district attorney's office this year than last year. Babbitt said he had nothing against the district attorney. "If this doesn't work out, I'll be the first to recommend another full-time girl."

The courts and justice committee also lost out on efforts to get job reclassifications within the sheriff's department.

Their request to have the jailers raised from grade 9 to grade 14 and the Huber law officer raised from grade 10 to 14 was rejected by the personnel committee which recommended raising both to grade 12. Other reclassification requests in the department were rejected completely.

Other reclassifications approved were veterans service officer from grade 17 to grade 18, corporation counsel from grade 23 to grade 26, map maker from grade 11 to grade 12 and clerk-typist in the highway department from grade 2 to grade 4.

Critics Hit City Financial Procedures

timetable for the finance director to submit a budget. When asked by an alderman whether the League advocates reverting from the executive budget system followed this year and last, she said no.

Alternate System

The mayor and finance director supposedly are in charge of executive budget proposals, while committees handle departmental requests under the alternative system which Buckley recently said he favors reactivating.

When Mrs. Danford mentioned the possibility of hiring a CPA as finance director, Ald. George Schwarzbauer (10th) said he believed that Champion was a CPA.

Champion said he is not and added, "I wouldn't sit for that test." He said it consists of a "cram course" and he added, "You don't need it to practice accounting." He said City Atty. Geenen took a test to receive his license to practice law. That, too, is a "cram course," said Champion.

Flock of Birds Shorts 12,000-Volt Power Line

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A flock of birds took off suddenly from a 12,000-volt powerline and the line went twang like a bow, touched another line below and shorted out, Pacific Gas & Electric Co. officials reported.

The Monday morning incident blacked out about 24,000 homes, a hospital and the Hall of Justice for about 45 minutes.

Green Bay Man One of 3 To Quit Peace Corps Job

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Three U.S. Peace Corps volunteers have quit their jobs as English teachers in Turkey, saying the Peace Corps "is a clean, smiling commercial of American militarism, imperialism, materialism and racism."

Being sent home by the corps are Joseph Holzer, Green Bay, Wis.; Sharon Buckley, South Oselic, N.Y., and Walt Ruehlig, Great Neck, N.Y., the Peace Corps office here reported today. All are 22 years old.

In a letter sent last Wednesday to a Peace Corps official here they said, "we realize our jobs are meaningless"

The letter added: "There is need to work on other directions--such as organizing protests, writing letters, working to set up lines of communication among the Americans here in Turkey."

By doing what they called "the real job" of working for peace and democratic expression, the three volunteers said they would be contributing more to Turkish-American relations.

All three volunteers were involved in anti-Vietnam war protests at the U.S. Embassy on Oct. 15 and Nov. 13 in connection with similar protests in the United States.

John Corey, director of the Peace Corps program in Turkey, said he recommended dismissal of the three and a final decision would be made in Washington. The volunteers are flying to Washington on Wednesday.

Corey said his decision was in no way based on the Vietnam war protest activities of the volunteers, but when they quit their assigned jobs he was forced to send them home.

City School Budget Gets Surprise Boost

Women to delete some $134,000 in specific items, including several also suggested by the School Advisory Committee and ultimately considered in the Fiscal Board's cuts.

Mrs. Bertrand Goldgar, representing the Appleton League of Women Voters, reported the league supports the School Board's request. A representative of the Jackson School PTA also supported the board's request, and an Appleton Education Association spokesman said the teachers urged being "very conservative" in reducing the budget.

Charges Repeated

Ald. William Errington (15th) repeated charges that the School Advisory Committee's study was "completely out of order" and that Mayor George Buckley should have offered his recommendations first, under the executive budget system.

Ald. John Steidl (18th), advisory committee chairman, denied Errington's charges that the recommended cuts were a "magical number" determined before the committee began its study of the budget. Steidl said, however, the review was conducted with the aim of keeping school non-salary increases within 6 per cent of previous levels.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) said 6 per cent is unrealistic in view of a reported growth rate of 1,000 pupils per year in the local school system.

Ald. Dorothy Draheim (14th) called the proposed school budget "very good housekeeping," but said it contained "nothing that looks forward." She termed it "shortsighted" to attempt to operate a growing school system "on last year's figures."

Form 1040 U.S. ... for the year ... Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U S Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers

Q — Can I take a business deduction for the bottles of whiskey I buy as Christmas gifts for my customers'

A — Yes business gifts are a deductible expense as long as they do not exceed $25 to any one customer during the year If gifts total more than $25 only $25 may be deducted A gift to a customer's wife or child must generally be included with any gift to the customer himself in figuring the $25 limit

Note that gifts which cost $4 or less are not subject to this limit if your name is clearly and permanently printed on the item and is one of a number of identical items distributed by you This would cover calendars pens and similar items

Q — I've taken a part-time second job What can I do to stop having Social Security taxes taken out of my pay on both jobs'

A — Each employer is required to withhold Social Security taxes on the first $7 800 of wages paid employees in 1969 However if more than the maximum of $374 40 is withheld for Social Security because you had two jobs the excess can be claimed as a credit to your 1969 income tax return

Procedures for claiming this credit are explained in the instructions you will receive with your tax forms

Q — Can I deduct my veterinary fees when I figure out my farm income on Schedule F Form 1040"

A — Yes veterinary fees as well as medicine for farm livestock are deductible when you report farm income and expenses

Veterinary care for personal pets is not deductible

Q—What types of taxes are involved when IRS closes down a business for failure to pay Federal taxes'

A—Any type of tax may be involved however these cases usually involve employers who fail to turn over to the Government the money they have withheld from their employee's wages for income and Social Security taxes

Drastic steps such as closing a business or levying on wages are only taken as a last resort after the taxpayer has repeatedly failed to make satisfactory arrangements to pay the tax Congress has authorized IRS to take certain specific actions in such cases in fairness to the other taxpayers who do pay in full and on time

Q—I have fully supported my grandmother for years Will we still be able to claim her as a dependent this year even though she is now in a rest home'

A—Yes you may still claim her so long as you continue to support her and she meets the other dependency tests A close relative your grandmother for example does not have to be a member of your household to qualify as a dependent

If your grandmother is in a rest home primarily because of the medical care provided there the entire cost of her maintenance is considered a medical expense If personal or family reasons prompted the decision for her to enter the home only those expenses specifically for medical care will be considered deductible medical expenses

Q—I won't be working anymore this year so why can't I file my tax return now? I could use the money I'm expecting to get back

A—Existing regulations provide for the filing of an income tax return after the end of the tax year, which, with rare exceptions is the calendar year for employes Even though you may not work or receive income during the rest of the year a tax return is required to be filed on the basis of a full tax year To avoid delays when you file for your refund, make sure you have a Form W-2 statement of wages paid and taxes withheld attached to your return Your employer should have given you your W-2 within 30 days after leaving employment

The assembly made up of more than 800 delegates representing WEA locals around the state also passed a resolution calling for a $10 500 starting salary for teachers, with the pay of those with masters degrees ranging to at least $21 000

The Assembly has been holding its annual meetings in November in conjuncton with the state teachers convention in Milwaukee but has decided to hold future sessions in the spring

President Jerome Strupp of Fond du Lac said it may be necessary for the group to convene in November as well as the spring meeting at least for the first year

Make This Giant 'Mod' Newspaper for the Den

BY CAPPY DICK

A giant display of newspaper headlines for your own den is today's fun-project for boys and girls. The adjoining illustration shows what it will look like.

The wall newspaper is a pasteup of real headlines and articles clipped from your newspaper. The choice is yours. In fact, you can change the display any time you wish simply by removing articles and replacing them with others.

The display requires a large piece of poster board or corrugated board. Think up a name for your newspaper and print it in big letters across the top of the board as the girl has done in the picture above.

Two or three thin strips of wood glued to the back of the posterboard will keep it from caving in when you rest it on a slant against the wall.

The next step is to select the headlines and news articles for the first display. Attach them in a neat arrangement by means of library paste, applying small daubs at the rear upper edge of each clipping. This will make it easy to remove articles and headlines when you want to replace them.

The big "front page" will prove to be an interesting and timely novelty.

Siberia: Documentary On CBS

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — Before viewing Siberia on tonight's National Geographic Society Special, you'll probably have the feeling that that bleak and barren area is hardly material for an hour long TV documentary. You'll think differently afterwards, coming away with a feeling of awe inspired by the uniquely rich quality of the photography and the awesome statistics in the commentary.

9-10 (Channel 2) — CBS News for its special Timetable for Vietnam sent a camera crew and reporters to South Vietnam for an in depth study on how that nation is progressing in President Nixon's plan to make it militarily independent, at least enough to permit the release of some 500,000 American troops. Charles Collingwood is the correspondent.

8-10 (Channel 5) — Undoubtedly without the advantage of free program publicity, First Tuesday will delve into the subject of the Vietnamese massacre It will also visit with wealthy singer James Brown, examine the new abortion laws of London and talk with women traveling to that country, for that purpose. Another section looks at the Mexican social condition known as MACHO, and exaaggerated masculine quality being pushed to extremes by ome political groups. On the visual side of the program is an interesting film clip, animation produced by John Whitney and a computer. Sander Vanocur is the editor.

6:30-7 (Channel 5) — Today is wedding day on I Dream of Jeannie, with that affair taking a prize for confusions, not the least of which is the bride's having to dodge photographers since Genies, like ghosts, do not photograph.

7:30-9 (Channels 11-9) — The best comedy to dale on the Movie of the Week is "Three's Crowd" starring Larry Hagman, Jessica Walter, and E. J Peaker. The trite little story is about a man with two wives one of whom (E. J.) was supposedly killed but turns up after his second wedding very much alive.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Janet Leigh and the Mills Brothers star on the Red Skelton Hour with Janet playing Daisy June to Clem Kadiddlehopper and also Clara Applebee. The Mills Brothers was nostalgic with their classic "Paper Doll".

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7) — Neva Patterson as Maggie seems to have fallen victim to the private secretary's prime occupational hazard, on the Governor and J.J. It appears she's fallen in love with her boss.

Actress Picks Movies By Director, Not Script

BY ORIN BORSTEN

Let other actresses set themselves up as infallible judges of screenplays Katharine Ross admits to being less than an expert on movie scripts!

The doe-eyed, auburn-haired actress who's drawing critical valentines all over again as Etta Place in 20th Century-Fox's "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" decided a year or so ago that "I'd never again take a picture just on a script alone I find that I become a worse and worse judge of material I know when I can play a role. But to look at the total and feel certain that it will be successful — I'm not that good "

Katharine, lofted to secure stardom in "The Graduate" and a symbol ever since of a special kind of youthful candor to her generation, is paying far more attention to the name of the director than to that of the screenwriter these days.

Brutally Honest

"I must know who the director is going to be," she said with that disarming honesty that sets her apart and often gets her into boiling hot water. "Only after settling that question, will I even read the screenplay. In the case of 'The Graduate,' all I needed to know was that Mike Nichols was the director. The script seemed only just fair to me. In 'Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid,' it was George Roy Hill.

"If I don't know the director's work, I'll make a point to see pictures he's done. I also feel that it's important to meet a director to find out if we have any rapport with each other. It's a mistake for an actor to work with a director with whom he has no rapport. Another actor, yes. You can work with an actor who gives you nothing. It won't necessarily show on the screen. But the actor and the director must have some special communication between them."

The former stage actress from the famous San Francisco Workshop, no longer in operation, has averaged only one film annually since "The Graduate" because of her conviction that it's the Nicholses and Fellinis and Schlesingers and Antonionis who matter where the serious actor is concerned.

Plays Indian Girl

She hasn't made a film since "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" and her only unreleased picture is Universal's "Tell Them Willie Boy Is Here," in which she plays an Indian girl in the early part of the century. (Directed from his own screenplay by Abraham Polonsky, blacklisted by Hollywood for two decades, the film is the subject of extravagent praise in the movie trade journals and along the Bel Air projection room circuit).

There's not a worry line on Katharine's face about it, mostly because the bidding in the Hollywood market place for her services continues to be raucous and spirited, and partly, I suspect, because of Conrad Hall, a gifted cameraman-recently turned-director from whom she seems inseparable.

Most of the actors who were members of the San Francisco Workshop with Katharine were imported to New York by Jules Irving and Herbert Blau to form the nucleus of the Lincoln Center Repertory Company.

Poor But Enjoyable

Her undeviating honesty flashes "Tilt!" when it's suggested that perhaps she'd be in New York today as a stage actress at Lincoln Center if she hadn't left the San Francisco Workshop for Hollywood four years ago.

"Oh, no," Katharine protests. "I'd played only a few leads — in Jean Genet's 'The Balcony' and in 'The Devil's Disciple' and a few others I wasn't that important to Mr. Irving and Mr. Blau as an actress. I doubt that they'd have taken me to New York. I'd be the last one.

"I'd like to do theater again. My last stage play was 'King Lear' with Morris Carnovsky. I think having done theater has a bearing on everything I do today and what I want and what I think. In those days at the workshop, I was so poor. I borrowed on my salary from one week to the next. I was always running out of money. But so were the other actors and it was all bearable. So wonderfully and satisfyingly bearable!"

Badger Quint Opens With Victory Over Ball State

Al Henry and Sherrod Score 18 Points Apiece; Hendrickson, Zink Achieve Career Highs

MADISON (AP) -- A couple of big former reserves seem to be coming into their own at Wisconsin, and it could spell trouble for Badger basketball foes during the 1969-70 campaign.

Dave Zink, a 6-foot-6 forward, and Eino Hendrickson, a 7-foot center, scored career highs Monday night in helping Wisconsin sweep past Ball State 88-74 in an opener for both teams.

Zink, a starter, tallied 12 points. Hendrickson, a reserve, chipped in 10 as John Powless launched his second head coaching season on a winning note.

Hendrickson is a backup man behind a forward wall which includes Zink and two 6-foot-9 seniors — Al Henry and Craig Mayberry.

"Hendrickson is the strongest guy we've got," Powless said. "He's certainly stronger than he was two years ago."

Hendrickson saw no action last year because of illness. His previous top scoring effort was nine points against Michigan State in January 1967.

Zink's previous high was 10 points against Louisiana State as a sophomore two years ago.

Powless, whose coaching debut was marred a year ago by a 68-55 loss at Nebraska, was obviously pleased with the Ball State triumph.

"We're better than we were last year at this time," Powless said. "We can execute better now."

The coach added that a number of Badger miscues were by sophomores who were too anxious to make good.

"Some of our guys overtried," Powless commented. "Each guy wanted to be the best in the world."

While most of the Badger big men performed well, it was junior Clarence Sherrod of Milwaukee who provided the spark that put the game out of reach in the second half.

Sherrod, who sat out much of the first half with three fouls, peppered the nets for 16 of his 18 points during the second half and kept Wisconsin out of reach.

The Badgers, who surged to a 42-26 halftime advantage, upped the margin to 70-50 with less than 10 minutes remaining before Powless went to his bench and substituted freely with sophomores and juniors.

Henry scored 18 points to share scoring honors with Sherrod. Sophomore Lloyd Adams added nine to the well-balanced attack.

High man for the Cardinals was Marzine Moore with 15. Teammate Marty Miggenberg added 15 and Roger Law 14.

The Badgers' next two games are on the road — at Southern Methodist Saturday and at Kansas Monday.

'Younger' Set Shines

Solid Performances By Young Packers Satisfies Bengtson

GREEN BAY "We've always felt good about those people . . . It was just a question of working them in."

Phil Bengtson, more relaxed than his athletes' recently varying artistry had permitted him to be in three previous weeks, was assessing the potential of the Packers' younger set during a Monday review.

He was happily aware "those people," among them Don Horn, Fred Carr and Dick Himes, had been prominent in Sunday's 20-10 victory over the Giants and, the Pack's head coach and general manager admitted, it had been no small source of satisfaction.

Film Study

"I was pleased with them," said Bengtson, who had just emerged from a film study of the season's sixth success and thus was in a position to fully evaluate their contributions, which he proceeded to do.

"Overall, Horn did pretty well," he said. "At times he became a little, well, not confused, but perhaps a little disturbed by some of the Giants' defensive tactics, especially the blitz.

"It was good experience for him — it was a good time to get it in a game that we won, that we didn't lose as a result of acquiring that experience.

Continuing his analysis, he added, "Carr did very well . . . He can really fly — he's a good pass rusher."

Did All Right

"As for Himes, he played three quarters of the game and, from what we could judge, he did all right.

"Perry Williams also looked real good . . . He's a hard hitter and aggressive.

"Jim Weatherwax," Bengtson further noted, "had a pretty good shot in there, too."

Two of these could very well step into starting assignments next season because of the ever present retirement factor, he indicated.

"Himes and Carr should be ready, if Forrest Gregg and Willie Davis retire," Bengtson said. "I'm not assuming they will be retiring, but they've both been at it a long time and it wouldn't be surprising if they did. I haven't talked to either one of them about it as yet."

Quarterback Bart Starr, presently sidelined with a shoulder separation also admits he has considered the possibility because of the injury problems he has had this season. It is considered more likely, however, that he will return for another year.

In fact, Bengtson said, "I have some hope Bart will be back playing before the year is out."

No Indication

Although there may be others who are contemplating retirement, there thus far has been no indication of it.

For example, return of defensive tackle Henry Jordan, placed on the team's injured reserve list over the weekend, has not been ruled out, Bengtson said.

"His career is not over as far

Report Epstein, Reichardt, Alou On Trade Block

Larry Staab First Player Picked in Major League Draft

By DICK COUCH

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The trade winds stirred anew today—with Mike Epstein, Felipe Alou and Rick Reichardt among the name players in the speculative vanguard—after a becalmed opening session of baseball's annual winter meetings.

The trade mart was at a standstill Monday as club officials fenced for bargaining position after breezing through the major league draft in 35 minutes—without turning up so much as a Bo Belinsky in the hopper.

But action was expected to pick up briskly today, with most of the 24 teams admittedly seeking help before the Dec. 15 deadline for inter-league swapping. And Epstein, Alou and Reichardt reportedly were on the block.

To First Base

The Washington Senators, hopeful of returning slugger Frank Howard from the outfield to first base in 1970, possibly would part with incumbent first baseman Epstein, a 30-home run man in his own right last season, in a package deal for second baseman and catcher.

Manager Ted Williams has served advance notice that the Senators might make a major trade "just to liven things up." The New York Yankees, among others, are ready to do business —for Epstein and at the right price.

Alou, a topflight outfielder plagued by injuries in recent years, has been mentioned as a

Xavier and Chilton Duel

Chilton and Appleton Xavier High Schools begin a new athletic revivalry when their basketball teams clash tonight (8 p.m.) in the Hawks' gym.

Both teams have streaks going. The all-winning Tigers would like to extend their success streak to five straight games. The Hawks losers of their last three after an opening-game triumph, will seek to snap their "reverse" skein.

The basketball Tigers, thus far emulating the fabulous success of the unbeaten-untied Chilton football team (though they could scarcely be expected to duplicate the unscored-upon status of the grid unit), are off to their best start in years. Chilton has averaged 70.8 points while giving up an average of only 52.5 in rolling past St. Lawrence Seminary, Berlin, Fond du Lac Springs and New London.

Precedent Set

Xavier, meanwhile, is in the unaccustomed position of trying to erase a sub-.500 record. The Hawks have lost successively to Campion, Premontre and Lourdes since opening with a win over Fox Valley Lutheran. For most teams, a 3-game losing streak would be considered a modest one, but for the Hawks it is precedent-setting. In their 9-year history as a 4-year school, this is the first time they've dropped three in a row.

This likely will be the first meeting ever for a Chilton team and an Appleton unit. The last time the Tigers played in Appleton was in the early part of the current decade when they met Kimberly in a tournament game at AHS.

Chilton Coach Al Schmidt (once a Kimberly star) has four lettermen back from last season's team that posted a 12-7 record. The Tigers' scoring to date has been exceptionally well-balanced. For the last three games, for example, 5-11 Nick Pfeffer, 5-11 Jeff Thompson, 5-10 Mike Weller and 6-1 Mitch Frank have all averaged in double figures.

In addition, 5-11 Bob Hansen, 6-3 Dave Dennig and 6-3 Dave Casper have been dependable scorers.

For the Jerry Schmidt-coached Hawks, this will be the final non-conference assignment before devoting full attention to the uphill task of a successful Fox Valley Catholic Conference title defense. Xavier, which is 1-1 in non-league play, has averaged only 59.5 points for each of four games, over-all, while allowing points at a 61.5 rate.

The pattern has been similar in all three Hawks losses. Xavier has held or has been tied with the opposition late in the game before fading in the stretch.

The Hawks, for example, were even with Campion, 55-all, with 2:25 left — then were outscored, 10 to 2, the rest of the way. Against Premontre, Xavier led by three points after three quarters. But, the Cadets scored the first 13 points of the fourth quarter to put the game away.

Last Saturday, Xavier once had Lourdes down by 11 (24-13) and still led, 45-44, with 7:05 left in the game. The Knights subsequently scored 12 successive points to turn a narrow, 49-47 lead into a prohibitive 61-47 bulge.

Joe DeNoble has been the only Hawk in double figures for all four games, and Tom Harris has turned the trick in three of the contests. A surprise offensive star for the Hawks against Lourdes was junior Tim O'Dell, who dropped in six straight second-quarter shots — most of them from 20 or more feet away. In the final two quarters, O'Del had only four more shots and failed to score again.

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton West, Little Chute and Menasha won't face many tougher assignments all season than they did last weekend, and each of the previously unbeaten prep teams came through admirably to retain perfect records.

But more importantly than their respective 3-0 marks registered to date is the fact that by winning their most recent engagements, each may have taken on a "the-team-to-beat" label in conference races.

The Terrors, picked for fourth in the pre-season Fox River Valley Conference poll of area sports writers, knocked off another one of the clubs chosen ahead of them (Neenah was the first victim) in conquering Manitowoc, 73-64. Significantly, the win was achieved in the Ships' John F. Kennedy Fieldhouse, where Manty was losing only its third game in three years.

Little Chute's Mustangs, making their bow in the Central Wisconsin Conference, showed they have what it takes by dumping co-favorite Weyauwega, 60-54, on the Mustangs' floor. The two quintets were recognized earlier as definite contenders to lift the crown from defending champion Waupaca.

Menasha is breathing the rarified air of first place in the Mid-Eastern Conference after stopping pre-season favorite Clintonville, 68-63, on the Bluejays' court. Coach Barry Ewald's charges had been darkhorse candidates but must now be considered title material.

It was a good week for three more Fox Cities ballclubs. Kimberly pushed its mark to 3-1 by burying Preble, 84-37. Neenah, as if to issue warning that it retains plenty of firepower, hit the century mark in blasting Wisconsin Rapids, 100-60, as Pat Hawley fired in 33 points — the top individual effort by a Fox Cities player so far this season. The Rockets are now 2-1.

And Little Chute St. John, loser of its first three starts, threw a monkey wrench into the Fox Valley Catholic Conference race with an 82-62 trouncing of co-favorite Green Bay Premontre. The Dutchmen then followed up with a 54-32 rout of Fox Valley Lutheran.

Appleton East and FVL slipped to 1-2 records during the span, the Patriots blowing a 13-point lead against Neenah to lose, 77-58. The Foxes never had a chance against St. John as they fell behind, 26-2, at the start.

Kaukauna and Xavier shared the same miseries as each dropped their third straight game after notching wins in their openers. The Ghosts were edged in their M-E opener, 67-64, by Shawano, while the Hawks took it on the chin from Lourdes, 66-58, after Xavier blew a big lead.

Zephyrs Winless

St. Mary remains the lone team without a victory. The Zephyrs are 0-2 following a 63-46 thumping at Manitowoc Roncalli.

Neenah sports the best offensive average of the 11 Fox Cities teams this week, boasting a 77.3 figure. Appleton West is next at 67.0, and Menasha follows at 62.0.

Defensive honors go to Little Chute, which has yielded only 46 points per outing. Kimberly is runnerup with 48, and St. John has a 51.2 mark.

Among the individual pointmakers, West's Rich Reitzner and Little Chute's Steve Mollen share the top spot with 21.0 averages. Reitzner dropped down after a 16-point performance against Manty, while Mollen had his season's top effort of 24 against 'Wega.

Neenah's Pat Hawley jumped to the third spot with a 20.0 mark after hitting his 33 points — 17 coming on free throws. Trailing are Xavier's Joe DeNoble, 18.5; Kaukauna's Leon Franzke, 17.0; and Little Chute's Mike Fitzpatrick, 16.7.

Norm Bunkleman Cracks 254 Game In Builders League

Pete Wildenberg jolted a 241 game and 626 series to lead the way in the Kimberly National League at Jerry's Lanes Monday night.

Norm Bunkleman pounded a 254 game and Bill Lesselyoung had a 623 series to divide honors in the Builders League at Hahn's Lanes last night. Lesselyoung had a 226 game with the high series.

Also counting high totals in the Builders League were Wally Winter 622, Earl Beyer 594, Butch Schultz 233, Erv Hooyman 590, Al Gast 226-619, Al Seemann 234-562, Al Ziven 235, "Tex" Techlin 581, "Cully" Heinritz 230, Earl Bauer 227, and Floyd Meyer 232.

Roger Froelich smacked a 241 game and 622 series to sweep honors in the Appleton Lutheran League at Hahn's last night. Bob Kositzke was next in line with a 227 singleton.

In the Tri-City Men's League at the 41 Bowl Monday night, Bob Toonen had a 597 series while Jim Schultz hit 584, Tom Debruin had 577, Ed Schultz rolled 576 and Terry Wegner posted 575.

Leading the Appleton City Employes League at Sabre Lanes Monday night was Bill Schultz with a 235 game and 578 series.

The first league at the new Thunderbowl was paced by Lee Schallie with 810 in four games.

Darrell Eake had a 613 total while Gene Howe rolled 592, Cliff Hoppe had 575, Earl Lipske hit 585, Dave Nelson had 577 and Dan Mayer 576.

Phil Pleased With Horn's Performance

as we're concerned," he informed. "His being on the injured reserve list doesn't mean his career is over. In fact, in this situation, he can come back next year without being exposed to waivers."

The transfer of Carr to defensive end is not necessarily a permanent one, the Packer headmaster noted, "although he'll probably concentrate on that position for the rest of the season.

Short Yardage

"Jim Flanigan has been reactivated, so we have enough numbers at linebacker that we can use Fred at defensive end. But he will also continue to play a combination of linebacker and safety on short yardage situations. He does a good job of that.

"The decision as to weather Fred will stay at defensive end will be made next season when we learn just what our needs will be."

Although pleased with the potential exhibited by the junior members of his troupe, Bengtson was not impressed by the overall performances.

"It wasn't great," he said. "It wasn't an outstanding game, by far. We had pretty good effort in certain phases of the game — we had good blocking on certain plays.

Poor Tackling

"The tackling was poor in the first half, although we improved that some in the second half. The pass rush was pretty good overall, considering the type of quarterback (Fran Tarkenton) we had to face."

The Packers' heavy rushing ratio, 41 ground plays to 14 passes, was not an accident, Bengtson added. "We had hoped to run the ball about as much as we did," he said.

PACKER PATTER — The report that "a number of Packer players are playing out their options this season," which appeared in the Detroit News, and Minneapolis Star, drew a "no comment" from Bengtson.

Asked if the story was accurate, he said, "I have no comment on that."

The Packers matched their 1968 victory total by defeating the Giants and, should they sweep their three remaining games against the Cleveland Browns, Chicago Bears and St. Louis Cardinals, could come within a half a game of equaling their 9-4-1 mark which brought them their last central division championship in 1967.

YMCA Boys Bowling Loop Resumes Action

In the latest session, Jim Gladfelter and Jim Buckley led the National circuit, with a 2-game set of 295 and a 161 line, respectively. Jeff Horn had a 160 game.

Dave Frome led the American League with a 233 set. Monza GT (9-1) leads the National circuit, while the GTOs (10-0) pace the American.

Kentucky Romps

South Carolina, UCLA Open With Convincing Wins

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

The newly top-ranked South Carolina Gamecocks opened the 1969-70 college basketball campaign with an awesome victory but the shadow of defending national champion UCLA loomed in the background as the Bruins rolled to another easy triumph.

The Gamecocks, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press preseason poll, took to the road Monday night and trounced a tough Auburn squad 86-64 while the Lew Alcindor-less Bruins, ranked No. 4, opened at home and toyed with outmanned Arizona 90-65.

Kentucky, No. 2, opened in Adolph Rupp's favorite backyard, at home in Lexington, where the Wildcats are virtually untouchable, and pulled away to a 106-87 victory over West Virginia.

Rick Mount and No. 3 Purdue had a little tougher time, just squeezing by Tulsa 77-74 as Mount hit for two late field goals to settle the affair.

8 Winners

All of the eight teams in the Top 10 won, while Davison, No. 5 and No. 8 Marquette were idle. New Mexico State, No. 6, topped Oklahoma Christian, 93-58, North Carolina, No. 7, swamped Florida Southern, 112-47, Villanova, No. 9, just barely edged Philadelphia Textile, 57-52 and Colorado, No. 10, ripped Air Force, 81-58.

South Carolina, paced by junior Tom Owens, a 6-foot-10 forward, who hit for 27 points and grabbed 17 rebounds, hit on 59 per cent of their shots and outrebounded Auburn 47-25.

Junior backcourt ace John Roche added 25 points and Bob Cremins had 15 in the Carolina attack. Bill Alexander had 26 for Auburn.

Bruins Run

UCLA's new-look Bruins, running more with the graduation of three-time All-American Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 3-4 inch giant who led the West Coasters to three straight national titles, opened up a 19-point margin on Arizona after only 10 minutes and it was all over.

UCLA got 21 points from junior cornerman Sid Wicks and 15 from sophomore guard Henry Bibb. Steve Patterson, Alcindor's replacement, dropped in 12 but chipped in with a game-high 18 rebounds. Four field goals by Wicks helped UCLA to their 30-11 early margin.

Close Gap

Kentucky, leading by 16 points midway in the second half, saw the margin reduced to nine, before storming back behind Mike Pratt and Dan Issel to put it out of reach.

Issel finished with 34 points and Pratt had 28. Larry Steele added 21 for the Wildcats while Dick Symons had 21 for the Mountaineers.

With 3:30 left to play, sophomore Bob Ford dropped in a free throw to snap a 70-70 tie and Mount quickly followed with two baskets to wrap up the victory for Purdue.

Mount had 29 points, hitting 13 of 26 from the field and three straight foul shots. Boilermaker George Faerber grabbed 21 rebounds while Tulsa's Ron Carson was the game's leading scorer with 31 points.

New Mexico State rolled to a 60-23 halftime lead and coasted to its easy triumph. Jimmy Collins led the Aggies with 22 points while Sam Lacy snared 20 rebounds.

No Contest

North Carolina jumped to a 12-0 lead and led 49-14 at halftime as five Tar Heels hit for double figures led by Charlie Scott with 17.

Villanova trailed by 13 points at 36-23 with 15:27 left in the game when Coach Jack Kraft switched his Wildcats from a zone defense to a man-to-man.

Villanova pulled to a 46-46 tie and pulled away in the final 2½ minutes to stifle the upset-minded 10th ranked small college team. Howard Porter topped the Wildcats in scoring with 15.

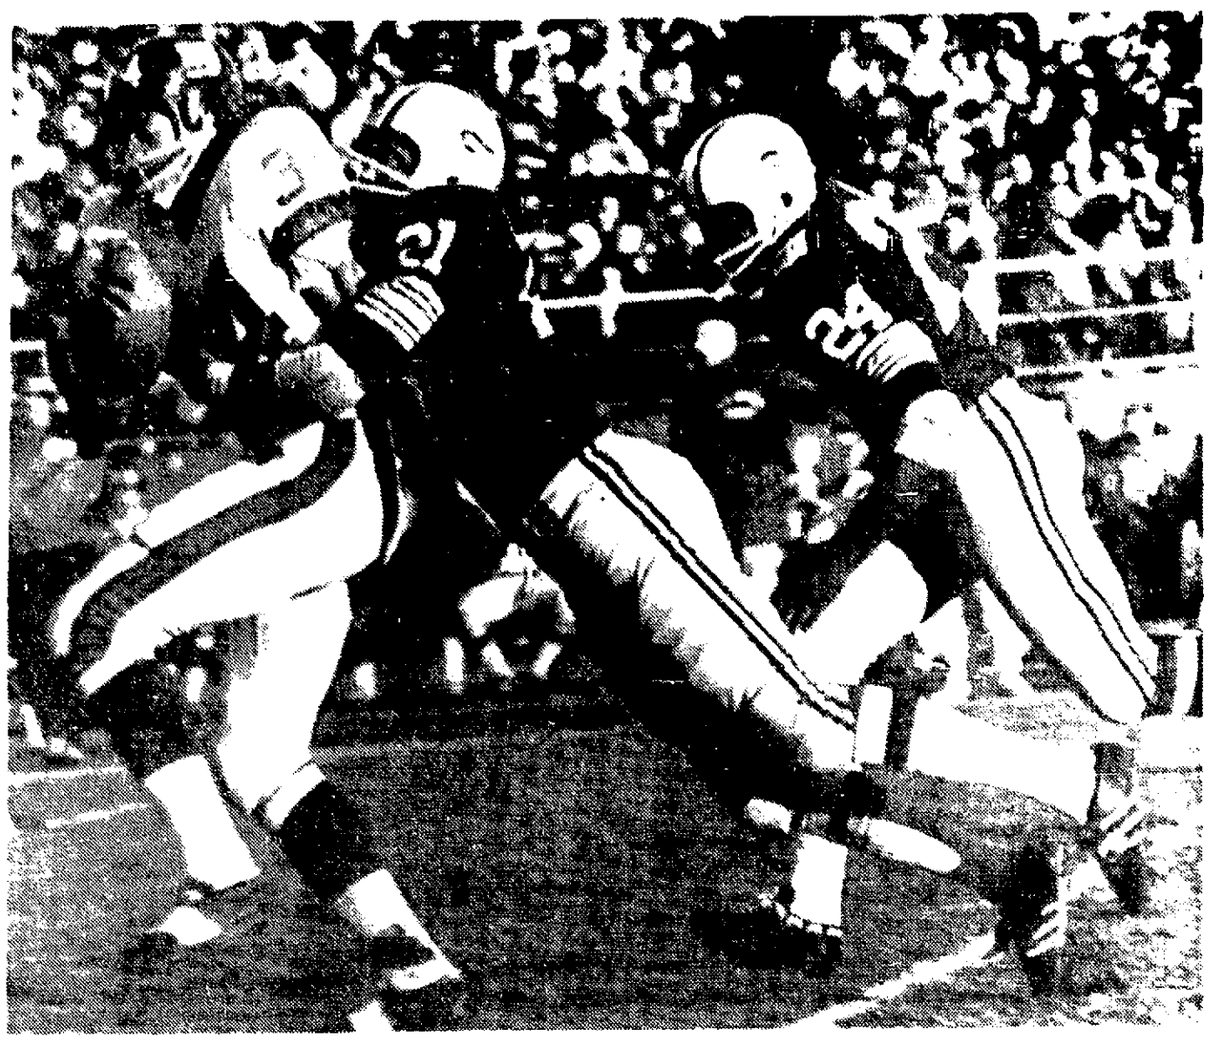
Gordon Tope and Cliff Meely sparked Colorado's triumph over the Air Force with Tope hitting for 22 points and Meely for 16.

Other top-ranked teams winning were No. 11 Duquesne, 123-55 over St. Vincent College, No. 13 Notre Dame, an 84-75 victory over Minnesota, No. 18 Ohio State, nipping Wake Forest 96-92, No. 19 Drake topping Platteville, 106-80 and Houston, No. 20, beating Southwest Louisiana, 89-72. And last season's scoring leader Pete Maravich hit for 31 points, leading Louisiana State past Athletes In Action, 71-68.

27th in Row

Defending small-college champion Kentucky Wesleyan captured its 27th consecutive home court victory, downing Drury College 87-66 while the season's first major college tournament opened in Jacksonville, Fla., with Jacksonville whipping East Tennessee State 92-74 and Morehead State, Ky., upsetting Florida, 82-73 in opening round games of the Sunshine Tournament.

Other results were: Georgia Tech 72, Virginia 49; Michigan 85, Detroit 75; North Carolina State 93, William & Mary 84; Michigan State 89, Eastern Kentucky 85; Georgia 98, Sewanee 67; Maryland 97, Buffalo 77; Ohio U., 90, Northwestern 79; Oregon State 86, Miami, Fla., 81; NYU 103, Lehman 63; Kansas 96, Marshall, W.Va., 80; Vanderbilt 89, The Citadel 58; Rutgers 91, Pittsburgh 79; New Mexico 99, San Fernando Valley St., 82; and Holy Cross 104, Stonehill 84.



Junior Caffey (34), Former Green Bay Packer and now a back with the New York Giants, drags Bob Jeter of the Packers along as Caffey broke away for a long gainer in the first period at Milwaukee County Stadium Sunday. Coffey was the leading ground gainer in the game with 72 yards. Willie Wood (24) of the Packers is at the right. Green Bay scored a 20-10 victory over the Giants. (AP Wirephoto)

Wants to be Traded

Kojis at Odds With Rockets Over Salary

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The San Diego Rockets say team captain Don Kojis might be accommodated in his bid to be traded, but not on his terms.

Kojis, a six-year veteran forward who played for the West in last year's National Basketball Association All-Star game, has been at odds with the Rockets over his salary and reportedly has had differences with the team's star center, Elvin Hayes.

Rocket Owner Bob Breitbard and General Manager Pete Newell told a Monday news conference, however, that Kojis' request to be traded involves his contract and not any problem he might have with Hayes.

Kojis reportedly makes $35,000 a year in the second season of a three-year term contract. The Rockets said he demanded and received a three-year contract extension last September, then refused to sign it.

No-Trade Clause

Kojis' contract has a no-trade clause and Newell said the player has refused to waive it while trying to dictate his own trade destination.

"Our position is hard," Newell said. "We cannot enter into definitive trade negotiations because Kojis won't waive the no-trade clause."

The Rockets, 8-14, were losing eight straight last month when Hayes asked to be traded. That blew over when the team started winning. Now they've lost three straight and it's Kojis who wants out.

Breitbard said Kojis is a "very well-paid professional athlete" and "we will not negotiate a new contract." He would not disclose how much Kojis makes or how much he seeks.

Totally Shocked

"If you want to achieve all-star status, you have to play like an all-star," said Coach Jack McMahon. "I don't see any animosity" between Kojis and Hayes, despite a report in pro sports weekly that Kojis kept a "diary" of "anything bad that Elvin did."

Kojis, who was not invited to the Rockets' news conference, later said:

"I'm totally shocked that this thing would come out this way. To the best of my knowledge, at least 40 to 50 players in this league are making more money than I. I would think my performance in the last two years merits more than I'm making."

Kojis affirmed the report regarding notes on Hayes, but he said he wished to explain at a later date.

"I can't comment," Hayes said, adding that "if a man wants to write a book he should write it about himself.

"I don't think Don has any hassle with me, but with the boss," Hayes said. "I'm happy with my salary. Joe Namath makes a lot of money with the New York Jets with the other guys on the team. If a guy makes you a champion then there's more for you too and you love him."

Kathy Sodermark Jolts 608 National Set in Major Loop

Kathy Sodermark took over the lead in individual national honor count production in the Fox Cities as she fired a 608 series in the Tri-City Women's Major League at Lakeroad Lanes Monday night.

It was Kathy's third national honor set of the season and the second in as many nights at the Neenah bowling establishment. Bev McClellan had a 602 Sunday night in the Doghouse Mixed League.

Mrs. Sodermark opened with a 206 game, finishing with six strikes in a row. Then she blasted a 255 count in the second line, starting with a spare in the first frame and then running a string of eight straight strikes for 14 out of 15 frames. In her last game, she slipped to a 145, but it still was enough to pass the 600 mark.

Best Game Ever

The 255 was Kathy's best game in an 18-year bowling career. Her previous high was a 232 rolled just last week. Mrs. Sodermark bowls in two regular women's leagues each week and carries an average around the 176 mark.

Other national sets this season for Kathy included a 613 in the Classic League at the 41 Bowl Sept. 17 and a 612 in the same circuit Nov. 6.

Alice Patterson powered a 581 series to lead the Queen's Classic League at Sabre Lanes last night and Sue Schroeder took a share of the honors with a 226 singleton. Sue also had a 211 game and finished with a 554 series.

Runnerup honors in the Queen's loop went to Eva Nagan for a 568 series and other high scores included Evelyn Myers 213-563, Elsie Seeley 206-563, Pat Lutz 556, Julie Hidde 204-554, Helen Reblitz 540, Clara Spence 225-539, Shirley Ardell 538, Verona Gloudemans 211-535, Phyllis Ludwig 212 and Joyce McGuggan 211.

In the Lucky League at Sabre Lanes last night, "Curly" Hayes had a 216 game.

"Maggie" Jansen had a 203 game for top count in the Women's League at the Little Chute Recreation recently.

Nobis Re-Injures Knee, Will Miss Rest of Season

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons' All-Pro linebacker, Tommy Nobis, will sit out the rest of the season.

Nobis, who suffered a knee injury in the fourth game of the season with Dallas, was placed on the reserve list Monday. He had not played for six weeks until returning to action in the National Football League game with Baltimore Sunday. He re-injured the knee in the second quarter.

A Falcons spokesman said it had not been determined whether Nobis would undergo surgery.

Frazier-Ellis Bout in 'Garden' Off After Receipts Hassle

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier vs. Jimmy Ellis for the heavyweight title in Madison Square Garden, yes? No.

The proposed bout between Frazier, champion of seven states, and World Boxing Association king Ellis has been called off in New York—leaving Madison Square Garden holding the bag.

"I learned a long time ago never to announce a fight until I have the signed contracts on my desk," Harry Markson, president of the Garden's boxing division, said Monday.

Markson said the bout, scheduled for Feb. 2, wouldn't be held because Ellis had changed his mind.

Had Agreed?

Markson said Ellis had agreed to meet Frazier, but apparently will meet Gregorio Peralta in Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 20.

He said that Angelo Dundee, who manages Ellis, had originally agreed last month to accept the Garden's offer of $150,000 against 30 per cent of all receipts. He said Frazier had agreed to the same terms through his trainer-adviser, Yank Durham.

But in Miami, Dundee denied that the fight had ever been set.

"I never accepted the Garden offer," he said. "We still want the bout somewhere, but the day of dickering as a fight manager is apparently over. They won't budge. We're not going to accept that $150,000 and 30 per cent bid by the Garden."

Markson said Dundee had called him Monday and told him of Ellis' intention to fight Peralta.

"Even if he won the fight and came out of it in good shape, we wouldn't have enough time to put the show on," Markson said. "It takes more than six weeks to put together the closed-circuit network for a fight like this."

Decision on Coatta May be Given Tonight

MADISON (AP) The fate of John Coatta, who has led the University of Wisconsin football team through three losing campaigns, apparently will be decided late today

The school's Athletic Board has called a news conference for 6 p m , presumably to announce whether Coatta's contract, which expires Dec 9, will be renewed

The board was to meet first with Athletic Director Elroy Hirsch, who has remained silent regarding his plans for Coatta

Coatta, a one-time star quarterback at Wisconsin, was hired three years ago to succeed Milt Bruhn and try to raise the Badgers' sagging football fortunes

Coatta's teams went winless for the first two years, but picked up three victories this season, giving them their best Big Ten finish since 1962, when the Badgers went to the Rose Bowl

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by John Behnke

Here's an oddity about pro football player Lance Alworth . . . He's been in the American Football League every season since 1962 and every year he's been healthy he's never won the pass-receiving title — BUT the two years he had bad injuries, 1966 and 1968, he won the pass-receiving championship! . . . In 1966 he had injuries to both hands while in 1968 he had an injured back, and finished as the league's leading receiver . . . But in all the other years with no major injuries, he did not take the league title.

Few people remember now that Joe Namath was also drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League before he signed with the New York Jets of the American League.

Do you know there's a team in pro football that retired a player's uniform number even though that player NEVER played a game for them . . . When the Cleveland Browns got the great running back, Ernie Davis out of college, they assigned uniform number 45 to him . . . But Davis was stricken with a fatal disease and died before he could ever play a game for the Browns . . . Cleveland honored Davis' memory by retiring his uniform number, even though Davis never really appeared in that number.

NOTES and NOTIONS

John L. Faustian

When a team is no longer in the running for a championship the name of the game is Wait till next year ' Packer fans while savoring their first victory in four weeks Sunday, could anticipate the 1970 season with more than a little optimism Playing impressively in the 20-10 victory over New York were such members of the youth corps as rookies Richie Moore Dave Hampton and Perry Williams, sophomores Fred Carr Dick Himes and Bill Lueck, and third year men Don Horn and Travis Williams Happily, Coach Phil Bengtson has finally gotten around to giving Carr some extended duty As we maintained all along, Carr is too good a player to be on the bench His first game showing at defensive end is any indication of his promise Carr may be the next "Willie Davis " ' Operation maturation ' continues for Horn who is learning with experience Over-all Horn gave his best performance since he ' pitched" a surprising win over the Bears last December

One has to have a certain amount of mixed emotional reaction to imposing performances by young players For this might well hasten the exit of more stalwarts from the Packers' unprecedented championship era Willie Davis in a post-game TV interview sounded very much like a man who has already decided to call it a career after this season Henry Jordan, who at one time was supposedly out for only two games, has been scratched for the season — and possibly for good — by being switched to the reserve list Bart Starr, though theoretically on the inactive list for only two weeks, has definitely reached the crossroads and must decide if he wants to continue his career and risk further injuries And Forrest Gregg, to all intents and purposes, came back as an active player for just this one more year to help out So, it's far from inconceivable that next year Ray Nitschke could be the only remaining veteran of pre Lombardi vintage

The Packers, possible defensive line of 1970 could well regain the potency of the team's unit in the 1965-7 period. If Carr lives up to his promise, if Moore continues to learn and improve, if Bob Brown retains his form of the last month and so and if Lionel Aldridge continues playing up to his capabilities, the Vikings and the Rams may have to look to their "front 4" laurels next year.

When it came to points, the Packer defense played its typically miserly game Sunday. The Giants, frequently moved at will between the 15-yard lines but when the Green Bay goal-line was threatened, the Packers snarled "far enough!" Green Bay has allowed an average of just a shade over 12 points a game in the second half of the season. In fact the Bay defense has been so good most of the campaign that the Packers (6-5) have actually allowed fewer points than the unbeaten Rams (11-0—180 points to 182. In the entire NFL league, only Minnesota (103) and Detroit (168) have permitted fewer points than the Packers.

The Packer offense, though far from polished much of the time finally got up a head of steam The 95-yard march, in particular must have given the whole attacking unit a much-needed shot of confidence Travis Williams and Donny Anderson proved that they deserve to be the starting running backs Travis continues to be an "all the way" threat from any spot on the field, while the versatile Anderson is doing well as runner and a receiver (and his punting Sunday was the best of the season)

Vince Lombardi's characterization of Sonny Jurgensen as "the best quarterback I have ever seen and perhaps the greatest the NFL has seen," is still puzzling. While Lombardi certainly is entitled his opinion, one can't help feeling that he demonstrates a rather short memory. For nine years, Bart Starr flawlessly implemented Lombardi's philosophy and decisions on the playing field. Starr, whose only peer as an all-around craftsman in the last decade is Johnny Unitas, has won more big games and more championships than any other QB in pro-football history. Jurgensen is an excellent passer, beyond question, but he hasn't shown the consistency or the leadership of Starr Sonny has never gotten either of his teams—Philadelphia or Washington—close to a title . . . although, of course, he can't be held solely responsible for this.

Sunday, in a crucial game against a top-flight foe (Los Angeles) Jurgensen appeared to be a rather ordinary QB. Though he probably has a quicker release than Starr, Jurgensen was decked six times by Ram chargers.

If one had to choose the No. 1 NFL quarterback of this season it would probably have to be Roman Gabriel. He has improved considerably as a field general and his size and strength give him an edge over most QBs in resisting the pass rush. Joe Kapp is cut from the same cloth—though he is less consistent than Gabriel—and their duel will be an interesting sidelight (and possibly the determining factor) of the Sunday match up of winning streaks — 11 games for LA and 10 for Minnesota.

The Thanksgiving Day tie between Dallas and San Francisco prevented us from sweeping last week's eight NFL predictions. The 7-0-1 mark boosts the season's average to 763 (254-79-12) Guesses for this weekend are Packers over Browns, 49ers over Bears, Cowboys over Steelers, Colts over Lions, Vikings over Rams, Falcons over Saints, Giants over Cards Eagles over Redskins possible showcase attraction in the Atlanta Braves' swapping bag The Braves are looking for pitching help, particularly the southpaw variety The Angels are among several clubs who have expressed interest in Alou

Many teams, including Baltimore's American League champs love California right-hander Andy Messersmith But Reichardt, the former $200,000 bonus baby, appears the Angel most available And the recent acquisition of hard-hitting outfielder Alex Johnson from Cincinnati makes Reichardt all the more expendable, if the Angels can get a No 4 or 5 hitter in return

The Cleveland Indians could be among the most active traders, with such as Tony Horton, Max Alvis and Larry Brown as bait for one or more proved pitchers

The Indians, losingest team in the majors last season, got the first pick in Monday's draft and selected southpaw Larry Staab, a 13-game winner for Los Angeles' Spokane farm club in the Pacific Coast League last season

There were 19 players selected—15 in the first round—at a cost of $25,000 apiece in the major league phase of the draft In contrast to last year's draft, when Belinsky—picked by St Louis—was among several journeymen tabbed, the clubs apparently went for youth this time around

Seven clubs, including the Mets, went into the session with frozen 40-man rosters and did not draft Two others—Oakland and San Diego—had roster openings but also abstained.

In addition to the imminent trading binge, regular business at the week-long meetings, which shift to Miami Wednesday, includes discussion of restructuring the game's hierarchy, player relations and interleague play.

The naming of a successor to NL President Warren Giles, who has announced plans to retire after a half-century in the game, also is forthcoming

Harem Girls, Orgy Feeling In Shoe Store

By WHAYNE EISENMAN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl J Haas tweaks his black mustache and describes with pleasure how scantily clad harem girls will entice male customers into his new shop

Girls There

So far the harem costumes and the topless look are absent but the girls are there

Haas, Adler Shoe Shops vice president, says the harem costumes are order'd and the top less look is a very real possibility.

There is evidence that the nude look may be moving out of the ivory tower of high fashion into the rough and tumble of sales promotion

"We've had some very high caliber drug firms ask us for topless and nude girls to promote products at medical seminars," said Stuart Golden, president of Trade Show Promotions International

Special Training

His firm employes between job actresses who—a recent advertisement says—"are specially trained to stimulate interest in your product or services"

"Women seem by far, the most desireable sales promoters," he said His clients in three countries like the girls to wear miniskirts and bikinis as well as more conservative uniforms

He refuses the requests for nude and topless girls, he said, and often advises against bikinis if they're not right for the product

Even so, a large electrical products company recently insisted on a model in a bikini to introduce a new computer to an audience of engineers

Attract Attention

"Girls attract attention" explained a spokesman for BP Oil which in chill November weather had pretty girls in pretty skimpy costumes giving commuters handbills on something as sexless as home heating oil

As Americans become more and more accustomed to the nude look via films fashion topless—and now in California bottomless—night club entertainment sex and the single salesgirl might become as American as apple pie

But some say hard-sell sexuality is far from an established trend

Fifteen or 20 years ago there was a strong emphasis on sex and cheesecake particularly in trade paper ads

Harem Girls, Orgy Feeling In Shoe Store

By WHAYNE EISENMAN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl J Haas tweaks his black mustache and describes with pleasure how scantily clad harem girls will entice male customers into his new shop

"We think the more skin that's showing, the more sales we'll get" he says "We're trying to create an orgy atmosphere"

"In fact" promises an ad for the store "we may just add topless sales girls to worship at your feet"

Girls There

So far the harem costumes and the topless look are absent but the girls are there

Haas, Adler Shoe Shops vice president, says the harem costumes are ordered and the topless look is a very real possibility

Haas is not alone in his desire to use feminine flesh to sell merchandise

There is evidence that the nude look may be moving out of the ivory tower of high fashion into the rough and tumble of sales promotion

"We've had some very high caliber drug firms ask us for topless and nude girls to promote products at medical seminars," said Stuart Golden, president of Trade Show Promotions International

Special Training

His firm employes between-job actresses who—a recent advertisement says—"are specially trained to stimulate interest in your product or services"

"Women seem by far, the most desireable sales promoters," he said His clients in three countries like the girls to wear miniskirts and bikinis as well as more conservative uniforms

He refuses the requests for nude and topless girls, he said, and often advises against bikinis if they're not right for the product

Even so, a large electrical products company recently insisted on a model in a bikini to introduce a new computer to an audience of engineers

Attract Attention

"Girls attract attention" explained a spokesman for BP Oil which in chill November weather had pretty girls in pretty skimpy costumes giving commuters handbills on something as sexless as home heating oil

As Americans become more and more accustomed to the nude look via films fashion topless—and now in California bottomless—night club entertainment sex and the single salesgirl might become as American as apple pie

But some say hard-sell sexuality is far from an established trend

"We have no specific incidents where a client says 'Let's get sexy'" said Wallace Clayton a vice president at J Walter Thompson Co the world's largest ad agency

Fifteen or 20 years ago there was a strong emphasis on sex and cheesecake particularly in trade paper ads

Cyclones Will Start 7-Game Road Trip

The UW-Fox Valley Campus basketball team hits the road looking for its fifth consecutive victory tonight when the Cyclones meet UW-Marathon County at Wausau

The Cyclones, idle since their 86-54 romp over UW-Marinette Nov. 22, will be starting a string of seven consecutive games away from home which will stretch until Jan 17 Fox Valley also plays at WSU-Barron County (Rice Lake) Friday night and Emanuel Lutheran (Eau Claire) Saturday afternoon.

In the UW-Marathon outfit, coach Tom Alby's cagers run up against the defending Northern Division champion of the Wisconsin Collegiate Conference

Marathon 2-1

Thus far this season, Marathon County has posted a 2-1 record, losing their most recent outing to Barron County, 101-76, after beating Emanuel Lutheran, 105-55, and UW-Rock County (Janesville), 90-73

The player the Cyclones will have to watch is 6-3 Rhinelander freshman Robb Jensen, who has averaged 19.3 points per game Other starters are Greg Gaetzman (6-2), Jim Kreusel (6-2), Dale Bronson (6-1), and Bob Gibbs (6-2)

Fox Valley, which has averaged 92.8 points per game compared to a defensive mark of 64.5, will use the same starting lineup it has most of the season

Hansen Top Scorer

Leading the Cyclone regulars is guard Russ Hansen, who is hitting at a 17.8 clip Dick Gonnering, who missed the last game, will be back sporting 17.7 average for three games

Ron Nagreen (13.5), Steve Larson (10.0), and Mike Kirsling (8.5) are the remaining starters Top reserves should be Bruce Wiegman (10.5), Ron Haack (7.5), Mark Schroeder (5.0), and Terry Noeller (5.2)

Guard Greg Schultz is not making the trip because of a bone chip in his ankle.

Draft Order Decided

Sept. 14 Goes First

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men from 19 to 26 years old born on Sept 14 who have last names starting with the letter J will be the first ones drafted next month under the nation's first generation.

In less than an hour and a half Monday night, all 365 days of the year plus Leap Year's Feb. 29 were drawn at random from a big glass laboratory jar at Selective Service headquarters here.

The order in which they emerged, rolled up in blue plastic capsules, determines the order in which men with matching birthdays will be called for the draft next year—or, for those now deferred or exempt—in any fugure year when they become "1-A."

Draft oCmmittee Man

Rep. Alexander Pirnie of New York, ranking Republican on a House subcommittee on the draft, drew the first date from the jar shortly after 8 p.m.

Then a succession of young men and women—representatives of state youth committees created earlier this year as unofficial advisers to the Selective Service System—took turns drawing the rest of the dates.

The second one drawn was April 24, then came Dec. 30; then Feb. 14, Oct. 18, Sept. 6, Oct. 26, Sept 7, Nov 22, Dec. 6 . . .

Three youth advisers had refused to help in the drawing and a fourth balked when his turn came; four others helped in the drawing but only after making unscheduled statements—one reading a mild protest signed by 14 participants, and three others more or less supporting the proceedings

Otherwise the drawing moved smoothly—so smoothly it was finished half an hour sooner than draft officials had anticipated.

Following the drawing of the dates, another drawing was held in which letters of the alphabet were scrambled and pulled out. This will be used by local boards to decide the order in which to draft the eligible men.

First out in the second drawing was the letter J.

The new lottery system was signed into law by the President last week and provides the first major reform in the draft since the Selective Service established a complicated form of induction during World War II.

Period of Uncertainty

The previous system, which included a long list of deferments, was criticized because it left young men uncertain about their fate for as long as seven years.

The new lottery system is designed to reduce this period of uncertainty to one year.

The last time the draft was based on a lottery was in 1942.

Every man who reaches at least 19 years of age but not 26 by the end of this year now has his place in line for the draft in whatever year he becomes 1-A

Brothers Place 1, 2 in Lottery

MADISON Wis (AP) — Richard Stolman's birthday places him in the No. 1 group on the new draft lottery list His older brother is a No 2 draw.

"There was not much anyone could say," Stolman related Monday night after a telephone call to his parents in Nashville, Tenn "Nobody could really grasp it."

Stolman, 19, is a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin He was born Sept 14. He said his brother, Douglas, 21, a senior at the University kansas, was born April 24

The younger Stolman said he was dazed but "You've got to laugh about it."

Blaze in Canada

55 Missing in Fire At Home for Aged

NOTRE-DAME-DU-LAC, Que. (AP) — A home for the aged burned down to the ground in this tiny lakeside community today and police said as many as 55 of its inhabitants were unaccounted for.

Quebec Provincial Police reported that about a score of the 75-80 persons in the building were known to have escaped the blaze that swept through the wooden, three-story building on Lake Temiscouata about 120 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Known to be in the home were 69 elderly patients, 17 of whom were listed as crippled and unable to move about without aid. The home had about 10 staff members.

Nurse Fled

A male and a female nurse told police they had time only to leap from the windows after seeing flames racing through the building.

The fire started about 6 a.m.

Thirty local volunteer firemen and reinforcements from neighboring communities fought in vain against the blaze.

About 15 of those who escaped were taken to a hospital. The others took refuge in private homes nearby.

The weather: 6th graf A065 etc.

Weather in this tiny community of 1,500 was clear and cold when the fire started.

Police also reported that a small jewelry shop in the area was partially destroyed by flames.

Lake Temiscouata

The sleepy little town in on the main highway between Riviere du Loup and Edmundston, N.B. It is nestled on the shores of Lake Temiscouata in an area where lumbering is one of the main occupations.

Notre-Dame-du-Lac is six miles from Cabano, a Quebec town that was practically wiped out by fire along with its lumbering industry in the early 1950s.

That fire destroyed 120 buildings and left 1,000 people homeless. Damages were estimated at $16 million.

Fires in homes for the aged, orphanages and schools in Quebec Province have taken tragic tolls in the last 51 years.

Sixty-four children died in a fire at the Grey Nuns Orphanage in Montreal Feb. 14, 1918.

Early in 1927, 77 children died in a fire that started while a movie was showing at the Laurier Palace Theatre.

Forty-six pupils and teachers died Jan. 18, 1938, when fire roared through the Sacred Heart College at St. Hyacinthe, 38 miles east of Montreal.

Thirty-five aged persons and nuns died June 15, 1951, when fire destroyed Montreal's Hospice Ste. Cunegonde.

Surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital have successfully performed open-heart surgery on Ann Mary Flanders, who at five pounds, two ounces is the smallest patient ever to undergo a cardiac operation using the heart-lung machine. Ann Mary, who was a month old when doctors operated last March, now weighs 14 pounds and gets around easily in her playpen. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Flanders, Waltham, Mass. Nixon Calls for War on Hunger

Conference on Health Opens at White House

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon called today for a massive national commitment to end hunger and malnutrition and said, "The plain fact is that a great many Americans are not eating well enough to sustain health."

In an address prepared for a White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, Nixon urged support for three measures pending in Congress which, he said, "should virtually eliminate the problem of poverty as a cause of malnutrition."

One measure would put a floor under the income of every American family, supplementing or providing incomes for 25 million persons.

A Milestone

Nixon said the meeting of experts in the field marks an historic milestone and added: "It sets the seal of urgency on our national commitment to put an end to hunger and malnutrition due to poverty in America."

The President, who got a view of the angry mood of many of the persons invited to the conference even before his scheduled keynote address, said the central question until now has been whether the nation would accept the problems of malnourishment as a national responsibility.

Claim Responsibility

"That moment has passed," Nixon said. ". . . Speaking for this administration, I not only accept the responsibility—I claim the responsibility."

He said while action is required by our national conscience, practical terms compel action.

An ill-fed child, he explained, is dulled in curiosity, has lower stamina and is distracted from learning. An ill-fed worker produces less and is absent more.

The mounting cost of medical care resulting from illnesses relating to diet puts an economic burden on all society," Nixon said.

The President conceded there is room for argument about the extent and severity of hunger but not the existence of hunger itself.

Many Affected

"The plain fact is, he said, "that a great many Americans are not eating well enough to sustain health."

Money is one factor in eradicating malnourishment, Nixon noted, saying the $5 billion plus he has proposed for new or bigger programs for food and family assistance next year would go far toward controlling the problem

It was in this connection that he plugged for a floor under incomes along with legislation to reform and expand the food stamp program and a bill to establish a Commission on Population Growth and the American Future.

Nixon promised full consideration of any recommendations the conference produces and said he expected "a lively difference of opinions."

Re-examine Findings

A follow-up conference a year from now will re-examine findings and what has been done about carrying them out, he said.

And Nixon pledged there will be no more conference reports gathering dust on government shelves or conference efforts withering in futility.

"I commit to your concern," Nixon said, "the lives of millions of Americans, too young, too old, or too hurt by life to do without your help. And I commit to your concern the not less serious task of helping to bring the rest of America to understand what we seek and to join us in adding this new dimension to the concept of American democracy."

GOP Leaders Seek Compromise Tax Reform Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders sought today to shape a compromise income tax cut proposal which can win both White House approval and Democratic support.

It is expected to include a limited increase in the personal exemption and some other changes for inclusion in the tax reform bill.

A cut to 23 per cent in the oil depletion allowance was written into the bill Monday.

The Republican compromise proposal, to be sponsored by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., would be proposed as a substitute for the amendment of Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to raise the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $1,000 for each dependent in four yearly steps.

The Gore measure is backed by Democratic leaders, but faces stiff administration opposition on grounds it would cost the Treasury too much revenue.

Debate Resumed

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the GOP leader, said Republicans hope the Percy plan—still being drafted as the Senate resumed its tax debate—will win administration endorsement.

He said it would involve an increase to $700 or $750 in the personal exemption, with adjustment in income tax rates as well.

Scott said estimates of the revenue cost are being prepared now.

He said the White House has taken no position on the GOP plan, but it is obvious the administration would prefer it to the Gore measure.

$1,000 Exemption

"We hope to persuade them that it is better to do this than to take an up and down chance on a $1,000 exemption," Scott said.

The Republican leader had said earlier he was inclined to support the Gore proposal. He said that drew a quick reaction from the administration—personal visits from officials of the Treasury and the White House.

"They looked pained," Scott said.

The administration spent a busy day Monday working to scuttle the amendments. Edwin S. Cohen, assistant secretary of the Treasury, issued a warning that Gore's amendment would cause a big additional net revenue loss to the government which "could not be countenanced."

Sen. Russell B. Long said he interpreted this to mean President Nixon would veto a bill with a $1,000 exemption in it. The Louisiana Democrat, who is Finance Committee chairman and floor manager of the bill, backs the administration in the fight.

Finance Suggestion

In accepting the 23 per cent oil and depletion allowance Monday, the Senate went along with its own Finance Committee.

A House version of the bill cuts the depletion allowance from the present 27½ per cent to 20 per cent.

The final reduction now will have to be worked out in the Senate-House conference.

This was the first time the Senate had voted to reduce the long-disputed allowance since the 27½ per cent figure became law in 1926.

Bitter Dispute

The allowance and personal exemption were the most bitterly disputed items in the bill.

Gore's tax reduction package with a $1,000 exemption would reduce taxes $14.8 billion in the long run compared with $9 billion of relief in the measure as approved by Finance.

The bill also would gain $6.7 billion in revenue through various reform provisions.

Long, in a letter to colleagues, said he was advised by the Treasury the $1,000 exemption would result in an additional revenue loss of $6 billion in the next three years.

Gore was backed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Democratic whip Edward M. Kennedy.

Charles D. Watson, 24, and Patricia Kernwinkle, 21, have been arrested in connection with the Sharon Tate murder case. (AP Wirephoto)

Pair of Hippies Arrested In Slaying of Sharon Tate

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two members of a wandering band of hippies were under arrest today and a third was being sought in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six others here last August.

Police said they would seek murder indictments against "four or five" other persons.

The honey blonde actress and four others were murdered at Miss Tate's Bel Air mansion Aug 9. The following day, several miles away, a wealthy merchant and his wife were killed in a so-called "copycat" slaying.

Under Arrest

Under arrest were Charles D. Watson, 24, of Copeville, Tex., and Patricia Kernwinkel, 21, of Los Angeles. Being sought was Linda Louise Kasabian, 19, also of Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles Times said members of a hate-oriented, occult band of hippies were suspected of the seven slayings, as well as at least four other "grotesque" murders in the Los Angeles area.

The only other killing listed by the paper was that of a 34-year-old music teacher, Gary Hinman, who was found stabbed Aug. 31 in his Topanga Canyon home some eight miles from the Tate estate.

The Times said police believe the victims were killed both to "punish" them for their affluent life style and to "liberate" them from it.

The paper said members of what it termed the mystical death-cult consider themselves the slaves of the leader of the group of 20th century nomads.

The newspaper said the police break in the case came two weeks ago when a young woman member of the hippie band told a police informer of the mass murders, recounting details which police said could be known only by the killers.

The arrests, the search for Miss Kasabian and the indictments to be sought culminate an intensive investigation by 19 detectives, Police Chief Edward M. Davis told a news conference Monday.

Detectives have concluded, Davis said, that the nomadic hippies "who committed the Tate murders" also stabbed the owners of a chain of markets, Leno and Rosemary LeBianca, to death.

Indictments Asked

The Los Angeles County grand jury is being asked for indictments against "all of the suspects, those we have named in warrants and four or five others, in all seven of the killings," said Police Inspector Peter Hagan.

State troopers hunted through hippie colonies in the Taos area of north-central New Mexico for Miss Kasabian. She is accused in Los Angeles murder warrants of killing Miss Tate, three of her jet-set companions and a friend of the teen-age caretaker on Miss Tate's estate.

Miss Kernwinkel, who pulled a hat over her head as police approached, was arrested Monday in Mobile, Ala., on a warrnt almost identical to Miss Kasabian's.

Arrested by Cousin

Watson, accused in a warrant of killing only the caretaker's friend, Steven Parent, was arrested Sunday in McKinney, Tex., by his sheriff cousin, who summoned him to jail from Copeville by telephone.

The bodies of Parent, 18, and Miss Tate's jet-set companions —Hollywood hair stylist Jay Sebring, coffee heiress Abigail Folger and Polish playboy Voityck Frokowsky—were found scattered in and around the actress' home.

In both the Tate and LaBianca cases, police said, some of the victims were hooded and the word "Pig" was scrawled in blood. Police termed the killings "bizarre" and "ritualistic."

"The suspects," Davis said Monday, "appeared to live together in what might be described as a commune . . . It could have had some religious connotations connected with it."

Silent on Drugs

"I can comment and say religion, but I'm afraid if I commented on whether or not drugs were used this might prejudice the case of the defendants," Davis said.

At the time of the slayings, the group lived at the Spawn Movie Ranch west of suburban Chatsworth, Davis said. They then moved, the chief said, to "near the Death Valley National Monument in Inyo County."

Hagan said the group joined several other groups in what he described as a very large commune of hippies in the Death Valley area.

Sheriff's deputies said they arrested 26 "self-confessed hippies" in a military-style commune in the Death Valley area last October. Ten were held on a variety of charges including car theft.

The three named in the Tate warrants were not among them, but Davis said: "We suspect that someone in custody (in Inyo County) may be involved in the murders. It could be more than one person . . . We're going to bring the matter before the grand jury."

Motives in the Tate and LaBianca slayings "are difficult to perceive," Davis said, adding that robbery might have been a minor motive in the LaBianca case.

The killers had been at the Tate home "on a previous occasion when different people lived at the address," Davis said. He didn't elaborate.

"The indication at this time is that none of the suspects . . . have personally known any of the victims," he said.

Davis also said some weapons used in the slayings have been found, but "there are some weapons outstanding." He wouldn't describe them or say where they were discovered.

Bishop Wycislo Discloses Budget

Catholic Diocese Needs $1.1 Million

GREEN BAY -- In a historic first, the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay, Monday disclosed the budgetary needs of the see to the public.

A total of $1,145,800 will be required in 1970 to operate the diocese, Bishop Wycislo told the news media here.

In a statement issued at a press conference, the prelate said that $750,000 of this budget would have to be raised through the current appeal program, which will be climaxed by a Christmas gift plan.

"The balance of the $395,800 will be realized from diocesan investments, parish assessments and contributions," he added.

The reason for the disclosure, the bishop said, "is in answer to a growing awareness on the part of the laity of the financial pressures of the church.

"Really, I am asking everyone in the diocese to accept a corporate commitment as a personal responsibility," he said.

"It is no longer a question of my diocese or your parish, my needs or your problems, but our diocese, our parishes, our needs and our problems.

"I am trying to get rid of the provincialism," he added.

"Practical Silution"

The initiation of the annual diocesan service appeal was called "the most practical solution" to the financial problems plagueing the diocese.

"It gives everyone an opportunity to share in a more personal way in the works of the area," Bishop Wycislo said.

The 10-point program to be served through the drive includes the Newman Apostolate, the seminary, priestly education, Christian formation programs and Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, Catholic charities, home for senior citizens, diocesan missionary activities, and priests' health program.

In addition, it is also planned to establish a contingency fund to meet emergencies in diocesan services, the bishop explained. This fund totals $140,000.

Because of the service appeal, extra collections which will be climinated in each parish are

County Plans Push For Administrator

Proposal Backs Woehler for Position

A proposal to create the position of county administrator in Outagamie County was to be brought before the county board's executive committee this morning, along with a recommendation to appoint Alvin Woehler, present county executive secretary, to the post.

The relatively rapid action toward creating the job after it was authorized by the legislature is believed to be an effort to block any attempt toward creating an elected executive position, which would be independent of the board.

The recommendation was being made by the personnel subcommittee. If acted upon favorably by the executive committee, the proposal will be submitted to the entire county board Dec. 9.

Specifics Unknown

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, chairman of the personnel subcommittee, refused to release the specific contents of the resolution until it was given to the entire executive committee. He said he could not remember at which personnel committee meeting the matter was discussed.

The county administrator is one of two forms of executive position authorized for counties under recent state legislation. The other is the elected executive.

The administrator would assume all of the powers now held by the county board chairman, plus the authority to name all appointive department heads and the responsibility for an executive budget. He would not have veto power over county board action and would serve at the pleasure of the board.

The elected executive plan gives the executive veto powers over board actions.

Served 4 Years

Woehler has been executive secretary since the position was created in 1965. The executive secretary post carries no specific statutory powers, while the formal powers of the county administrator position are outlined by state statute.

During the November County Board session, both Board Chairman Sylvester Esler and Supv. Ervin Conradt, who also is a state representative, urged county pressure to have the executive-administrator bill vetoed because of the provision which permits public referendum. However, the bill was signed into law the following day.

County officials hinted Monday that they now have a written opinion from the attorney general's office indicating that after a county board has acted to create either the executive or administrator posts, a referendum would have no effect.

An earlier view expressed by Harold Froehlich, Assembly speaker, was that a public referendum would override any action of the county board.

Exam Ordered In Shooting

Chilton Man Sent To State Hospital Before Hearing

CHILTON — A 30-day psychiatric examination at Central State Hospital, Waupun, was ordered Monday for David Solchenberger, 31, Chestnut Street, by Calumet County Judge D. H. Sehora.

Solchenberger was taken into custody Thursday evening by county authorities after his estranged wife accused him of attempting to shoot her when he returned to her home with his children.

Solchenberger also was declared indigent by the court and William Hertel was appointed his legal counsel in the matter. Solchenberger will have a preliminary hearing after he returns from the State Hospital. Bond was continued in the amount of $25,000.

Authorities still are investigating the incident.

Youth Caught In Machine on Tigerton Farm

MARION — David Laatsch, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Laatsch, route 2, Tigerton, is listed in far conditon today at Theda Clark Hospital, after catching his left hand in a corn picker Friday afternoon.

Laatsch was found by his father and brother-in-law about 3:30 p.m. when they returned to the field to pick up a load of corn. Laatsch had reached into the picker when it became plugged and his arm was pulled into the machine.

Dr. William McInnis and Gordon Raether a Caroline implement dealer, were called and Laatsch was freed after 1½ hours.

Water Use Hearing

Chain O' Lakes Urged to Act

KING — Members of the Chain O' Lakes Property Owners Association received a letter Monday from their president, Harold Dushek, pleading for action and partcipation in the Dec. 9 hearing to present views on the intake of water from Rainbow Lake by the Grand Army Home for Veterans.

"This is a notice of a public hearing of vital interest to all Chain O' Lakes property owners at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 9, at the Amusement Hall at the Home," the letter states. "Action is required on your part, either through attendance, or an immediate letter or telegram to your assemblyman in Madison.

Byers will be chairman of the hearing called by the Assembly Conservation Committee and the Assembly Veterans and Military Affairs Committee.

"Your association continues firm in its struggle against the siphoning of millions of gallons of water out of Rainbow Lake by the Home at King," the letter continues.

"In a lower court at Madison, our initial legal action has been turned aside by a judge who, in our opinion, did not weigh properly the issues of our rights as riparian owners. Your association may take the case to higher courts, but this is another subject: You will be advised in due time.

"The purpose of the hearing is to lay the groundwork for possible legislation to control indiscriminate usage of water, taken from state lakes, rivers and streams," Dushek points out.

He adds that the "public hearing is a unique opportunity for everyone to present views on the intake of water from Rainbow Lake by the home. "Wells could have been dug for a fraction of the cost, without endangering the Chain O' Lakes in any way, he said.

"If we do not defend our riparian rights, if we do not continue our efforts to protect the Chain O' Lakes, these lakes, too, may end up polluted and ruined forever," Dushek warns property owners.

Waupaca Tax Hearing Set For Tonight

WAUPACA — City taxpayers will have an opportunity at 7 p.m. today to ask questions on the 1970 budget which calls for a total expenditure of $625,485 and a city tax levy of $198,214.

If the budget, which has been tentatively approved by the City Council, is accepted by the council after the public hearing, taxes will be increased $3.50 per $1,000.

Last year's rate was 45 mills, and the proposed 1970 budget assessment would be 48.5 mills, or $48.5 per $1,000, bringing the tax on a $10,000 home to $485.

Expected expenditures for general government in 1970 are $119,635; for protection of persons and property, $121,795; for health, welfare and sanitation, $12,400; for transportation, $98,080; for education and recreation, $76,213; and for indebtedness, $122,446. Capital outlays will total $73,520, including $10,000 for street surfacing, $10,000 for sidewalks, $15,000 for street machinery, and $9,000 for the municipal airport.

Planner Offers Solution

New London Told It Needs Flood Plain Zone Ordinance

NEW LONDON — A regional planner warned aldermen and planning commission members Monday night the state deadline is "long gone" for cities and counties to adopt flood plain zoning ordinances.

Boyd Kinzley, director of natural resources of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, said at the joint session that the state now is empowered to write such ordinances for the areas which have not adopted their own.

However, he said, because the state is short of personnel, this is unlikely in the near future.

Mayor S. W. Krostue said he asked Kinzley to appear because there was considerable confusion on the flood plain program. He said he had asked Kinzley to explain the points of the relatively new state program which is geared to control construction near surface waters.

Damage Increases

"With all the flood control measures taken, the dollar value of damage done continues to increase," said Kinzley. "This is a nationwide problem, which the State of Wisconsin has realized."

He said that through the use of county and city authority the state was trying to reduce the amount of flood damage. However, he noted that the north side of New London seems to have forgotten that the flood plain is nature's war of easing flood pressures.

The law does not say the city cannot use the area, Kinzley added, but it just tries to minimize the amount of damage by restricting the uses of the land.

He said the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers had provided figures on flood possibilities.

Recommends Ordinance

Kinzley recommended a model ordinance based on the Corps' estimation of the worst flood which would hit the area in a 100 year period. He also urged keeping the section along the river bank open and the adjacent region under strict control for sufficient flood-proofing or structures.

His recommendation is based on the Corps' 100-Year Flood Expectanty statistics. The Corps has statistics for several other periods of time.

Ald. Matt Burton sad the 100-Year Flood figures had never been reached. Kinzley noted that "although the figures are not 100 per cent right, they are very close."

Krostue noted that the reason for the meeting was to find out if the city could be forced to adopt a flood plain zoning ordinance.

Kinzley said that according to the law it could. However he added that the way the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) was handling it the city probably would not be forced into the situation soon.

Want Cooperation

The DNR is looking for cooperation from each area since each area knows its own problem best.

Kinzley said the ordinance would keep frequently flooded areas free of buildings, while putting flood control measures on buildings constructed in the other nearby area.

Krostue asked what would happen to a building that burned down in the flood plain. Kinzley said the building could be rebuilt, but would have to meet the flood-proofing measures required by the city.

He said that flood - proofing might include requirements as water-tight construction to a certan elevation. But that this does not mean the building would have to change its elevation.

Meet Requirements

Kinzley said that new buildings could be built if they meet the requirements. However, he noted that many ordinances do climinate single family dwellings from building in the flood plain.

He said the city ordinance did not have to coincide with the counties' ordinances. The counties have no jurisdiction over incorporated municipalties.

It also was noted the city could set its own standards, complying to those required by the state.

Kinzley said the ordinance could be as simple or complex, as the city desired. He noted that it would be simpler if the city left the proof of compliance to the applicant.

The city was relatively well off, as it has records and other required data already compiled, he said.

He recommended that the city use the Corps of Engineers map as a guideline. The flood profile should be used as the actual control, he added.

Ald. Fred Nowak asked Kinzley whether the city should study other flood plain ordinances.

Krostue noted that "they (Northwestern) will draw one (an ordinance) up for you."

Kinzley said that basically the commission can use its model ordinance by revising it for the individual problems of the city.

Krostue noted that the city's zoning ordinances need updating.

Kinzley said that it would be possible to update the present ordinances with flood plaining. He added that all of the existing structures in the flood plain area would not be affected by an ordinance until replaced or repaired extensively.

Kinzley said that enforcement was a major problem.

Zoning Petitioners Hearing Date Set

WAUPACA The executive committee of the Waupaca County Board has set the hearing date for its zoning administrator, Charles Sherburne, for 1:30 p.m. Dec. 10 in the county board room.

Announcing the hearing date, the committee stated that the purpose of the public meeting is to establish the facts in the case of the 77 petitioners who challenged the operation of the office.

General Charge

On Nov. 14 the County Board was presented with a request for a hearing to discuss the performance of Sherburne. Petitions had been circulated throughout the county and the cover letter signed by Fred Thomack, route 2, Waupaca, secretary of the Citizens for More Efficient Administration of Waupaca County Zoning Regulations, charged Sherburne with operating his office in an unethical manner.

No specific instances were cited in the letter but the general charge is that the administrator "is not conducting himself and the duties of his office for the best interests of Waupaca County."

"We do not oppose the county zoning regulations as such, but instead feel they are a definite necessity for the intelligent planning and development of Waupaca County," the letter continues.

"However, of what value are these zoning regulations, which were prepared after many months of study and hard work by a knowledgeable staff of individuals, if they are administrated in an unintelligent, haphazard, unethical manner by an unqualified person. This may

Secretary Likes a Practical Job

BY MALJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Miss Mary Thoma has found her niche in the business world and in the Fox Valley.

The discovery, however, took her many years and came as a result of a course she took at the Fox Valley Technical Institute in Appleton.

Miss Thoma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thoma, 620 N. Oneida St., is a secretary at the Harold Weiland Agency, Inc. She's had that job for only two years and she had to go a long route to get there.

She first attened the St. Joseph Grade School in Appleton, and then went to St. Francis High School in Wheaton, Ill. After graduation, took a liberal arts course at the College of St. Francis, in Joliet, Ill.

Not for Her

"After three years of liberal arts I knew this wasn't for me," she explained. "I wanted something more practical — something that would allow me to work with people," the young secretary adds.

Having made the decision not to continue liberal arts, but not knowing exactly what she wanted to do, she came home to "think things out," as she put it.

It didn't take her long to find out about the secretarial course at the Appleton Technical Institute and enroll in the business course that fall.

It probably would have taken her longer to learn about the advantages, except for her father, a foundry superintendent who was familiar with the school and worked with men who were products of it.

Work with Public

"He suggested I investigate the possibility because he knew I wanted to go into something that dealt with the public.

"I also was tired of just going to school without a goal. As soon as I got into the business classes, I immediately could see that when I was finished, I could go out and get a practical job," Miss Thoma explained

Because of her thirst to keep on learning, the diploma she received from the technical school was not the end of her schooling.

"I have a job and funds now and I can take other courses," she says, and she is doing just that. She has taken conversational German at the Appleton Institute in the evening and this semester is enrolled in a psychology class at Oshkosh State University.

Practical Studies

"I guess what bothered me was that I didn't have something practical. Now that I have a profession, I can go back to school — any school — for more," she happily states.

Asked what she would have done had not the technical institute been available to offer her a short practical course that led to a profession, she thinks for a moment, then says, "That's a really good question."

Then, after another moment of thought, adds, "I can't imagine what people in my position would do if they didn't have that type of a school."

Communities Announce State Tax Credits

Clerks in Kaukauna, 3 Villages Reveal Increased Amounts

Kaukauna City Clerk Karl E. Marzahl announced the credit as $4.55 per $1,000 assessed valuation, up 47.7 cents from this year's figure of $4.08.3.

A tentative budget calling for a $7 tax increase to $87 per $1,000 is to be considered by the city council tonight although Mayor Gilbert Anderson has warned he would veto the budget unless the tax rate can be reduced.

The rate for 1970 if not changed by the council would be $82.45 per $1,000, considering the state credit.

Kimberly Rates

In Kimberly, state tax credit for 1970 will amount to $2.974 per $1,000 assessed valuation, according to Clerk Mrs. Katherin Lochschmidt.

This is 26 cents per $1,000 higher than last year. The proposed 1970 tax rate of $56 is reduced to $53.93 with the credit.

State tax credit for the Village of Little Chute for 1970 will amount to $4.93 per $1,000, up 50 cents from the 1969 figure of $4.43, according to Village Clerk Gerald Locy.

A public hearing on a tentative budget of $936,577 is scheduled tonight with a tax rate of $76.86 in School District No. 1 and $77 in School District No. 2, increases of $3.86 and $6.40 per $1,000 respectively.

New Figures

With the tax credit, the rate in District 1 will be $71.93 and in District 2, $72.67.

Combined Locks Village Clerk, Mrs. Irene Rehmer, announced a credit refund of $2.57.5 per $1,000 assessed valuation for 1970, reducing the tax rate to $39.92.5.

This year's tax rate was $39.50 with a credit of $2.49 per $1,000 assessed valuation. The credit will be included when the tax bills are prepared.

Stockbridge Seeks U.S. Funds

Size of Park May be Doubled

STOCKBRIDGE — If all goes as planned, the people of this community and the surrounding area will have a park nearly twice the size of the present one and a wealth of new recreational facilities.

This is the hope of the Stockbridge Legion-Firemen Community Park, Inc., board which recently announced plans for the improvements and an application for federal assistance.

The board is seeking "roughly $30,000" from the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) as a loan to buy land and develop a softball and baseball diamond, tennis court, basketball court and 4,800-square-foot pavilion, said Roland Tonn, Calumet County planner.

Tonn, who is assisting the board, expects that the request will be acted on "relatively soon."

If this is the case, the board will try to start construction early next spring, and this probably would make the new facilities available late next summer, said Sylvester Penning, vice president of the board.

The additional land will increase the park from four to over seven acres. The park presently has only a lunch stand and restrooms.

The loan is through the U. S. Department of Agriculture's program to provide financial assistance to small towns and rural groups. To qualify, a community can form a public or quasi-public nonprofit corporation to serve resident of towns and villages with population under 5,500. FHA is a divison of the department.

The Stockbridge group was formed in 1965 and is governed by a six-man board headed by Roman Hoerth, president. Its membership has jumped from 60 to 1965 to over 100.

Regular events of the park are the annual Stockbridge Picnic in July, the Fall Festival in October and the Stockbridge Chamber of Commerce's annual corn roast in August.

Park improvement plans are being made in cooperation with the Calumet planning department.

Celebrate at Chilton

First Yule Party Held For Retarded Children

CHILTON — The first Sunday of Advent also became the occasion for the first Christmas party of the season sponsored by the Calumet County Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Harold Hoerth, vice-president and program chairman, introduced the afternoon festivities at Ebenezer United Church of Christ, Chilton, to the boys and girls and their families.

Carol Veers displayed the first of seven banners "You Are Loved" made for the program by a group which had been rehearsing for the past two months. After each session, Heidi Horn and others helped as hostesses.

"The Seven Jumps," a folk game, displayed the dexterity of Mark Kolbe whose movements are limited by braces from hip to toe. The seven sang and moved to "Like a Leaf or A Feather." Diane Steege displayed grace in "falling down."

Sounding Blocks

Individual sounding blocks were used to play, "Jingle Bells" with the rhythmical skills of Sally Supita demonstrated on the bells. A rhythm band featuring Paul Bastan on the drum and Phyllis Koenigs on the triangle played "The Anvil Chorus."

Kurt Schwalenberg played several Christmas selections on the piano. A group of Germania Ladies sang, "Star of the East," "Christmas Lullaby" and "Silver Bells." The Connors Trio — Kathy, Colleen and Kristine — sang, "O Come Little Children" and "Here Comes Santa Claus."

The program, of course, was climaxed by Santa Claus who distributed gifts to the children.

The party and refreshments were held in the Fellowship hall.

District Attorney's Pay Raises Turned Down By County Committee

Additional personnel and pay raises in the district attorney's office over that recommended by the personnel committee failed to get endorsement by the Outagamie County Board's executive committee by one vote Monday

The fight is expected to be renewed on the County Board floor Dec 9

The courts and justice committee had sought to have the district attorney's staff increased from two full-time and one part-time secretaries to four full-time and the pay grades raised from the present one grade 8 and two at grade 6 to one grade 10 and three at grade 8

The personnel committee recommended three full-time girls at the present grade levels.

Wage Hikes

Courts and justice wage hike requests for the two assistant district attorneys were to raise the pay from $13,000 and $8,00 the pay from $13,000 and $8,000 to $15,000 and $11,000 This was trimmed back to $14,000 and $9,000

Efforts by Supv. John Schreiter, courts and justice representative on the executive committee, to restore the cuts were defeated in each case on a 6-5 vote

Supporting Schreiter were Supvs Spierings, Hiler, Bubolz and Steger. Backing the personnel committee recommendations were Supvs Babbitt, Esler, Heenan, Austin, Helms and DeBruin

Babbitt agreed, however, that the personnel committee would again review the needs of the district attorney's office for additional personnel after three months

Supervisor 'Stunned'

Schreiter said he was "stunned" at the personnel committee's recommendations on the assistant district attorney salaries. He noted that salaries of $14,500 and $14,108 were being recommended for the family court commissioner and corporation counsel, respectively.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler contended that those salaries were higher because both jobs called for a minimum of five years legal experience

Supv Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, chairman of the personnel committee, said the assistant district attorneys were raised on the same basis as other department heads.

Esler also said the personnel committee had received a letter from the courthouse employes association objecting to any job grade changes without first consulting the association.

Year Behind

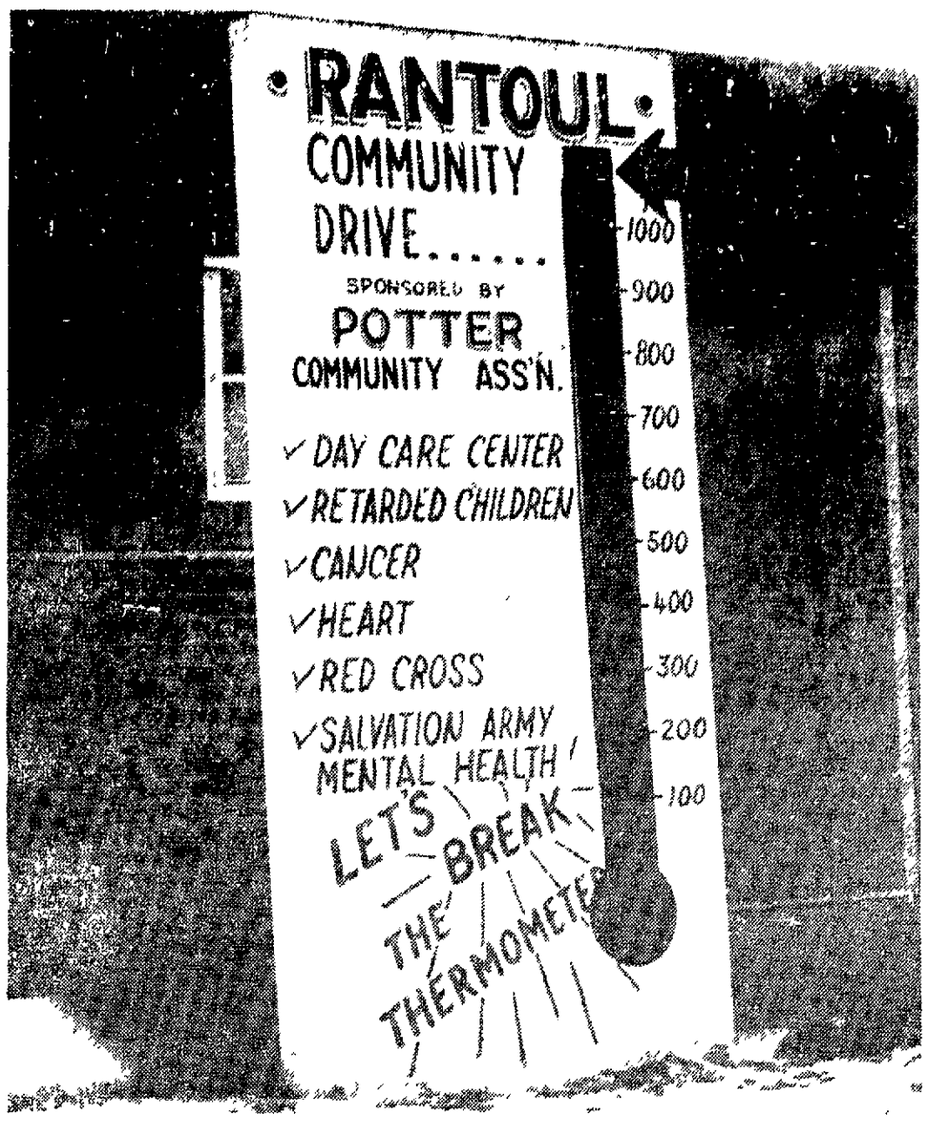
Supv. Eugene Kloes, chairman of the courts and justice committee, contended that the four girls were needed. "What you are giving us is what we requested a year ago," Kloes said

He said 100 more felony cases were processed through the district attorney's office this year than last year Babbitt said he had nothing against the district attorney "If this doesn't work out, I'll be the first to recommend another full-time girl."

The courts and justice committee also lost out on efforts to get job reclassifications within the sheriff's department

Their request to have the jailers raised from grade 9 to grade 14 and the Huber law officer raised from grade 10 to 14 was rejected by the personnel committee which recommended raising both to grade 12 Other reclassification requests in the department were rejected completely

Other reclassifications approved were veterans service officer from grade 17 to grade 18, corporation counsel from grade 23 to grade 26, map maker from grade 11 to grade 12 and clerk-typist in the highway department from grade 2 to grade 4.



The Only Town in Calumet County to conduct its own community drive has surpassed its $1,105 goal, with three solicitors still to report. The Town of Rantoul Community Drive, sponsored by the Potter Community Association, had reached $1,118 last weekend. Louis J. Micheln, assistant manager of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed executive vice president of the Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce beginning Jan 1, according to an announcement today by Oshkosh chamber President Ben Borsuk.

Appleton chamber Manager Donald L. Stone, upon learning of the change, said, "Micheln has carried a very large share of the workload of the Appleton chamber and the responsibilities which he accepted were carried out with the greatest planning, displaying excellent organizational abilities One of his traits was the ability to cause people to act on problems and to assume working roles in the problem solving process

"A goal of people in organization management is to assume positions of greater responsibility and that usually means accepting positions in other communities As in every community, there are plenty of problems for the Oshkosh chamber and I know that Micheln has the ability to develop a program of work for Oshkosh that will be one of the best," Stone added

"We wish him the best of luck, and look forward to working with him in developing programs of mutual interest in the Fox Valley"
